CALL FOR ACTION ON HARBOR BILL

Friends of Ton Measure Giving Power to Sanitary District Stir City to Critical Situation.

ONLY HOPE OF CHICAGO.

John M. Ewen and Prof. Goode Show That in No Other Way Can Needed Docks Be Secured.

Following close on his resignation as harbor commissioner, John M. Ewen started work yesterday "tooth and nail" for the Ton bill in the legislature, which would give to the sanitary board power to build—at once—a harbor for Chicago.

Developments of the day indicate that a hot fight will be made in behalf of Representative Cornelius J. Ton's measure by its old friends and an increasing army of new ones. Not only are a number of the members of the old harbor commission appointed by Mayor Busse strongly in favor of having the control go to the sanitary district, but many citizens have taken a hand in the fight and propose to do all in their power to get the necessary legislation.

A strong delegation, headed by Mr. Ewen and Prof. John Paul Goode of the University of Chicago, an expert on harbors, will appear before the judiciary committee of the legislature, where the Ton bill and the bill for city ownership now rest, for the purpose of arguing in favor of the former measure. Chairman Chiperfield has been asked to call a meeting of the committee for Wednesday afternoon, when the matter will be discussed publicly.

People to Make Wishes Known.

Other plans are on foot to give the people of Chicago a chance to express themselves upon the subject in terms so strong that they will indicate plainly to the members of the legislature what the wishes of Chicago citizens are with relation to the harbor proposition. Arrangements are being made to hold a huge massmeeting, which will be addressed by prominent business men, and particularly those who for the last ten years have been working to build up the lake commerce of this city.

Representative Ton is preparing to introduce into the committee of the legislature a substitute for his original measure, known as house bill 85, which will strengthen and perfect the original draft. Several legislators have declared their intention of submitting amendments to give the city larger powers and ultimate rights in the proposed docks.

One amendment, it is said, will give the city the right to purchase the harbor properties at any time, by giving six months' notice of its intention. Another, that in all probability will be introduced, will require the sanitary district to turn the property over to the city as soon as it has been recouped for its original investment, out of the earnings of the properties.

Only $2,000,000 Needed Now.

According to Mr. Ewen's estimates, based upon a careful study of the situation, it will require not more than $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 for the immediate development of the harbor on the north side of the mouth of the river, and more than twice this sum is available from the sanitary district funds. He estimates the income that could be derived from a pier, or possibly two piers, and a warehouse for the storage of perishable fruits and vegetables and package freight, would pay the interest on the bonds and leave a substantial surplus that could be used for further development work.

"I do not advocate spending a large amount of money at once," he said. "My idea is that we should start in on a comparatively small scale and demonstrate our project as we go along. If it proves to be a success, then there will be no difficulty in raising the balance of the money necessary for a complete development of the scheme.

"The crying need today is for some place to care for the fruit and vegetables that come here by water. They are perishable and must be disposed of the day they arrive or they become a total loss to the shipper. My idea is to build a pier and a sort of underground warehouse, not ice cooled perhaps, but sufficiently cooled to permit of the storing of this perishable stuff for three or four days. It could be sold at this warehouse, by auction or otherwise, as may be deemed best, and it would relieve much of the congestion on South Water street.

Provides for Passenger Business.

"The upper deck of the pier could be for passenger business, with street cars running out practically to the boatside. This would be a great convenience to travelers and should stimulate excursion business. Then it would be a simple matter to arrange to care for the package freight, and, in case it is destined for beyond Chicago, it could be hauled over the Northwestern tracks to the Belt line and delivered to any railroad entering Chicago."

All this, Mr. Ewen believes, could be achieved by the sanitary district, with its $3,000,000 of unissued bonds, whereas the city of Chicago is powerless to raise more money for some time to come. He believes that the only result of granting the power to the city would be that the harbor facilities would fall into the hands of one corporation, the Pugh company, and that no other company would have a possible chance.

"The Pugh people have obtained a charter from the state, to build docks and piers on the submerged land, and will sit back, knowing the city cannot finance the project itself, and wait for the city to come to its terms," he said. "The ordinance pending before the harbor committee of the council will not be acceptable either to the city or the private interests."

Prof. Goode for Sanitary Control.

Prof. Goode, who acted as an expert for the Chicago harbor commission, also enlisted himself in the fight for the sanitary district control of the harbors. He has made a study of harbor conditions all over the world, and his judgment is that Chicago's proposition is the simplest that has ever confronted any large city. It presents a simple feat of engineering, he claims, and could be built with comparative cheapness.

"I have studied this question from the viewpoint of giving control of the harbors to the sanitary board," he said. "This is my conclusion and conviction. The sanitary district holds the key to the whole situation. It already controls over sixty miles of docks, covering the entire internal harbor facilities of the city. It should have control of the

SCORCHING AUTO RUNS DOWN GIRL

University of Chicago Student, Daughter of Mrs. Frederick Lorenz, Is Seriously Injured.

CHAUFFEUR IS ARRESTED

Professors Note Number, He Gives Up; Law Observed on Boulevards Broken on the Side Streets.

A University of Chicago student, Miss Faun Marie Lorenz, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Lorenz, vice president of the Chicago Woman's club, was run down and dangerously injured by a wildly speeding automobile yesterday within a block and a half of the family residence, 5733 Kimbark avenue. She was on her way to classes at the university at the time.

The reckless driver, Alfred Roberts, later was arrested. His employer, F. W. Kickbush of the Oakwood Automobile livery, refused to put up $1,200 bail for him, and said he could bear the consequences of his act and stay in jail as far as he was concerned.

Speeding on Side Streets.

The accident, which it was feared might cost the young woman's life, happened at the intersection of Woodlawn avenue and Fifty-eighth street, and is declared by residents of that and other similar residence sections to be the natural result of the practical restriction of police control of automobiles to the boulevards, and the consequent transfer of the activities of speed maniacs to the side streets.

Miss Lorenz, who is a junior at the university, had left the residence of her parents shortly after 8 o'clock bound for the university. At Woodlawn avenue, she waited for two automobiles to pass and then started across the street. She was struck by Roberts and thrown for several yards. The chauffeur did not stop or even slow up, but tore on around the next corner. His number, however, had been taken by two persons, Dr. D. V. L. Brown, a professor in the medical department of the university, and Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed, an instructor in the divinity school.

Auto Does Not Stop.

Dr. Goodspeed had noticed the speeding auto a block before it struck Miss Lorenz and had stopped to watch it. Dr. Brown and some companions had noticed it from another automobile. Members of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, which occupies a nearby house, heard Miss Lorenz scream and rushed out into the street in time to see the auto disappearing around the next corner.

Miss Lorenz was taken to her residence a block distant, and Dr. Charles P. Small was summoned. He found one leg broken, her left arm and hand smashed, several of her teeth broken, a bruise on her forehead which it was feared might mean concussion of the brain, and several body injuries which may result in internal complications.

Returns and Is Held.

In the meantime the chauffeur returned to the scene, where the fraternity boys were picking up the girl's school books, papers, hat, etc., and innocently asked what was the matter. When he found out that his number had been taken he hurried over to the Lorenz residence, where he was held until the police could be summoned. When he found that he was to be arrested he is said to have announced his intention of departing, but Miss Lorenz's brother, Fred, persuaded him to remain. Mr. Lorenz accompanied him to the station and declares that on that trip with a policeman in the car he went over crossings at a speed greater than thirty-five miles an hour.

Residents of Woodlawn avenue state that the same man passed down the street almost every morning and always at the same speed.

FINDS TUBERCULOSIS GERMS IN MUCH OF CHICAGO'S MILK.

Dr. W. A. Tonney of Health Department Tells River Forest Folk of Ventilation Ordinance.

"Of 200 samples of milk analyzed by the department of health during the last few months approximately 10 per cent have been found to contain virulent tuberculosis germs."

Dr. W. A. Tonney of the Chicago health department made this statement in an address before the River Forest Neighborhood club in the First Presbyterian church of the suburb last night.

"The typhoid fever epidemic of Evanston and other suburban towns is due to contamination of the water supply of those places by sewage. The cribs are not sufficiently far out.

"Pneumonia, which caused the greatest number of deaths during the last year, is traceable to poor ventilation. The board of health is preparing an ordinance regulating the ventilation of buildings and street cars."

1,000 SALOONS MAY BE OUSTED.

Proceedings Are Begun Against Certain License Holders in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Proceedings that may cut 1,000 saloons from the number now operating in this city have been begun by the Anti-Saloon league. Thursday a petition was filed in the supreme court to force Attorney General Bird to begin proceedings to enjoin the council from issuing saloon licenses to over 1,400 of the present holders on the ground that under the Warner-Crampton law licenses are illegally held. Under the law Detroit by its population is entitled to 571 saloons. There are 1,588 here.

RAID A DETECTIVE AGENCY.

Plain Clothes Men Arrest Proprietor of the Place and Six Visitors for Gambling.

Detectives from Capt. Cudmore's district late last night raided the office of the Wicks detective agency at Eighteenth street and Wabash avenue and arrested George W. Wicks, the proprietor, and six men as gamblers. Wicks was booked as the keeper of a gambling house. The officers say there was a poker game going on. The place was raided once before and a hand book was found to be in operation.

SOCIETY WOMEN ARE RAKED

CITES BRIDGE WHIST PARTY.

Money Easily Obtained for Animals, While Human Beings Suffer.

Society women who play bridge whist for the benefit of homeless dogs and cats and neglect destitute children living within their reach were criticised yesterday by the Rev. E. L. Williams, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, in an address on "Chicago's Submerged Tenth" delivered at a conference of Methodist pastors in Wesley church.

Mr. Williams related how he had called up on the telephone the woman who recently had managed a bridge whist entertainment for the benefit of the homeless dogs and cats of her neighborhood.

"Was your entertainment a success?" Mr. Williams inquired.

"O, yes," was the reply. "We had fifteen tables and the receipts were $212."

"How do you take care of the homeless dogs and cats?" was the next question.

"We nurse them if they are sick and when they get well we find some one who will buy or take them. We follow up every case and see that the dear things are well taken care of. If the poor creatures cannot get well we give them a painless death."

Children Fare Worse than Dogs.

"I immediately called up the Home for Destitute Children," said Mr. Williams, "and I found many applicants were turned away from the home because there was no room for them. How I wished some of these poor children could get some of that dog money."

Mr. Williams also made a startling statement concerning the temptations to which young women are subjected.

"I have found men attending meetings at the mission," he said, "for the purpose of getting recruits for the red light district. I talked with one young woman whom I found singing on the vaudeville stage and I warned her against the temptations with which she was surrounded. 'O,' she said, 'I met with more temptation when I was working in one of the downtown stores as a model than I do here.'"

Efforts to Prevent Illness.

"As a result of the improved sanitary conditions under which society now lives, as compared with twenty years ago, one insurance company has declared a dividend of $800,000 on policies thus benefited," was the declaration of the Rev. R. J. Wyckoff, pastor of Ravenswood Methodist church.

"This, I believe, illustrates the main work of the church. Instead of trying to cure people after they are sick, we ought to prevent them from becoming sick. Save a child and you save a life. Same a drunkard, and what have you, after all?"

ARRESTED AS A SHOPLIFTER, WOMAN TELLS QUEER TALES.

Says She Is Trained Nurse and Knows Lieut. Rohan—Blames Drug Habit, Got from Treating Patients.

A well dressed woman arrested yesterday, charged with stealing $25 worth of lace from Hillman's store, said she was a trained nurse, was married, and that her husband was in good circumstances, that she formerly was a worker at Hull house, and concluded by beseeching Lieut. Rohan to release her on the plea she had known him as a child. At the store she gave her name as Mrs. Agnes Markel, 7273 Calumet avenue. At Central police station she said the name and address were not hers and added that she was addicted to the use of drugs.

"I know you and all your brothers and sisters," she said to Lieut. Rohan. "When I was small you often picked me up in your arms while traveling your beat by my father's house. Please let me go, as I am a trained nurse and must get back to attend to a patient in a north side hospital."

"Your face is familiar, but I do not recall your name," replied the policeman.

"Release me and I will tell you who I am," she said. "I was not responsible for my act, for I was under the influence of drugs. I got the habit while administering opiates to patients. I have money enough and do not need to take other people's property."

Lieut. Rohan said he had no authority to let her go and she refused to disclose her name. The name she gave was not familiar to Hull house residents.

BETTER GET A MAIL BOX IF THIS PROVISION BECOMES LAW

Proposal Made to Stop Delivery at City Residences Unless Receptacle Is Provided—Move for Economy.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—Persons who live in cities and haven't mail boxes in front of their residences are likely not to receive any mail after June 30, 1911. Certainly not if a provision of the postoffice appropriation bill becomes a law.

The provision prohibits any letter carrier from delivering any mail at any house unless there is a suitable mail box on the outside to receive it. It means that Uncle Sam is tired of having his uniformed carriers wait for people to take their time in answering their door bells.

After many experiments it was found that the average mail carrier loses about thirty seconds in ringing each door bell and awaiting response. It is expected that this provision will greatly increase the efficiency of the service and possibly reduce the number of carriers required. A saving of $400,000 is estimated.

The vast expenditure by the people of the country which will be required to meet the provisions of this bill in the way of providing new mail boxes is estimated at approximately $20,000,000. The average mail box costs $1.

WOMAN STRICKEN IN THEATER.

Mrs. Edna Vesey Dies Just Before the Performance Begins at the Illinois.

Death came to Mrs. Edna Vesey, 50 years old, last night at the Illinois theater, where she had gone with her husband and a relative. Shortly before the performance began Mrs. Vesey was taken suddenly ill. She was assisted to a reception room, where physicians attended her. She lapsed into unconsciousness and died a few minutes later. The body was taken to Rolston's undertaking rooms. Heart disease or a cerebral hemorrhage is believed to have caused the death. Mrs. Vesey was the wife of S. T. Vesey, a La Grange, Ind., stockman.

PREDICTS CHAOS FROM OPTION BILL

Walter Fitch of Chicago Tells Committee in Washington That "Future" Deals Are Necessary.

ATTACKS SCOTT MEASURE.

Congress Is Informed That Passage Would Upset the Entire System of Grain Trading.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—A delegation of Chicago board of trade men appeared today before the house agricultural committee to tell congress what a dangerous thing it would be to prohibit deals in futures on grain exchanges.

The committee spent the day listening to the testimony of Walter Fitch of the firm of Pringle, Fitch & Rankin, who asserted that chaos in the commercial world would result from the passage of an anti-option bill.

The Scott bill, which is under discussion, prohibits transmission through the mails or by telephone or telegraph between states, of quotations or other information relating to deals in commodities the actual delivery of which is not contemplated.

Mr. Fitch did not try to defend future dealing, but he insisted that any attempt at its eradication would bring down the whole structure of business as it has been conducted for years on boards of trade.

Declares Chaos Would Result.

"How would you readjust your business if this bill should become a law?" asked Chairman Scott.

"Chaos would be the result—absolute chaos," replied Mr. Fitch. "By passing this bill you will disturb something that it has taken sixty years to build up, and if you disturb that without offering something better, which this bill does not offer, there will be just chaos. I haven't questioned your good faith, and I don't deny there are evils in the system, but this bill will not do."

"I think no member of the committee wants to disturb a legitimate business," said Chairman Scott, "but what would be the practical result? Would you have to do business on a wider margin?"

Fitch had testified that wheat goes to the consumer from the producer on a margin not much above a cent a bushel.

"I would say 'yes' to that on the jump," he replied. "A much wider margin would be required. Then I would have to reconstruct every financial arrangement I have in the west. The system may be faulty, but it is the basis of financing the movement of grain. If you disturb it the grain trade cannot be financed. There would be just chaos."

Eighty Per Cent Actual Trades.

Fitch also had testified that only about 20 per cent of the business of his firm is for pure speculation. Eighty per cent, he said, represents the actual trades where men who have grain sell it to men who want to buy it. Mr. Burleson sought to pin him down as to how the Scott bill would disturb legitimate dealing in futures.

"The Scott bill seeks to prohibit a man from selling something he hasn't got and never expects to deliver, to a man who doesn't want it and never expects to receive it," said Mr. Burleson.

"I don't agree with you concerning the meaning of the Scott bill," said Mr. Fitch.

"But let us assume that is the effect of it, what then?"

Mr. Fitch asked to be excused from answering. Then he surprised the committee with a declaration that the Chicago wheat pit never gets excited. Chairman Scott read a newspaper account of one of the lively days at the time of the Pattan corner. It told of struggling brokers shouting orders in half cracked voices, wild excitement, etc.

"May I answer that in my own way?" said Mr. Fitch. "Well, if I believed all I read in the papers about those two houses," pointing to the capitol, "I wouldn't be here, because I would believe you are all crooks or crazy."

"Is there never any wild excitement?"

"I never have seen any and I have been there."

Points Benefit to Farmer.

Mr. Fitch testified that the present method is the best way possible for the farmer, because grain can be handled on margin of one-half to three-quarters of a cent a bushel.

"The producer is the best fixed of any one who touches wheat," he said. "The money is rolling toward the land."

Then the witness joined "Uncle Jim" Hill in saying America is soon to become an importing rather than an exporting country.

"Our market is on a domestic basis now," he said, "and the day will come in our time when we will be down here telling congress to take the tariff off Canadian wheat or else the country must go hungry."

President A. S. White and Vice President J. C. F. Merrill of the Chicago board are here with Fitch, with a big delegation of dealers from all parts of the country, and all are to be heard.

CARVING TO CUT PRICE OF BEEF.

Expert Will Demonstrate to Stewards How High Cost of Living May Be Reduced.

Just what part of beef is the most nutritious and how to cook it in the least expensive manner will be demonstrated at the meeting of the International Stewards' association at the Transit house next Monday evening. A side of beef will be cut up and several explanatory charts used by John A. Hill, chief steward of the Saddle and Sirloin club, during his lecture.

"I am going to give a practical demonstration," said Mr. Hill, "of the best manner in which to cut a side of beef in order to equalize the price on the various cuts."

The International Stewards' association is composed of managers and proprietors of hotels, clubs, and restaurants.

SEATS FOR ALL PASSENGERS.

New York Orders Interborough Rapid Transit Company to Furnish More Cars on Lines.

New York, Feb. 18.—There is a prospect that every subway passenger in New York will have a seat—at least, during the dull hours. The public service commission today gave the Interborough Rapid Transit company positive orders to furnish the maximum possible service during the rush hours and sufficient cars during the nonrush hours to afford every passenger a seat.

CALLS MORGAN BEEFY BULLY

Bawls Orders to Courts and Nation, Says Curtis Guild Jr.

RAIL HEADS AS HIS PUPPETS.

Ex-Governor of Bay State Asserts Magnate Is Forcing Public Ownership.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Curtis Guild Jr., former governor of Massachusetts, will publish in his paper, the Commercial Bulletin, tomorrow a scathing editorial entitled "Mr. Morgan and Massachusetts." Guild declares J. Pierpont Morgan is forcing public ownership upon conservative men.

The editorial bitterly assails the financier. It goes so far as to deride his personal appearance, and, in sarcastic apology to previous opinions of railroad officials involved, terms them the puppets of the New York magnate.

"When the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad," says the editorial, "started to control transportation in Massachusetts it began by defeating in the legislature a bill to permit the Boston and Maine railroad to acquire trolley lines, a course the New York, New Haven and Hartford, a foreign corporation, itself was pursuing.

"The governor called attention to the inequity of railroad conditions in Massachusetts in a special message.

Court Holds Road Law Violator.

"The railroad defeated the governor in the legislature. It failed to defeat him in the courts in which relief next was sought. Without a dissenting voice the Supreme court of Massachusetts declared the railroad a violator of the law.

"Until last week it generally was supposed that the individual responsible for this defiance of the courts, the law, and the people of Massachusetts was Mr. Mellen, president of the road, and that the vice president, Mr. Byrnes, would prove a better friend to the requirements alike of law and of citizenship.

"The railroad has been allowed to work its will in merging with the Boston and Maine railroad. Everything it asked has been done by the legislature.

"What has the road done? It has fulfilled not one promise so fervently made by Mr. Mellen. It now asks that having broken the law in the past its acts be legalised and that it be given such control of transportation, light, heat, water power, electric wires, politics, and government in Massachusetts as never has been asked before by any man or body of men.

"Mr. Byrnes, the suave and courteous, suddenly becomes before the legislature an apostle of the historic 'the public be damned' policy of the Vanderbilt family.

"Beefy Bully, Drunk with Power."

"The mask is off. We have all of us done injustice to Mr. Mellen—gross injustice. Nor is Mr. Byrnes the truculent braggart. Both of these men are really only hired megaphones through which a beefy, red faced, thick necked, financial bully, drunk with wealth and power, bawls his orders to stock markets, directors, courts, governments, and nations.

"Mr. Morgan has Massachusetts on the hip, he says, and refuses to recognise the right of the public to a loop hole of safety in the care of future mismanagements.

"Public ownership of railroads is a bitter step to take, but if Mr. Morgan refuses to consent to public regulation of his huge monopoly he is today forcing approval of public ownership upon conservative men who hitherto have dreaded it.

Blames Man Who "Rocks Boat."

"The sea of public opinion is rising and the signs of bad weather are unmistakable. If industrial, political and social conditions are overturned the blame will lie not on the men dong their best at the helm and oars to keep conservative government afloat, but on the heavy passenger, drunk with pride and power, who uses his privilege to rock the boat."

HABIT OF TREATING BLAMED FOR LAX CODE OF STUDENTS.

Prof. Eduard Meyer Says Standard of Honor Is Lower in American than German Universities.

The code of honor among American students is lower than in Germany, according to Prof. Eduard Meyer of the University of Berlin.

The professor deplored this situation yesterday in an informal talk at a reception given him by members of local chapters of fraternities in Evanston. The reception was held at the Sigma Chi fraternity house.

"I believe much of this can be traced to the practice of treating among American students gathered in bodies for various purposes," Prof. Meyer said. "The German student does not know what the word 'treat' means. If he wishes anything he purchases it and pays for it. I believe the American student is the loser by not following the same plan."

Prof. Meyer will finish today a course of lectures on constitutional history which he has been giving at Northwestern university.

YOUNGEST OF ALL BIGAMISTS.

New Yorker, Not Yet 21 Years, Sentenced After Admitting Having Three Wives.

New York, Feb. 18.—William Dresher holds the record for being the youngest bigamist now in captivity. Not yet 21, an awkward, ill favored butcher's boy, he was sentenced today to Elmira reformatory after confessing he had three wives.

The three women who prosecuted Dresher wept copiously as he was led away.

"You are young to have married these three women," said Judge Foster before he sentenced Dresher. "Why did you do it?"

"'O, I dunno," said the boy, sheepishly. "I just could not help it, I guess."

COOK ADMITS HIS IDENTITY.

Runaway Explorer Calls on an Old Belgian Comrade at Santiago, Chile.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 18.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the explorer, today admitted his identity. He visited his old comrade, the Belgian engineer, Rysselberghe, and the two were together for some hours.

The two men were members of the Belgian antarctic expedition of 1897-'98 and the engineer recognised Cook when they were fellow passengers on the steamer from Valdivia.

Until now, however, Cook had refused to recognise his former companion.

CHICAGO PACKERS INDICTED IN EAST

Jersey City Grand Jury Votes True Bills Against the National Company's Officers.

ARMOUR AND SWIFT HIT.

Charged with Keeping Foodstuffs in Cold Storage with the Purpose of Raising Prices.

New York, Feb. 18.—[Special.]—The directors of the National Packing company—practically all of them Chicago men—were indicted today by the grand jury of Hudson county, New Jersey, sitting in Jersey City. The indictments are against the men as individuals.

All the directors of the company are included with the exception of Kenneth K. McLaren, a resident of New Jersey and not active in the corporation.

The corporation and its directors are the same ones now the subject of a federal grand jury inquiry in Chicago. That investigation has been under way for several weeks and is expected to continue for three weeks longer before the voting of bills.

In the Jersey City grand jury's indictment the National company's directors are charged with conspiracy in that they kept foodstuffs in cold storage with the purpose of raising the price.

The indictments are to be handed up to Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze next Wednesday.

The directors of the National Packing company, according to the published records, are:

J. Ogden Armour,	L. A. Carton,
L. F. Swift,	Kenneth K. McLaren,
Edward Morris,	T. E. Wilson,
E. F. Swift,	C. H. Swift,
Ira M. Morris,	L. H. Heyman,
Arthur Meeker,	Samuel McRoberts,
Edward Tilden,	F. A. Fowler,
T. J. Connors,	A. W. Armour.

The voting of the indictments is believed to be the forerunner of the finding of more true bills by the Jersey grand jury.

Charge by Justice Swayze.

The investigation started on Feb. 9, when Justice Swayze charged it the evidence adduced showed there existed a combination of individuals or concerns an indictment for conspiracy was justified, provided it could be shown the combination had for its object "merely to enhance the price of foodstuffs and has no lawful aim."

The law governing such cases is borrowed in the New Jersey statutes from an old common law of England. The inquiry has been conducted under the direction of County Prosecutor Pierre P. Garvan.

Officers of the packing houses in Jersey City have testified before the grand jury. Another of the chief witnesses has been Dr. George E. McLaughlin, the Jersey City bacteriologist. He was before the jury last Friday and his testimony was along the line of proving that bacteria developed in meat taken from cold storage treated to the "freshening up" process. Experiments had proved to his satisfaction, he declared, that meat treated this way was menacing the public health.

Turkey Seven Years in Storage.

One of the officers of the Merchants' Refrigerating company, a cold storage concern of Jersey City, took before the grand jury a turkey which he said had been in cold storage seven years.

It was still, he maintained, a perfectly good turkey and he would be glad to have a chance to eat it himself. This was his way of refuting the ideas advanced by Dr. McLaughlin.

Mr. Garvan took before the jury the certificate of incorporation of the National Packing company, showing the objects for which it was organized. He brought evidence to show the directors of the company met and agreed to keep things in storage until such times as prices were at the point where it would be most profitable to release them.

Other witnesses were brought to show that three or four times a week the cold storage people received schedules of prices, and they were expected to act according to the instructions which these schedules contained.

Those who complied with the lists were known as "good managers." Those who failed to do so went under the head of "bad managers."

The ground on which the prosecutor hopes to base his pleas for more indictments is the idea that the public health is impaired by cold storage.

Prosecutors in Conference.

While the Hudson company grand jury was voting today Prosecutor Garvan was in Manhattan having a long talk with District Attorney Whitman about cold storage and the high prices of meat, eggs, milk, and other foodstuffs. The meeting was for the purpose of discussing means by which the investigators on either side of the river may assist each other.

Mr. Garvan had with him Assistant Prosecutors Quill and McCarthy, and he outlined to the district attorney the progress that has been made in New Jersey. He told Mr. Whitman he believed there was evidence in his possession which would be of material aid to the authorities of New York county. He expressed his willingness to put anything useful at the disposal of the district attorney.

After the conference Mr. Whitman learned of the indictments that had been voted in Hudson county and he was asked about the prospects of a similar investigation under his direction. The district attorney would not go further than to say that such an investigation was possible. He could make no definite statement in this regard, he said, because of course its final determination would be in the hands of the judges.

Many Concerns Involved.

The National Packing company was incorporated in New Jersey on March 18, 1903, and it owns the capital stocks of the following companies engaged in the business of packing meat products: The Fowler Packing company, the St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision company, the Fowler Canadian company, Limited, Fowler Bros., Limited, of Liverpool, the Omaha Packing company, the Hammond Packing company, the G. H. Hammond company, the Anglo-American Provision company, and the United Dressed Beef company. Its capital stock was $15,000,000.

Dr. Wiley in Bitter Comment.

"I could give the names of many men who have been convicted of food adulteration and who still are received by the highest social lights of this city," said Dr. H. W. Wiley, the government's food expert.

Dr. Wiley came here to testify before the Hudson county grand jury in connection with the investigation of the cold storage warehouses, but he lectured today at the College of the City of New York. He declined to give the names of those he referred to.

"When the poor man is convicted of a crime he feels disgraced," said Dr. Wiley, "but the millionaire who endangers the health of the community through impure food still is received in the highest society and retains his place in the church."

TELL OF PACKERS' METHODS.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 18.—Witnesses before Special Examiner Daniel Dillon in the attorney general's investigation of the meat packers today told of the methods used in buying live stock and its disposal.

Thomas Creigh of Omaha, assistant to the president of the Cudahy Packing company, and E. R. Cross, cashier, and Theodore Hines, in charge of the sales department of Schwarzschild and Sulzberger Packing company, were the afternoon witnesses. Creigh testified as to the methods of doing business and told how the stock was practically held by the Cudahy family.

Sulzbergers Hold Most Stock.

The stock of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger plant, Cross testified, is held by the Sulzberger family with the exception of a small minority of shares.

Neither company, according to the witnesses, has stock in the National Packing company. The witnesses testified no agreement exists with other companies to fix prices.

Six meat packing companies do 70 per cent of the packing business at Kansas City and about 90 to 95 per cent outside of the local business at Kansas City, according to the testimony of I. N. Rich, general manager of Swift & Co. of Kansas City.

Light on Prices of Stock.

Prices for buying live stock, Mr. Rich testified, are fixed on reports of daily receipts and markets for live stock at Chicago. The selling price locally is established by the Kansas City branch of Swift & Co., but the outside price is made by Swift & Co. of West Virginia, which is the selling company for all of the Swift plants.

Swift & Co. withdrew from the Kansas City Fruit and Produce exchange when prosecution was commenced against that exchange. When asked why Swift & Co. withdrew Mr. Rich said:

"It was of no earthly use to us. Then we got indicted for holding a membership."

James D. McColl, in charge of the fresh meat department of the Cudahy Packing company at Kansas City, testified prices for Kansas City are fixed by him, being based on market reports and the supply needed. Prices on shipments from Kansas City were made by the general office at Omaha. Managers at branches in St. Joseph and St. Louis base their prices on the cost of carcasses shipped by them.

Milk Indictments Are Near.

New York, Feb. 18.—The special grand jury finished its investigation of the alleged milk trust tonight and adjourned till Wednesday. It was learned that one indictment or more will be found, but whether against an individual or a corporation is not known.

CHICAGO INQUIRY SPREADS.

The little investigation of the dressed meat industry which Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis and District Attorney Edwin W. Sims started on Jan. 20 last has grown and grown until at the week end adjournment of the grand jury yesterday its national dimensions were strikingly apparent.

The latest element to be injected into the inquisition is the American Meat Packers' association, which includes in its membership about 400 firms, from the smallest neighborhood slaughter house to the Armour, Swift, and Morris giants.

Who, if any one, dominates this organization? This is considered an interesting problem for the grand jurors to work out.

The present president, Michael Ryan, head of the Cincinnati Abbatoir company, and the last year's president, James S. Agar, now president of the Western Packing and Provision company, both supposedly independent concerns, have been before the grand jury.

Peculiar Similarity in Cases.

There is a peculiar similarity in their case. At the time of the 1905 indictments Mr. Ryan issued a public statement as an independent denouncing the Sherman anti-trust law, praising the packers, and declaring that "the relentless, malignant persecution resulted in the indictments of nearly a score of the most progressive, enterprising, and public spirited men in the country."

Mr. Agar presided at a "food purveyors'" banquet last Monday night, at which Mr. Sims and his aids were classed as "futile reformers," and inserted an expensive signed advertisement into a newspaper the next day defending Armour and Swift from the charges made against them. The so-called "futile reformer" had him before the grand jury within twelve hours.

Now Being Looked Into.

The American Meat Packers' association, which now is being subjected to federal scrutiny and analysis, was formed several years ago to fight proposed government inspection legislation, and has been since maintained "for various reasons."

The grand jury had important witnesses yesterday in John R. Hunter, manager of Morris & Co., and L. Watson Ervine, credit manager for the same concern. John Maurer and C. W. Patten, employés of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, also testified. The grand jury adjourned at noon until Wednesday morning.

POSTOFFICES TO SELL BONDS IF MEASURE BECOMES A LAW.

Representative McKinley of Illinois Introduces Bill to Provide New Market for the Government Securities.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Small investors will be enabled to purchase government bonds from local postoffices in any part of the country if a bill introduced today by Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois becomes a law.

The author believes the scheme will fulfill to a great extent the functions of a postal savings bank and also will operate as an aid to government financing by furnishing a new market for bonds.

The bill authorizes the secretary of the treasury to dispose of the Panama canal bonds in denominations of $5, $50, and $100, payable fifty years from date and bearing interest at not more than 3 per cent. He is directed to offer these bonds for sale by popular subscription at not less than par to all citizens of the United States at first, second, and third class postoffices.

Postmasters are authorized to receive written subscriptions for such bonds, the subscriptions being forwarded to the secretary of the treasury and the bonds apportioned by lot.

NAGEL TALKS AGAIN TONIGHT.

Secretary of Commerce and Labor to Discuss at Dinner "Employers' Liability and Industrial Insurance."

"Employers' Liability and Industrial Insurance" will be discussed this evening at the monthly dinner of the Commercial club at the Congress hotel. Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel will voice the administration viewpoint. Other speakers will be George M. Gillette of Minneapolis, a member of the employers' compensation commission of Minnesota, and Lieut. Gov. Oglesby of Illinois.

CAIRO MOB QUIET; MORE TROOPS SENT

Another Company Ordered to Guard Against Possible Renewal of Outbreak.

BLAME PUT ON SHERIFF.

Examination Shows, However, That Victim of Deputies' Fire Died Instantly.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Although at present there is no outward indication of a renewal of the mob violence that resulted yesterday morning in one death and four injuries during an attack upon the county jail it is feared race hatred may possibly precipitate another clash.

Adjt. Gen. Fred S. Dickson arrived today, following the attempted lynching of two negroes by a mob of several hundred men, and took charge of the situation. National guardsmen now in the city number 166. The local company numbers sixty, M of Champaign forty-six, and G of Effingham sixty.

Orders Another Company.

Fearing possible demonstrations tomorrow, when the factories have a half holiday, Dickson has ordered company I of Vandalia to report immediately, and also ordered Lieut. Col. C. E. Lyman of Effingham to come and take command.

The company will be rushed in early tomorrow morning by special train.

All prisoners in the jail, about twenty-five, mostly negroes, will be removed tomorrow morning to the state penitentiary at Chester in a special train and under military guard.

A possible investigation of the apparent disinclination of members of company K, the local national guard organization, and personal recriminations of political faction leaders over the killing of Alexander Halliday constitute the aftermath of the attempted lynching of the negro purse snatchers, John Pratt and Lincoln Wilson.

Sheriff Fred D. Nellis is blamed by some for the death of young Halliday. Halliday, after being shot, was left to lie on the ground between the mob and the courthouse for three hours.

Halliday's Death Instantaneous.

A postmortem examination on Halliday's body tonight under the direction of Coroner James McManus, assisted by two surgeons, showed death must have been practically instantaneous from a severed jugular vein and spinal cord.

"If Sheriff Nellis had permitted me to take the Halliday boy away his life probably could have been saved," declared Greaney. "Instead, he lay there uncared for, the sheriff not letting any one near him. There was no need of extra troops to be brought in, but I knew Nellis would do it as soon as I heard of the trouble."

The sheriff practically places the responsibility for the charge of inhumanity on Gov. Deneen, claiming he notified the chief executive at Springfield of the assault and was ordered to permit no one to approach the courthouse.

"It was a case of either the mob getting me or me getting them," said the sheriff. "I regret the death of Halliday, but my conscience is easy. I talked with the governor over the phone and he commended the necessary action. I feared trouble and from 9 o'clock to midnight endeavored to swear in a posse of white men, but none applied. Then I swore in the negroes.

"A mob of about fifty appeared soon after midnight, four with handkerchief masks, and I went to the front steps and told them to disperse. In return they abused me in vile language. Some members of the mob fired, and the deputies, thinking it was my signal to fire a volley in the air, did so. Another shot was fired, and then they fired into the crowd as they saw it closing around me."

Says Sheriff Lacked Nerve.

"Nellis didn't have the nerve to approach the crowd," is Greaney's reply. "When I arrived with company K and wanted to take Halliday he told me to stand back. The company held a smoker at the armory last night, and when it broke up, about 10:30, there was no indication of trouble. I was not notified until way after midnight of any trouble, and it took two hours for a bugler and myself to gather the militiamen, which was quick work, considering the condition of the streets."

"Was there any disinclination on their part or yourself of the rank and file of company K to protect the negroes?" was asked.

"There may have been some personal feeling," he replied, "but it would not interfere with their sense of duty to the state."

Coroner McManus said tonight the inquest on Halliday's body would be held tomorrow. The special grand jury impaneled to indict Pratt was this afternoon instructed in scathing terms by Circuit Judge William N. Butler to investigate the attempted lynching.

Must Be Stopped, Says Judge.

"We had hoped that there would be no recurrence of the events of last November," said Judge Butler to the grand jury. He told the jury that the rioters should be found out and that the sheriff's duty was the protection of prisoners.

"This thing has got to be stopped," he said, "as the law, if not enforced, is without power. The shooting by negro deputies was justified by the strain under which they were laboring. If the mob can take the law into its own hands, the individual also can do so."

Mayor George Parsons ordered the closing of all saloons this afternoon, and tonight the chamber of commerce and Commercial club in joint session issued a proclamation decrying the acts of lawlessness.

The visit of Adj. Gen. Dickson may result in an investigation of the alleged slowness of the local company of militia to assemble. The adjutant general declined to state that such was one of the primal reasons for his taking charge, but said such action might be taken. He participated in the joint club meeting and joined in the rallying advice.

Wounds of Two Slight.

Of the four wounded persons only two show any signs of the affray tonight. One side of Samuel Wessenger's face was disfigured by buckshot. Horton Creban was wounded in the ankle by a stray shot while passing the courthouse, after escorting a young woman home from a reception at the Alexander club given to the Illinois Retail Merchants' association.

The majority of the guests at the club heard the rumors of the assault and rushed to the scene, handsomely gowned women standing in snowdrifts to watch the affair.

A number of business men volunteered to patrol the streets as long as danger threatened. One of these volunteers was John S. Asthorp, president of the First Bank and Trust company of Cairo.

Negro Sent to Prison Quickly.

Pratt, one of the negroes the mob was after, pleaded guilty of robbing Mrs. Rose Maloney, and was sentenced to fourteen years each on two counts in the penitentiary at hard labor. Pratt was indicted at 3 o'clock and sentenced ten minutes later. Wilson, the other negro accused of robbery, was released tonight and left town immediately.

The idea that especially rolls the Cairo natives is of having negro deputies firing on white people as officers of the law. Of the fourteen deputies that Nellis had to aid in the jail defense only one was white. Nellis' excuse is that he could not find any white men who were willing to be sworn in.

Nellis, who succeeded Frank E. Davis as sheriff when the latter was removed for letting the November mob lynch "Froggie" James and Henry Sakner, was formerly county treasurer. He relinquished this office for the shrievalty, but still is a city alderman, as is Capt. Greaney.

Deposed Sheriff Popular.

Davis, though deposed, is the possessor of a diamond said to be worth $1,200, presented to him by anonymous depors. It contains an inscription to the effect that he still has the confidence of the people and that he could be reelected sheriff if he cared to run.

HADLEY BETS JOB ON 'FRAUD

Will Resign if Stone Shows Nomination Was Won Fairly.

WILL PAY FOR RECOUNT.

Governor Gives Direct Challenge to Senator for Revision.

Jefferson, City, Mo., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Gov. Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri has staked his official position on the truth of his assertion that Senator Stone was not honestly nominated. He tonight issued a statement, in which he offered to resign if a recount of the ballots showed that Mr. Stone had been honestly nominated. He also offered to pay the cost of the recount.

This statement was in reply to the answer of Senator Stone to Hadley's demand that the senator consent to a recount of the senatorial primary ballot and resign if the recount showed he was not honestly nominated over Joseph W. Folk.

According to dispatches from Washington Senator Stone today followed this answer by a new statement, declaring the charge of Hadley to be "ludicrous." Stone declared Hadley made the demand for a recount "for spectacular effect, knowing that the recount could not be legally made at this time."

Text of Hadley Statement.

The latest statement of Gov. Hadley follows:

"I understood, and I think nearly everybody in the state understood, that Senator Stone refused to agree to a recount of the ballots in the city of St. Louis for the alleged reason that it would be 'unconstitutional.'

"I do not want, and I know the people of Missouri do not want, anything to be left undone to secure a recount of these votes.

"If Senator Stone will only advise the election commissioners in Kansas City and St. Louis that he joins with former Gov. Folk in consenting that these ballots be recounted, instead of raising technical objections to the legality of the recount, I am satisfied it can be done.

"But I fear that the distinguished senator's willingness to have these ballots recounted ceased as soon as it was found that the ballots had not been burned. Or, if the distinguished senator is opposed to recounting the ballots in this way and can assure me that he and the Democratic members of the legislature will consent to a recount by the general assembly, as was done on the office of the lieutenant governor, and that he will resign in case the recount shows that he was not honestly nominated, I will call a special session of the legislature at once.

Ready to Stake Everything.

"I made no answer to his challenge that I should resign and pay the costs of the recount in case it should be shown that my official charge that the ballots had been dishonestly counted in Senator Stone's favor in the city of St. Louis was shown to be untrue, for the reason that, to adopt one of the distinguished senator's favorite expressions, I regarded that proposition as 'gabble.'

"But since the senator and his newspaper organs seem to attach considerable importance to this proposition, and as I assume the senator will agree to the recount if I accept his challenge, I will say that if the recount does not show that ballots were dishonestly counted in his favor in the city of St. Louis I will resign my office and pay the expenses of the recount.

"Of course, with 897 votes counted for candidates for United States senator in one precinct where only 337 votes were actually cast, I realize I am taking no chance on such a proposition."

AUTO BECOMES BIG FACTOR IN INTERNATIONAL TRADE.

Government Figures Show Big Increase in Exports from the United States and Decrease in Imports.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—Automobiles are a rapidly increasing factor in international commerce. The value of the cars entering the world's markets in 1909 exceeded $50,000,000, against $9,000,000 in 1902. In this trade vehicles of American manufacture supply each year a larger proportion of the world's requirements.

A special compilation just made by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor shows that the value of automobiles and their parts exported in 1908 from France, the United States, the united kingdom, Italy, and Germany, the five leading countries engaged in the manufacture and sale, aggregated more than $45,000,000, against $9,000,000 in 1902, a growth of 400 per cent.

The exportation of automobiles from the United States has developed chiefly in the last ten years, the first record having been made in 1902, when the total was $1,069,782. By 1905 the annual export had increased to nearly $3,000,000; by 1907, to $6,000,000, and in 1909 was nearly $9,000,000.

American importations of foreign built automobiles have decreased. In 1906 the total imports of automobiles and parts thereof aggregated $5,600,000, but since that time have fallen to $4,000,000, in 1909.

FATHER BANSCHEID DEAD AFTER ILLNESS OF MONTHS.

Priest Formerly in Charge of Chicago Parish Succumbs to Effects of Paralysis at Ashland, Wis., Hospital.

The Very Rev. Cyprian Banscheid, provincial of the Roman Catholic Order of St. Francis, died in St. Joseph's hospital at Ashland, Wis., yesterday. Death resulted from a stroke of paralysis which Father Banscheid suffered last summer.

Father Banscheid was born in Neviges, Germany, May 22, 1852. He entered the Franciscan order in 1871. The struggle between the Roman Catholic orders and Chancellor Bismarck resulted in his coming to the United States in 1875. He entered the priesthood in 1877, being ordained by Archbishop P. G. Ryan at St. Louis. His first charge was at St. Bernard, Neb., and later he was appointed professor in Quincy college, Quincy, Ill. In 1887 Father Banscheid was transferred to St. John's parish, Joliet, and in 1899 he was appointed in charge of St. Peter's church, Clark and Polk streets, Chicago.

In 1906 he was elected head of St. Louis province, with headquarters at St. Louis, Mo. In 1909 he made the journey to Rome and was received by Pope Pius.

McCullough Is Said to Have Stopped Pay on Vouchers of More Boards.

SEEK REHEARING OF CASE

Officials Will Attempt to Delay Issuance of Court Order for Present.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Desperate efforts are being made to rescue the state from the predicament caused by the decision of the supreme court in the parole board case. Attorney General Stead late today served formal notice upon the reporter and clerk of the supreme court that he will file formal motion for a rehearing of the case, which has made a bedlam of state officialdom.

This action was taken after a conference of state officials and after it had been pretty well known through the capitol that State Auditor McCullough, playing safe, is preparing to stop issuance of vouchers for the payment of bills incurred by the state board of administration and of the rest of the offices and boards, believed to be affected by the Supreme court holding.

McCullough Advised by Counsel.

The attitude of State Auditor McCullough was taken, it is reported, at the advice of his personal attorneys, who advised him that the law creating the state board of administration is unconstitutional, in the face of the Supreme court holding. Under this law the board is directly administering the physical affairs of each of the seventeen charitable institutions. Upon the board, through its purchasing department, is dependent each of the institutions for food, clothing, heat, and other necessities.

The move of the attorney general is intended, as it is construed, to put a legal stop to the action of State Auditor McCullough. It is the intent of the motion to stop the formal issuance of the opinion of the Supreme court until the justices have had the opportunity to pass upon the rehearing motion.

Telephone and telegraph wires brought many anxious queries into the statehouse as to what it all meant. Worried appointees were told to join the "never mind" club and await developments.

In view of the interval between now and the time for the rehearing motion of Attorney General Stead in April it is deemed impossible by Gov. Deneen that there would be court proceedings carried through to the Supreme court which could be completed until late in the fall or midwinter. In such event there is slight probability of an extra session of the legislature, inasmuch as the regular session will be ready for business in January.

Officers Which Are Affected.

The offices which are claimed to be in exactly the same fix as the ousted board are filled by the following:

Board of administration of public charities—Lawrence Y. Sherman, Springfield; Dr. J. L. Green, Kankakee; Frank L. Whipp, Springfield; Benjamin R. Burroughs, Edwardsville; Thomas O'Connor Peoria.

Fire marshal—C. J. Doyle, Greenfield.

Pure food commissioner—A. Hanby Jones, Robinson.

Pontiac reformatory board—Samuel Fallows, Chicago; Charles A. Purdum, Marshall; Fred E. Sterling, Rockford; A. W. Charles, Carmi.

CONVICTS NOW SEEK RELEASE.

While attorneys for convicts in the penitentiary were filing writs yesterday for the release of clients convicted under the annulled parole and indeterminate sentence law, attorneys for the state were searching law books for arguments to forestall a release of prisoners.

Attorney General Stead in Springfield made a move which he expected to act as a stay in judicial decisions in the pending cases by preparing a petition to the Supreme court asking a review of the Joyce case, in which the high court found the parole law of 1899 unconstitutional.

State's attorneys of Illinois will discuss the decision at a meeting of the State's Attorneys' association called by President Charles W. Hadley for this afternoon at the Hamilton club.

Judges Walker and Dupuy held a conference with Wells M. Cook, special attorney representing Attorney General Stead, with a view to checking the possible flood of writs. A meeting of the Superior and Circuit judges will be held in case there is a rush of writs, at which the judges will arrange a plan to check the activities of lawyers for convicted men.

All habeas corpus proceedings which have been instituted before Judge Kersten for the release of prisoners will be argued in his court next Friday. This was agreed to yesterday by attorneys for prisoners and Attorney Wells M. Cook.

Chief of Police Le Roy T. Steward is pleased with the decision holding the parole law unconstitutional.

MAKES HIS POSITION CLEAR.

Prof. Charles R. Henderson Says He Is Not Opponent of Supreme Court in Parole Case.

Prof. Charles R. Henderson, whose address on the parole decision was quoted from in THE TRIBUNE of Feb. 17, said yesterday that he did not wish to appear as an antagonist of the Supreme court.

"In order to correct any misapprehension about my attitude," Prof. Henderson said, "I will say that I do not wish to review the decision of the court. What I have in mind is that the arguments used against the parole system as such, if generally accepted, would ruin the work of 100 years in prison reform. They would bring us back to the old and abandoned principle of retribution and destroy the most powerful motives for reform.

"The principle of the educational method of preparing for freedom underlies the Juvenile court and all of our reform schools and reformatories."

WIFE ALSO ON THE STAND.

Jury Calls Case Murder and Holds Butler as Accessory.

For the first time the story of the sensational escape of Walter S. Barnes, the actor, from the Wychmere hotel after he had shot and fatally wounded his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary E. Servoss, and wounded his wife, Mrs. Alleta Barnes, a month ago was told yesterday afternoon by a witness at the inquest. The hearing was in McNally & Duffy's undertaking rooms, 518 Wabash avenue.

The jury returned a verdict of murder. Mrs. Servoss having died, and held John F. Farrow, a butler employed at 1801 Michigan avenue, as an accessory.

During the day it became known that Detective William J. Egan of the Harrison street police station had gone to New Orleans in response to a "tip" that Barnes was there. He remained in the south for more than a week, but found no trace of the fugitive.

According to the detective, Barnes entered George W. Hill's saloon, 1548 West Madison street, after his flight and after remaining there a short time he left.

Passed Bad Check, Police Say.

The police also learned, they say, that prior to the shooting Barnes passed a worthless check on the Lexington hotel, where he was a guest when he first frightened his wife and mother-in-law by firing several shots through the door of their room in the Wychmere hotel.

The story of Barnes' escape in a taxicab was told by Charles Cook, 5040 South Paulina street, a chauffeur employed by the Waldon-Shaw Livery company, East Twenty-third street and Michigan avenue.

"About 2 o'clock the afternoon of the shooting," Cook said, "my employers received a call from a man who wanted a machine sent in a hurry to the rear of 2026 Wabash avenue.

"When I arrived at the place I found that it was an old ramshackle barn. As soon as I stopped my machine a man walked out. I later identified him by means of a picture as Barnes. He had on no coat and was bleeding from cuts on his lips and a cut near one of his eyes, which was swollen. He was wild eyed and excited looking and shouted to me to take him to the Chicago and Northwestern railroad depot.

Took a Round About Route.

"When I started off he shouted to me not to go down Michigan avenue, but to take Clark street instead. I sped down Twentieth street to State, then south to Archer avenue, over Archer avenue to Clark street, and south in Clark to Twelfth. Here Barnes called out to me to turn west. He seemed greatly excited. I then drove to West Madison and Ogden avenue.

"At this point Barnes called to me, saying that we had gone far enough and telling me to stop and let him out. I did so and saw that he was still bleeding. He told me that he was a west side business man, and when I asked him how he was injured he replied that he had had a fight with two women and that one threw a beer bottle at him. He said he wanted to get away and not have any more trouble with them.

"He then paid his fare and walked west in Madison street. That was the last I saw of him."

Mrs. Barnes took the stand and told of her unhappy life with Barnes, who, she said, was jealous, and told of the shooting.

Farrow was held as an accessory because, it was alleged, he admitted Barnes through the rear door of the house at 1801 Michigan avenue and shut the door on Mrs. Agnes Finnegan, the housekeeper, who was in close pursuit of the fugitive.

H. J. RACEY DIES SUDDENLY.

Vice President of Hardware Company Stricken with Apoplexy While in Store.

Harry J. Racey of 6132 Kimbark avenue, vice president of the Orr & Lockett Hardware company, died at the Michael Reese hospital Thursday afternoon after an attack of apoplexy. Mr. Racey was stricken while in a store on Lake street about 10 o'clock in the morning.

WIFE CHAINS AUTO TO STOP JOY RIDE

Woman Suing Alleged Rival for $25,000 Tells of Stopping One Pleasure Trip.

SPOUSE THEN LEFT HER?

Mrs. H. A. Leonard Charges He Threatened to Make Her Wear a "Snowball Suit."

Because his wife chained up the automobile and wouldn't let him go for a ride with another woman, Henry A. Leonard left his residence at 4443 Champlain avenue, the wife says. In retaliation Leonard informed her, according to her statement, that he would get everything she had and compel her to wear a "snowball suit" through the winter. The other woman in the case is Mrs. Florence Ferguson, 221 East Forty-second street.

Leonard was arrested on a charge of wife desertion several weeks ago, and the case is pending before Municipal Judge Fake. A sequel came yesterday when a $25,000 damage suit for alienation of affection was filed against Mrs. Ferguson.

This suit, brought by Mrs. Leonard, involves the divorce secured by Mrs. Ferguson from her former husband, Lawrence W. Ferguson, a member of the coal firm of L. W. Ferguson & Co., with offices in the Fisher building, and is said to be the forerunner of a divorce suit to be instituted by Mrs. Leonard.

Deputy Enters on a Couch.

The damage suit was brought several days ago, but was suppressed until a summons could be served upon Mrs. Ferguson. Armed with the papers, Otto W. Gnewuch, deputy sheriff, went to her residence in the morning. With her maid and a 12 year old daughter, Frances, she occupies an apartment on the third floor.

Gnewuch punched the bell several times in succession, heard persons moving about within, but got no invitation to enter. Thumbs and fingers growing tired, he poked a toothpick in the bell button and sat down on the steps to await developments. The bell jangled inside for an hour and then some one poked a muffler into it. After repeated raps that extended through another hour, the deputy went to the rear entrance, found a furniture dealer delivering a couch, climbed on it, and rode into the Ferguson apartment in state. He served the papers.

Mrs. Ferguson was willing to talk through the door during the day, but she refused to admit that grounds for the damage suit existed.

Wife Attacks Mrs. Ferguson.

At her residence in Champlain avenue, Mrs. Leonard bitterly attacked the woman she claims stole her husband's love and declared she believed Mr. Leonard to be crazy.

She said that her husband and Mrs. Florence Ferguson had been acquaintances for over a year.

Mrs. Ferguson secured a divorce from her husband in November of last year before Judge Windes in the Circuit court. The charge was cruelty. Early this year Ferguson was married again to Miss Clara Schwarz, a daughter of Mrs. G. F. Schwarz, 2724 Hampden court. At the time Mrs. Ferguson threatened to make trouble for the newly wedded pair, asserting that her former husband was forbidden to remarry in less than a year.

"This divorce was secured because Mrs. Ferguson was in love with my husband," said Mrs. Leonard. "Other excuses presented in court simply were subterfuges.

"My husband and Mrs. Ferguson met each other every afternoon last summer. They became infatuated with him and he went crazy. I understand they promised to wed each other as soon as they could get divorces.

Says Husband Courted Her.

"Well, after she was divorced my husband was with her all the time. Frequently he was away from home all night. My friends told me all sorts of things, until finally I was goaded so that I could stand it no longer.

"My husband left me last November. He went to live at 121 Forty-sixth street, and since then he has paid me $10 a week. I have had to call him up a dozen times a week to get that amount.

"Last fall he was cruel to me, threw things around the house, and finally told me that he was going to get a younger and a prettier woman.

"My husband is not worth a cent. He simply is what you call a bluffer. I own this home and the automobile, and when I married him, six years ago, we had $6,000. He ran through all of that and has been running up bills against everything, the automobile included.

Pays Tribute to Her Beauty.

"Mrs. Ferguson is a pretty woman, she has a soft voice and a lovely complexion, and is the sort of a woman who would appeal to a man. But I think my husband is crazy. There is no chance of a reconciliation. She will be sorry now when she discovers he hasn't any money.

"You know he wore diamonds and bluffed her, just as he has the rest.

"When I refused to let him take the automobile any more he said he'd get everything I had and then I would have to wear a snowball suit this winter. I have had a pretty hard time getting along."

The automobile incident that has been the talk of neighbors occurred several weeks ago, when Leonard went to the garage to start out as usual. The car started for the door and then stopped with a jolt. It was securely chained to the garage floor and has staid there since.

When Mr. Ferguson learned of the damage suit brought against his former wife, he said: "Well, murder will out. Here I've been the goat all along submitting to criticisms because I didn't want the scandal of my former family relations to be made public. I didn't make a holler when she got a decree because I knew she was in love with Leonard."

White, Mable & Conkey are attorneys for Mrs. Leonard.

Chauffeur Is Co-respondent.

A divorce in which M. R. Van Wormer, a chauffeur, was named as co-respondent was granted to Charles H. Stebbins, president of the Lake Shore Sand company, from his wife, Kate Stebbins, in Judge Chetlain's court. Stebbins testified that his wife had occupied a room at 1702 Oakdale avenue two days with Van Wormer. By the terms of the decree Mrs. Stebbins is deprived of any right she may have had in her husband's property. The troubles of the now divided couple received publicity some time ago.

Charging that her husband frequently visited questionable resorts, Mrs. Marina Delgado Parke filed a bill for divorce yesterday against Fred Kearney Parke, an auditor, whose annual income is said to be $20,000. She asks for the custody of two children and separate maintenance.

FINDS SPOUSE DIVORCED HER AND MARRIED ANOTHER WOMAN

Mrs. Nellie Lindbloom Says She Will Prosecute Husband Who Deserted Her and Is Discovered in Kenosha.

An entanglement similar to that in the Counselman divorce case has developed in the relations between Axel Lindbloom of Kenosha and Mrs. Nellie Lindbloom, 448 East Thirty-first street.

Mrs. Lindbloom asked detectives to look for Lindbloom, saying that he had deserted her and her 12 year old child five years ago. Lindbloom was found in Kenosha. He was indicted recently by the grand jury. Called before Judge Randall in Kenosha, he said he had secured a divorce from Mrs. Lindbloom two years ago and had married Myrtle Walter in Michigan a few days later.

Mrs. Lindbloom says she never received any word that divorce had been applied for and will prosecute him.

SECURES A DIVORCE IN RENO

Wife of Waldo P. Johnson of Elgin Gains Decree.

HE IS IN THE FAR WEST, TOO.

Desertion and Excessive Drinking Are Charged at Trial.

Mrs. Mary B. Johnson, wife of Waldo P. Johnson, wealthy resident of Elgin and grandson of Gail Borden, founder of the milk condensing industry, secured a divorce yesterday in Reno, Nev.

Drunkenness, nonsupport, and desertion were among the charges made by Mrs. Johnson. She alleged that for twenty years he drank to excess and compelled their two older sons to accompany him on his "celebrations."

Dr. Johnson did not appear to contest the suit. No alimony was asked for and it is understood that a financial settlement preceded the divorce suit. He is now believed to be in Los Angeles, where two of his sons are with his brother, who is the head of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company.

The Johnsons were married in Elgin in 1884. Mrs. Johnson said her husband first left her in 1889 and they had not lived together for various periods of time since then. Although Mrs. Johnson went to Reno a year ago to establish a residence to obtain a divorce, she and her husband have been together at various times since.

Shopping Together Last December.

They came to Chicago on a shopping trip during the holidays, and when a few weeks ago Mrs. Johnson left for Reno he checked her baggage for her at the railway station. He left three days later, and it is said his baggage was addressed to Reno and his ticket read to the same destination.

Elgin society was shocked when Mrs. Johnson filed her petition for divorce last December. Intimate friends had been led to believe that the differences between the couple which led to the previous separations had been smoothed over, and they were thought to have been residing together in Elgin when the suit was filed.

Only a week before that date Mrs. Johnson, who had been in Reno for months, arrived in Elgin in company with her husband. While a member of the divorce colony in Reno Mrs. Johnson lived quietly in the Colonial, a fashionable hotel.

Expected to Return to Elgin.

Mrs. Johnson, after her return to Elgin, lived with a sister. She left for Reno several weeks ago. In Elgin last evening friends said they did not know Mrs. Johnson's future plans, but it is believed she will return to Elgin to live.

John Russell of Elgin, attorney for Mr. Johnson, admitted when the divorce suit was filed that a money settlement had been arranged between her and her husband. The provisions of the settlement have not been made known. Johnson is said to be worth more than $500,000. He is connected with the Packard Automobile agency in Chicago and has other business interests.

The Johnsons have four sons. The two younger boys, Gail, 20 years old, and Richard, 18, are students at Exeter academy. Borden, 24, and Colvin, 22, are in California.

MAYOR'S ATTITUDE ON VICE AROUSES IRE OF CRUSADERS.

Printed Postcards Sent Out Calling Attention to Busse's Refusal to Clear Segregated Districts.

The refusal of Mayor Busse to give them any assurance that he will clear the city of the segregated vice districts has aroused the ire of Mrs. Emily Hill, president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, and her co-workers. Yesterday printed postal cards were sent out from Mrs. Hill's office to every woman in Chicago whose name appears in the church directories.

The cards announce a meeting for next Monday afternoon, at which plans will be formulated for continued warfare on the segregated districts. The postal card notices of the meeting read:

"Failing to get from Mayor Busse any answer to their demand for the enforcement of the law and the suppression of the vice districts of the city, the women purity workers who called upon the mayor three weeks ago and were then promised an answer within a week, have issued a call for another meeting of protest, to be held next Monday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock in the First Methodist Episcopal church, Clark and Washington streets.

"Mrs. Emily M. Hill, president of the Cook County Women's Christian Temperance union, who is one of the leaders in the crusade, insists that Mayor Busse has not treated the women with that consideration to which they are entitled from a public servant, and that they will continue the fight against the red light districts until they are abolished.

"The meeting next Monday will decide upon the next step to be taken by the women, and Mrs. Hill and Dr. Mary V. Maxon, superintendent of the purity department of the W. C. T. U., invite all women who are interested in a clean city to attend the meeting and help swell the protest against these vice preserves."

10,000 TROUT AWAIT ANGLERS

Kendall County Farmer Provides a Fisherman's Paradise.

BEAUTIES READY FOR FLIES.

Grounds Will Be Open to the Public—at a Price.

Here's a fish story.

But it's true! though it sounds too good to be.

What if somebody called you over into a corner and:

"Sh-h-h!"

After you'd sh-h-hed properly he confides:

"Wantago fishin'?"

You demur a bit. He grows mysterious, drags you out of the office, bundles you on a train, in an hour or so you get off and he leads you up to it.

Next a fly flashes, ripples the top of a pond and sip! it goes under. Your line swishes and seethes and your reel sings. You bend your bamboo double, the flash of a rainbow dazzles your eyes and a fifteen inch trout lands at your feet.

That's just the beginning. You do it again and again and again until speckled and striped beauties are piled around you so thickly you have to climb over them and start in a fresh place. At length you have the entire edge of the pond piled with trout. You drive in a flock of boxcars, load the fish in, bill them for home, pull down your vest, and start back to town to tell about it.

All Ready in Kendall County.

Opie Dildock?

Not a bit of it. Just an advance story of what is booked to happen in Kendall county when winter retires and spring comes in. Fishing such as never was dreamed of will convert a spot three miles south of Yorkville into the mecca of meccas for piscatorial arists.

Here are eight ponds stocked with 10,000 trout. They are on the farm of A. D. Havenhill. Three years ago he built cement dams, prodded the springs, sodded the banks, and turned loose the young fish. He fed them well. Now he plans to open the greatest fishing grounds on earth.

You go there and pay so much a pole or a fish or an hour, just as you please. Havenhill's hasn't fixed all his rates yet, but there's plenty of time before spring. Only thing certain just now is that 7,500 speckled and 2,500 rainbow trout are waiting to be caught.

Ponds for All Anglers.

There will be ponds for women, where nice little fish are stocked, while the wild ones are corralled in a larger pool for the benefit of the experts.

Proficient helpers will be on hand to bait hooks, instruct as to the proper angle for the poise of a pole, and pull out excited ones who wade in after their catch.

Havenhill's remarkable fish pools cover fifteen acres in a pretty strip of timber land in the Fox river valley. The spot is a part of his 300 acre farm. He has been experimenting in fish culture for several years.

BRIDE-ELECT CHANGES MIND.

Fiance Goes West and Miss Esther M. Hannan Finds She Doesn't Love Him.

A change of mind—a woman's privilege—is given as the reason for the breaking of the engagement of Miss Esther M. Hannan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hannan, 1041 East Forty-seventh street, and Herbert Francis Molloy. Announcement was made yesterday by the parents.

The young people had known each other less than a month when they became betrothed. Soon afterward Mr. Molloy left for a trip through the west. It was during his absence that Miss Hannan's mind changed.

She is a graduate of St. Xavier's academy and is 20 years old.

HIT BY IRON FALLING FROM "L."

Woman Alighting from Car Struck by Rail Tumbling from Loop Structure.

Mrs. Henriette B. Cirkle, 3338 Calumet avenue, was felled to the street and seriously injured yesterday afternoon at Wabash avenue and Congress street when a piece of iron rail equipment, falling from the elevated loop structure, struck her on the shoulders. Mrs. Cirkle is at her residence suffering an injury of the spine and internal injuries. When she had alighted from an Indiana avenue car Mrs. Cirkle was struck by the missile, which is said to have weighed more than 100 pounds. Pedestrians carried her into the Congress drug store, where temporary attention was given. Shortly afterward she was taken home in an automobile.

PREFERS BULLET TO ARREST

Dr. Gonzales, Alleged Medium, Tries to Take His Life.

SLEUTHS WAITING AT DOOR.

Chicago Boys, Charging Theft, "Ride Bumpers" in Trailing Him.

Dr. Louis De Gonzales, an alleged spiritualistic medium of Chicago, yesterday shot himself rather than submit to arrest in the presence of a dozen of his dollar-a-month women patients in his "parlors" in Evansville, Ind.

De Gonzales, who is wanted in Chicago on a charge of stealing $100 from Mrs. Caroline Ehlert, was found by Phillip Schaeffer, a brother of his victim, and William Fink, both of Chicago.

When the young men discovered the residence of De Gonzales, who also is known under the names Louis De Ricket and Anton Marion, at 118 Division street, Evansville, after "beating" their way on a box car in zero temperature from Chicago, one waited at the place and the other ran to police headquarters.

Sleuths Wait; Shoots Himself.

When two detectives, accompanied by the amateur sleuths, told the alleged medium that he was under arrest, he said:

"All right, gentlemen. Kindly wait until I finish dressing."

Stepping to a dresser in his room, just off the parlor where his patients were waiting, he picked up a revolver lying among his toilet articles and fired a shot into his left breast. Physicians who were summoned said the bullet had passed near the heart and that the "doctor" had only a slight chance of recovering. "With De Gonzales in his apartments was William Stein, a young boy, who said his home was in Chicago.

Schaeffer asserted the alleged medium had fleeced his sister out of $100, money that she had received as life insurance upon the recent death of her husband. He told the police that he believed the "medium" had some other motive than fear of arrest that led him to try to take his own life.

Use Newspapers as Blankets.

Schaeffer and Fink, who live at 68 East Thirty-first street, told the police that several newspapers which they had in their possession saved them from being frozen to death on their cold trip in the box car from Chicago.

"When we reached Mattoon, Ill., we were numb with cold," said Schaeffer, "and we thought we couldn't finish the trip. We took the newspapers and wrapped them around our legs and bodies, and they kept us warmer, so we got into Evansville all right."

Mrs. Anna Schaeffer, mother of Mrs. Ehlert, with whom she lives at 68 East Thirty-first street, said in the evening that De Gonzales had been a roomer at their residence until four weeks ago.

"A day or two after he left," she said, "my daughter missed the $100. She had it in a little bag and the money had been taken out and paper put in its place. De Gonzales gave spiritualistic readings when he lived here.

"One time he went to Woodstock to hold some sort of a reading, and when he came back his hair and beard, which had been black, were red."

De Gonzales, if he recovers from his wound, will be brought to Chicago to face the swindling charge.

SALE OF 1,225,325 RED CROSS STAMPS IN CITY REPORTED.

From the Proceeds $9,045 Will Be Used to Aid the Work of the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute.

According to a report made last night at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chicago Tuberculosis institute, 1,225,325 Red Cross Christmas stamps were sold in Chicago during a few weeks preceding New Year's day. In other parts of the state various tuberculosis associations and others sold 426,039 stamps.

"After 20 per cent of the face value of the stamps has been paid to the Red Cross," reported Supt. Frank E. Wing, "and the local expenses of carrying on the campaign have been met $9,045.07 of proceeds will be available for local use. This is not quite one-half of the estimated budget for carrying on the work of the institute during the present year."

These officers and heads of departments were elected:

President—Dr. Henry B. Favill.

Vice presidents—Dr. Frank Billings and Dr. Robert Babcock.

Secretary—Sherman C. Kingsley.

Treasurer—David R. Forgan.

Head of sanitarium department—Dr. Theodore B. Sachs.

Head of dispensary department—Ithan A. Gray.

Head of educational department—O. W. McMichaels.

Reorganization of the Illinois State association for more effective work is contemplated.

ELECTION BY NEWSPAPER CLUB

Vice President and Directors to Be Chosen Before Reception to President Taft.

A special election will be held next Monday by the Newspaper club, at its quarters, 91 Clark street, to choose a vice president who will be acting president of the organization until October. Charles N. Wheeler of the Inter Ocean and R. M. Buck of the Daily News have been nominated. Two directors also are to be chosen. Arrangements are progressing for the club reception on March 17 to President Taft, who requested the opportunity to meet the active newspaper workers of Chicago.

BANK IS ABSORBED BY NATIONAL CITY

David R. Forgan's Institution Takes Over Assets of the Hamilton National.

DEPOSITS OF $22,000,000.

Directors Approve Consolidation and C. B. Pike Will Be a Vice President.

The Hamilton National bank was sold outright yesterday to the National City bank, which will conduct the business of the two institutions from its present headquarters in the Temple building. The offer for a purchase of the Hamilton National bank was accepted by the directors of that concern late yesterday afternoon.

The transaction involves a sum between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000, according to a statement made last night by David R. Forgan, president of the National City bank. The combined deposits of the two banks approximately are $22,000,000.

C. B. Pike, president of the Hamilton National bank, has purchased a large block of stock in the National City and will be one of the vice presidents of that institution. No provision has been made to take care of the other officers of the absorbed bank. There will be no change in the name of the National City, it was said, and its capital stock will not be increased.

Forgan Takes Initiative.

The offer for the purchase of the bank was made by Mr. Forgan to Mr. Pike several days ago. Last Wednesday the directors of Mr. Forgan's bank approved the offer. The formal acceptance of the offer by the Hamilton National directors closed the deal. Only an acceptance in general terms was determined upon and many of the details are to be arranged later.

The Hamilton National bank was organized about seven years ago and has accumulated $7,635,948 deposits. It was formerly located in the old Merchants' National building, opposite the city hall, and advertised itself as "the only bank north of Madison street." It is now at the corner of Monroe and La Salle streets. The National City bank was organized about three years ago and has deposits of $14,707,386.

A comparison of the loans, capital, surplus, and deposits as shown by the statements of Jan. 31, 1910, show the following:

	National City.	Hamilton.	Both.
Loans	$ 9,563,395	$4,479,455	$14,042,850
Capital	1,500,000	500,000	2,000,000
Surplus	517,476	146,104	663,580
Deposits	14,707,386	7,635,948	22,343,334

All Liabilities Assumed.

The consideration in the transaction was not given out. Mr. Pike refused to talk about the deal and referred all questions to Mr. Forgan, who said:

"We will assume all the liabilities of the Hamilton National bank and they will turn over to us all their assets. The assets are in excess of the liabilities and we have agreed to pay a certain premium, which is of the usual size in such transactions. It is not exceedingly large.

"The vote taken today was merely to make the transaction certain. The overtures were made by the National City bank. I first went to Mr. Pike and made him an offer. He accepted and we proceeded to submit the propositions to the directors.

"The Hamilton National was on a perfectly sound financial basis and was paying dividends. The only reason for the deal was to establish a larger bank. No other consolidation or purchase is contemplated at present.

"The only thing certain about changes in the officials is that President Pike will be made a vice president of the National City. There may be other changes, but nothing has been determined. No special privilege has been accorded the stockholders of the Hamilton National for the purchase of our stock. If they want it they will have to buy in the open market."

Officers of the Two Banks.

The officers of the National City bank, besides President Forgan, are: David R. Forgan, president; Alfred L. Baker, H. L. Otte, and F. A. Crandall, vice presidents; L. H. Grimme, cashier; W. D. Dickey, and A. W. Morton, assistant cashiers.

The officers of the Hamilton National bank, in addition to Mr. Pike, are: W. T. Perkins, vice president; Henry Meyer, cashier; William Jarnagin, and Thomas P. Goodbody, assistant cashiers.

FOX TERRIER SHOWS GRIEF.

Refuses Food Following Disappearance of Its Friend, a Remarkably Intelligent Poodle, "John McKinley."

Grieving over the disappearance of her favorite poodle, Mrs. J. Frank McKinley is ill at her residence, 5430 Cornell avenue.

The dog, which disappeared last Tuesday, answers to the name of John McKinley, and ignores any other call. It is remarkably intelligent. It can dance, turn somersaults, and perform a cakewalk. It is feared the little animal has been stolen or else killed by a street car.

A liberal reward has been advertised in THE TRIBUNE for the dog's return. Since the poodle disappeared its boon companion and lifelong friend, Duke, a fox terrier, has refused food and cannot be consoled.

You've never tried anything like TIZ before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

It acts at once and makes the feet feel remarkably fresh and sore-proof.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

If you don't find all this true after trying a box of TIZ, you can get your money right back.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists at 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Dodge Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Recommended and sold by all big State street drug and department stores.

ESCAPES POLICE TO SEE GIRL

Alleged Thief Risks Death Just to Keep a "Dance Date."

GLAD HE DID, BUT GIVES UP.

Belle Had Purchased Glad Rags; He Wouldn't Disappoint Her.

A promise given to his sweetheart that he would take her to a dance was the motive that prompted Joseph Kapral to escape Thursday from the Harrison street police station. He had been held to the grand jury on a charge of larceny.

Kapral went into the Palmer house yesterday afternoon and was seen to enter a telephone booth by John McFarland, a detective employed by a State street store. Opening the door of the booth McFarland asked him what he was doing there.

"I am going to call up Ed McGuire and tell him to come over and get me," was Kapral's reply.

Whether or not that was his intention McFarland made him carry it out and in a few minutes Detective McGuire arrived at the hotel and Kapral was taken to the jail.

He is charged with stealing a seal skin coat from a State street store.

When arraigned before Municipal Judge Wells Thursday morning he was held over in bonds of $800.

Escapes and Keeps His "Date."

After a visit to the bureau of identification, where his photograph was found on file, Kapral was being led to the cellroom in custody of Detective Hurley when he escaped.

"I had a date with me girl to take her to a dance Thursday night," said Kapral to Detective McGuire, "and I didn't want to disappoint her. That's why I gave Hurley the slip and made me getaway.

"You see, I belong to the 'Jolly Dips Pleasure club,' and we pulled off our annual reception Thursday night. I told the girl I would take her and she got a whole lot of new things to wear. If I hadn't taken her it would have been all off between us. On the square, I didn't want to vamose, and I was up in the air about the Jolly Dips' dance.

"As we walked down from the identification bureau, I says to myself, 'Well, it's love against duty,' and I shot out the door like a bullet.

Telephones the "Dope."

"I telephoned the dame to meet me in the evening with her glad rags and we'll go to the ball. She wanted to know how I beat the case, and I says to her that's the answer.

"It was the swellest ball ever given by the Jolly Dips. My girl was the whole cheese. Everybody was crazy to have a spiel with her. Say, maybe I wasn't proud of her! She made the other girls look like selling platers."

Risks Death; Glad of It.

"Suppose Hurley had cut loose at you with his gun?" said McGuire. "You would have been at the morgue instead of at a dance."

"I took that chance," was Kapral's rejoinder. "And I'd do it again sooner than disappoint the only girl I love."

PAYMENT OF $1,237,913 MADE TO HEIRS OF HENRY FIELD.

Half of the Allowance of the Two Daughters to Be Held in Trust for Them by Agreement.

Payment of $1,287,913 to the heirs of Henry Field was authorized by Judge Windes yesterday as the first distribution of assets of the estate.

The widow, Florence Lathrop Page, received $618,730. The two daughters, Misses Field Burnaby and Florence F. Lindsay, receive at this time but one-half of what is due them from the estate. The other half, $309,365 for Mrs. Burnaby and $309,817 for Mrs. Lindsay, is paid to Bryan Lathrop, Owen F. Aldis, and Thomas Nelson Page, to be held in trust for them, in accordance with an agreement made last November.

Henry Field died Dec. 22, 1890. His will provided that the assets of his estate be distributed among the heirs when his youngest daughter, Mrs. Lindsay, became 25 years old, which was on Dec. 31, 1906.

Mrs. Burnaby formerly was the wife of Preston Gibson, whom she divorced on July 13, 1907. She married Algernon Edwyn Burnaby in England a year later.

RUNAWAY TEAM CLEARS AVENUE

Autoists and Others Alarmed When a Teamster Is Hurt and Horses Dash Down Michigan Boulevard.

A team of horses attached to an empty coal wagon ran away, after jolting the driver from his seat at Twelfth street and Michigan avenue late yesterday afternoon and alarmed automobilists and cab drivers while running south in Michigan avenue. The team was chased by Policeman M. Flannery to Eighteenth street, where he stopped it.

SAYS BALLINGER BETRAYED TRUST

Glavis, on Cross Examination, Renews Attack on Secretary of Interior.

CLASHES WITH COUNSEL.

Witness Questioned to Show Whether Motive in Testifying Is Malice.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Louis R. Glavis, ousted interior department official, continued his attacks upon Secretary Ballinger today under cross examination by John J. Vertrees, counsel for the secretary, before the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigating committee.

Wherever possible the witness reiterated his opinion that Secretary Ballinger was not loyal to his trust or faithful to the people.

At the afternoon session the witness was closely questioned as to his motives in seeking the assistance of Gifford Pinchot. Glavis declared he went to the then chief forester because he had faith in him and believed him absolutely sincere. Vertrees explained several of his questions by the statement that he was searching out the motives of Glavis to ascertain whether they were innocent or malicious.

The scope of the testimony given by Glavis and the latitude allowed by the committee in his cross examination are almost without precedent. The cross examination particularly is one of long questions and longer answers. Usually the questions have to do with the construction to be placed upon letters, telegrams, etc., that have been read into the record.

Testimony Fills 1,000 Pages.

Some of the latitude given to Mr. Glavis may be gained from the fact that, including the two sessions today, the printed testimony of this one witness alone covers nearly 1,000 pages.

Mr. Vertrees and Mr. Glavis had several long wrangles as to the meaning and intent of many of the letters and telegrams in the record. A typical instance was a telegram from Mr. Ballinger, in reply to a message from Commissioner Dennett of the land office, in which the secretary stated his reluctance to act in the Alaska cases and suggested that Mr. Dennett make the necessary orders himself as to postponing the hearings.

Mr. Vertrees sought to show that this meant that Mr. Ballinger was not directing the Alaska cases in any way whatsoever. Mr. Glavis, on the other hand, insisted the only construction he could put upon the telegram was that it showed that none of the officials in the department dared do anything in the cases without first consulting the secretary. The witness contended that the telegram conveyed a specific order by Secretary Ballinger.

Vertrees Gains a Point.

Mr. Vertrees, at the morning session, drew from the witness the important fact that at the time of the Cunningham claims were ordered "clear listed "in January, 1908, and up to the time that Mr. Ballinger left the service as commissioner of the land office, March 4, 1908, there had been no adverse reports on these claims and that the Cunningham journal, which contained the first evidence of alleged agreement among the claimants, had not then been discovered.

Before the session opened Attorney Vertrees for the defense asked that Adolph Behrens of Seattle, Wash., be subpoenaed. He stated that he expected by this witness to impeach parts of Glavis' testimony.

The examination of Glavis had not gone far when the attorney and the witness locked horns again on the subject of direct answers.

The lawyer protested to the committee that Glavis always "ties a string to his answers."

Senator Nelson Takes a Hand.

"It is apparent to me that almost every answer made by the witness has a string to it," said Chairman Nelson. "He has made no direct answers. If we were proceeding in a court of justice under rules of evidence this state of affairs would not have been permitted. I want to say, however, that the committee will be able to judge of the facts produced in this case and the only effect of these long answers with arguments appended is simply to delay proceedings."

Mr. Vertrees asked the witness to detail the acts of Mr. Ballinger while out of the government service that he considered improper. Mr. Ballinger resigned as commissioner of the land office March 4, 1908, and did not become secretary of the interior until March 6, 1909.

"His first act," replied Glavis, "was when he returned from Washington to Seattle, where I conferred with him and told him of the evidence I was obtaining in the Alaska cases and having had as commissioner all the information concerning these cases, he deliberately represented the coal claimants themselves. This was contrary to an act of congress, although there had been a decision favorable and another unfavorable on that point. I thought the act of congress entirely clear and that it prohibited his acting. He represented claimants in the Cunningham and other groups."

"Not Loyal to His Trust."

"But I don't see how Mr. Ballinger could have acted in these cases and ordered these claims to clear listing on the record before him," said the witness in answer to another question. "He wouldn't have acted as he did on such evidence if the property had belonged to him instead of to the government, which to my mind shows he was not loyal to his trust or faithful to the people."

Mr. Glavis repeated what he has heretofore testified to as to Mr. Ballinger's connection with the Green group where he acted as adviser to Congressman Kinkaid of Nebraska in buying a claim and told also of Mr. Ballinger having acted as referee in a dispute between two claimants.

"Isn't it a fact that Mr. Ballinger owned stock in the Green group, that is, that he was given stock for some advice as to the drawing up of articles of incorporation?" asked Mr. Vertrees.

"I didn't know he owned stock in the Green group," replied Glavis.

"I find I am in error about that," quickly corrected Mr. Vertrees, "it was in some railroad case where he received stock and not in any of these cases."

Pinchot's Name Brought In.

A cross examination of the witness as to his meeting with Gifford Pinchot at Spokane, Wash., in August of last year then was begun. Glavis said he told his story to Mr. Pinchot and that the latter called in ex-Gov. Pardee of California.

"But up to the time of your meeting Mr. Pinchot all that you wanted had been granted had it not?" asked Mr. Vertrees.

"Yes."

"What was there to be gained in presenting the case to Mr. Pinchot? The forestry already had intervened and your requests had already been granted?"

"I thought that in view of all the facts and the difficulty I had had in getting a postponement of the case and in view of the letters written by Dennett and his action throughout the proceedings it would be only a little while until these cases were brought up again to be decided before either Mr. Dennett or Mr. Ballinger and I did not think they were fit persons to render a decision."

Senator Root: "You believed the remedy was removal from office of these two men and you wanted Mr. Pinchot to help you in that?"

"It was not quite that," said Glavis. "I didn't know exactly what to do. I wanted to get some good advice."

The hearing adjourned until 10 a. m.

COMMENT ON THE "TRIBUNE'S" POLL OF THE EDITORS OF THE WEST.

LA FOLLETTE'S MAGAZINE—Advocates of Cannonism and of the Aldrich-Cannon tariff saw their hopes vanish into thin haze last week under the illuminating ray of light cast upon the situation by the CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S comprehensive poll of Republican and independent newspapers in twenty-six states west of the Allegheny mountains.

At the outset of the Republican congressional committee's campaign to fight for the reelection of those members who have been the consistent friends of Cannon and Cannonism, the poll is vitally significant. To most people it is convincing. The poll corroborates the contentions and justifies the attitude of the progressives who have fought against the continuation of Cannon rule and all that it includes and typifies. Dispatches from the national capital indicate that the reactionaries in congress and on the side lines recognize in the poll a final and convincing argument in favor of retiring Cannon. There can no longer be any doubt that he is too heavy a load for the party to carry.

Following this poll, THE TRIBUNE published the result of a poll on the presidency. This poll was confined solely to Republican editors. . . . It is convincing proof that the people in that part of the United States lying between the Alleghenies and the Pacific ocean, comprising twenty-six states and having 456 electoral votes, hold fast to the progressive policies advocated by Mr. Roosevelt. It has also been taken to indicate that Senator La Follette is popularly recognized as the leader of the little group of progressive Republicans in the United States senate who are fighting valiantly to safeguard and promote the public interest in legislation.

It is an effective answer to the claim of the standpatters, led by Aldrich and Cannon, that these men are demagogues, striving to bring discredit upon the leaders of their party. It shows that they are the representatives of their constituents, the true leaders of the party. Of the 3,050 votes cast, President Taft received a third. The high rank accorded to Gifford Pinchot is significant. The fact that Mr. Pinchot received votes in every state except six, out of those in which the poll was conducted, is also significant as an index to the attitude of the people toward the former chief forester and the well defined and aggressive conservation policies which he champions.

Taft Must Heed Warning.

ROCKFORD (ILL.) STAR [Ind.]—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE sounds a warning that President Taft must heed or be dashed against the rocks. This remarkable editorial utterance must set the president to thinking. He must begin house cleaning. He must cease in his efforts to drive from the party men who will not take orders from the "interests." He must detach himself from Cannonism and Aldrichism, and, as in the case of Ballinger, he must not declare a public official innocent on the eve of the meeting of a committee delegated to inquire into charges made against him.

Regulars Must Be Progressive.

BOONE (IA.) NEWS [Rep.]—The Republican party will have to take cognizance of this sentiment in the great west. In fact, the poll would indicate that party "regularity" in the west means progressiveness. There has been a sentiment all along that the west was strongly of this opinion, but no one was prepared for such startling figures as THE TRIBUNE presents.

Result to Be Expected.

WATERLOO (IA.) COURIER (Rep.)—Newspapers do not merely reflect the voice of their communities, but having been committed for years to party policies and men, they are, as a general rule, the last to break away from the solid ranks of the party. Most editors feel an obligation to be consistent to the letter of the meaning long after they have changed their personal views of men and policies supposed to represent the party.

The vote conducted by THE TRIBUNE is not surprising to the people of the states in which it was taken. Rather, it was fully expected. Perhaps its greatest value is for the benefit of Cannon himself. "Uncle Joe," ever since his boys in the house have been misbehaving, has been a great harper on the rule of the "majority." Having lacked all justification in reason and patriotism for his course as dictator of the house of representatives, he has pointed with exultation to his servile majority and made faces at the insurgents and the people.

Cannon's Political Death Blow.

FENNIMORE (WIS.) TIMES [Rep.]—To every one who has been following the trend of political sentiment, it has been apparent for some time that Cannon was doomed. His race has been run. It only remained for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to give him a political death blow. He never will be speaker of the house of representatives again. We doubt if his district will send him back to congress.

Should Frighten the Leaders.

NAPPANEE (IND.) NEWS (Rep.)—According to the investigation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE few newspapers, Republican and independent, in Illinois and Indiana want Cannon to continue as speaker of the house. In fact, the expression is so decisive that it would frighten any other party crowd than that of the Cannon-Aldrich lot.

Result of Vote Startling.

OSAGE (IA.) NEWS [Rep.]—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE poll would seem to have been conducted fairly and the results are certainly startling. It ought to give pause to the statesmen in Washington and cause them to take notice of public sentiment as expressed in the poll.

Augurs Good for Party.

SPRINGFIELD (ILL.) JOURNAL [Rep.]—These figures would be sufficient to cause consternation among Republicans if it were not well known that they represent no deviation from Republican principles. It is likely that nine-tenths of the editors who object to Cannon will declare that they are opposed to him only because they think it unwise to renominate a man whose policy has aroused so much antagonism within the party. Probably every man of them would explain that his opposition to the tariff law is confined to certain schedules and is not a protest against the principle of protection.

The State Journal has been watching the course of western newspapers and believes it is competent to interpret the significance of THE TRIBUNE'S vote. There is in the western and middle western country a feeling that Republican party policies are suffering from the domination of eastern influence. Western Republicanism, representative of the progressive spirit in the party, is registering a protest against this influence. It augurs good and not ill for the party.

Vindicates Stand of "The Tribune."

CALDWELL [O.] PRESS [Rep.]—The vote is an instructive lesson and is of high educational value as pointing which way the wind is blowing, for there is no class of men who so well reflect the public sentiment in their respective communities as the country newspaper editor.

It is also a glorious vindication of THE TRIBUNE'S Republicanism, which has been assailed by certain of the standpat element. It shows beyond a doubt that THE TRIBUNE'S brand of Republicanism is the brand that overwhelmingly prevails throughout the territory covered and portends that it will be the only brand that will be recognized in the next two years to come.

Poll Service to Country.

ST. JOSEPH (MICH.) HERALD [Rep.]—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has done the country a good service in its poll of the west on Cannonism and the Aldrich tariff law, and the expression is a fair representation of public sentiment on two vital questions. The showing, too, is one that the president and congress will do well to heed, if they really have the best interests of the nation at heart. The president and Republican officials especially should take warning and sidestep in the right direction if they desire the future success of the Republican party policies that meet the the desires of the people and are beneficial to the masses.

TILLMAN IS CRITICALLY ILL

Victim of Paralysis and Power of Speech Gone Forever.

BRAIN EXPERTS ARE CALLED

Family Is at Bedside of Senator in Washington.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—Benjamin Ryan Tillman, senior senator from South Carolina, is critically ill here. His condition is extremely grave and Dr. E. F. Pickford, the attending physician, said late today that the outcome of the senator's illness would be determined within the next seventy-two hours.

The senator's right side is almost wholly paralyzed and aphasia has developed as a result of a cerebral hemorrhage on the left side of the brain. He nearly has lost the power of articulation, and this is regarded by the doctor as the most serious symptom of the South Carolinian's illness.

He may recover from the paralysis, but in all likelihood, it is said, he will never regain the complete use of speech, the keen edge of which has enlivened many debates of unionwide interest in congress.

Second Stroke of Paralysis.

This is the second stroke of paralysis to seize the southern senator. The first was nearly two years ago, when he suffered a nervous breakdown. At that time he was treated at an Atlanta sanitarium and later took a trip for the benefit of his health.

Late this afternoon Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the government hospital for the insane, was called into consultation with Dr. Pickford. He is an expert on disorders of the brain.

The alarm of the family is evidenced by the fact that they have telegraphed for Dr. J. W. Babcock, superintendent of the South Carolina hospital for the insane, and the family physician of the Tillmans.

Senator Smith Operated Upon.

Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan was operated upon today for appendicitis and tonight was reported to be resting well and apparently in excellent condition. It was stated by his physicians, however, that no prognosis could be made until thirty-six hours had elapsed.

HALT IN NEW YORK'S SCANDAL

Conger May Not Connect Other Legislators with Bribe Funds.

WHO ELSE WAS IN ON $4,000?

Senator Alleges Allds Attempted Extortion in Highway Bill.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 18.—[Special.—When Senator Conger left the stand in the Allds trial today indications were that he would not connect the names of any more legislators with bribery funds.

When the trial adjourned until Tuesday the senate was wrangling on the question whether Senator Conger would be compelled to give the names of members of the legislature who participated in the distribution of $4,000 handed to Jean Barnet. The presiding officer, Senator Davis, said he would take the question under advisement and announce his decision on Tuesday.

Senator Conger also stated that he did not remember who in Albany was responsible for the $10,000 demand made upon the bridge companies at their meeting in Syracuse in 1905. Senator Conger went further and gave a clean bill of health to all members of the legislature he has so far mentioned in connection with the bridge "strike" legislation since 1901, except Speaker Nixon and Assemblymen Allds and Burnet.

In the next breath Conger remembered another conversation he had had with Senator Allds when Allds was chairman of the joint legislative committee which drafted the new highway law in 1907. It was at night in the New York Central station in Albany while Allds was buying a ticket.

"'You may state that conversation,' said Judge Vanmeesen.

"Senator Allds said: 'We are getting our report upon that bill prepared on the general highway law. There are some pretty d——n bad things going into that for you fellows (meaning the bridge interests) and you had better come up and see us about it.'"

"What did you say?"

"I said: 'I am not interested at all in the matter and I don't care to see you.'"

Owing to the death of Mr. Harry J. Racey, Vice-Pres. of the Orr & Lockett Hardware Co., the place of business will be closed today at noon.

BARE INTERESTS OF GUGGENHEIMS

Witnesses Before Senate Committee Explain Alaska Holdings.

DENY MONOPOLY CHARGE.

Option on Cunningham Coal Lands Is Put in Evidence; Morgan Involved.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—With the avowed purpose of "setting itself right before the public," the Guggenheim-Morgan syndicate, which has been accused of grabbing up the greater part of Alaska, submitted to a committee of the senate today a complete statement of its operations in the territory.

It produced the option which was first made public in Seattle last fall whereby the Guggenheims were to give $250,000 in cash and $2,500,000 worth of stock for a half interest in the Cunningham coal claims.

Throgh two official representatives the syndicate laid before the senate committee its private records to show that its coal, railroad, steamship, mining, and fishing interests did not constitute a monopoly of those interests in Alaska.

"We have been accused in the press of doing so many things that are wrong that we should like to have this opportunity of setting ourselves right," said John N. Steele of New York, the representative of the Alaska syndicate.

Presents Statement of Interests.

Mr. Steele, with Stephen Birch of Kennecoot, Alaska, gave to the committee a full statement of the interests of the Guggenheims and J. P. Morgan & Co. in the Alaskan district. These are all controlled, he said, through the Alaska syndicate, formed in the spring of 1906. It controls:

The Northwestern Commercial company.
The Alaska Steamship company.
The Northwest Fisheries.
The Kennecoot Mine company.
The Copper River and Northwestern railway.
The Katalla company.

None of these concerns, said the representatives of the syndicate, holds control over the Alaskan business in which it is specifically engaged. The Northwest Fisheries company operates twelve canneries with a total pack of 300,000 cases a year. There are twenty-eight other canneries, it is asserted, with a total pack of approximately 2,000,000 cases.

The Alaska Steamship company is only one of a number of lines plying between American and Alaskan ports and operates no boats on the Yukon river. The syndicate controls the Bonanza copper mines, but has no other copper properties in the territory. These mines embrace about 3,240 acres.

Option Put in Evidence.

These facts were submitted to Senator Beveridge's committee on territories by the two officials of the smelter trust interests for the purpose, as they said, of giving the public definite knowledge of the Guggenheim operations. They then offered a copy of the option held by the Guggenheims on the Cunningham coal properties.

This option was effected by Clarence Cunningham and two others of the coal land claimants, who were trying to combine the thirty so-called Cunningham claims and turn them over to the Guggenheims.

The facts brought out before the committee on territories will have no effect on the Ballinger investigation now in progress, as the Guggenheim interest in the Cunningham claims already had been made a matter of record.

Mr. Steele said the Alaska syndicate was composed of J. P. Morgan & Co., Daniel Guggenheim, Murray Guggenheim, and S. R. Guggenheim. These three members of M. Guggenheim Sons were the only ones of the smelter trust family interested in the Alaska syndicate.

Purpose to Develop Trade.

In getting control of the Cunningham coal land properties, the Guggenheims proposed to develop a great coal trade along the Pacific coast and to supply cheap coal for their own railroad. The failure of the Cunningham interest to obtain patents to their claims and the fight which has since developed over these properties has prevented the exercise of the option, which was drawn July 20, 1907.

"There was an agreement," said Mr. Steele in reviewing the option, "that the corporation formed to handle the coal properties should furnish the railroad with all the coal it needed at $1.75 a ton at the mines. It also was to make a contract to sell the coal at the mine to Mr. Guggenheim for a period of twenty-five years at a price of $2.50 a ton."

"To dispose of as he liked?" asked Chairman Beveridge.

"Well, he agreed to make a market for the coal on the Pacific coast," said Mr. Steele.

The witness said the option whereby the Guggenheims were to get control of the Cunningham claims had been submitted to him for an opinion as to the legality of the action.

Transaction Called Legal.

"We gave the opinion that the transaction was perfectly legal," said Mr. Steele. "Since the claims had passed to final entry the owners had the right to deal with them, but the purchaser took them subject to the right of the government to set them aside for fraud or illegality."

"Has any money ever been paid to Mr. Cunningham under this option agreement?" was asked.

"None whatever," said Mr. Birch.

Break Into House to Serve Warrant.

Two detectives of the Hyde Park police station, though they had a search warrant, were compelled to break into the residence of Gurney F. Coleman, 3245 Cornell avenue, yesterday after guarding the house Thursday night. They were after a set of furs valued at $200, the property of Henry H. Swan, 6000 Michigan avenue. Coleman is charged with larceny as bailee.

TAFT TO FIGHT FOR PUBLICITY

Will Ask $50,000 to Enforce Corporation Tax Law.

CONGRESS MAY BE BALKY.

Treasury Department Opposes President's View.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—President Taft has let it be known that he will press congress for the $50,000 appropriation to put in force the publicity feature of the corporation tax law.

Assured by many of his friends that congress intends to do nothing to help toward that end, he is looking about for some weapon with which he may obtain the money needed to make corporation records public.

While the president insists that he intends to carry out the publicity feature, the treasury department is frankly opposed to it. Secretary MacVeagh and Acting Secretary Norton believe that publicity of the returns of small corporations will do no good in a public way, and actually will bring harm to the "little fellows" who do not want their business secrets bared to the public gaze.

This is the attitude that has been taken by other branches of the administration, and against which the president is working in his attempt to carry out the publicity feature.

Other Arguments at Hand.

The law of 1882, which was produced as a reason why no money could be used to make the records public, was not as good an argument as some others which could have been produced to cut out the publicity feature, but it apparently was effective.

The demise of the publicity feature of the law is assured unless the president takes up a vigorous crusade for the needed appropriation, and it is a question whether he can obtain it under any circumstances. Congress apparently is becoming convinced that it never intended to make public the corporation returns, and is not disposed to appropriate anything more for the indexing and arranging of returns for public access.

The president has hopes of obtaining an appropriation through the general deficiency bill, and has given consideration to the advisability of sending a message to the two houses bearing on the subject.

Payne Puts It Up to Tawney.

Chairman Payne of the house ways and means committee declared tonight that no amendment of the tariff act was necessary in order to obtain the $50,000 appropriation for the publicity feature. He said the ways and means committee would not have to pass on the case and that it would rest entirely with the appropriations committee, of which James A. Tawney is chairman.

Mr. Payne and Mr. Norton held a long conference today, but denied that it had any bearing on the annulment of the publicity feature of the corporation tax law.

TO REORGANIZE POSTAL WORK.

Senator Carter Introduces Duplicate of Measure Offered in the House.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—There is a possibility of a general reorganization of the postoffice department. Senator Carter today introduced in the senate a measure to this end and its duplicate was presented in the house by Representative Weeks of Massachusetts. The bill looks to the creation of a new system for the management of the postal affair of the country, and it is intended to render unnecessary any special legislation regarding the handling of second class mail matter, which recently has been the subject of much agitation. The purpose is to place the postoffice department on a strictly business basis, with a continuing administration of its machinery.

Delegation of Chicagoans Asks That They Receive Separate Racial Classification in Census.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—A delegation of Chicago Lithuanians arrived today to present arguments to the census bureau in furtherance of their request to recognize their countrymen as a distinct racial aggregation in the forthcoming census. The delegation consists of County Commissioner Joseph Elias and three priests. The Lithuanians object to being classified as Russians, Austrians, or Poles, according to the country of their origin.

INJUNCTION BILL OFFERED IN HOUSE

Moon of Pennsylvania Introduces What Is Known as Administration Measure.

MEETS PLEDGE OF PARTY.

Provides No Writ Shall Be Issued Without Notice and Opportunity to Be Heard.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—What is generally recognized as the administration bill on the important subject of the regulation of court injunctions was introduced today by Representative R. C. Moon (Republican) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee on revision of laws.

The bill deals with a subject in which the president has been deeply interested and one which he has been anxious to see enacted into law in careful form that would redeem the pledges of his party on the subject and at the same time constitute no drastic innovation in legal procedure.

Bill Brief but Specific.

The Moon bill is a brief one, covering a single typewritten sheet. In effect it provides that no injunction, whether interlocutory or permanent, shall be issued by any federal court or judge without previous notice and an opportunity to be heard on behalf of the parties enjoyed.

But, it says further, if there appears a probability that "immediate and irreparable injury" is likely to ensue the court may issue a temporary restraining order without notice. It is required that every such order shall define the injury, state why irreparable, and why granted without notice, and shall not extend more than seven days from the time the notice is served.

Author Explains Measure.

In explaining his bill, Mr. Moon said:

"There are radical differences between the Moon bill and any other bill on this important subject that has been heretofore introduced. My bill defines accurately the distinction between the various phases of the injunctive process. It divides injunctions proper into two comprehensive classes—interlocutory injunctions and final injunctions—and prohibits absolutely the issuance of such injunctions without an opportunity of the defendant to be heard.

"An important feature of the Monon bill is that it accurately and definitely defines the two essential prerequisites of a restraining order without notice. First, by irreparable injury, and second, the additional requirement that the giving of notice or the delay incident thereto would prevent the doing of the act sought to be restrained before notice could be given.

"It also requires that the judge before granting this order shall find these facts judicially and shall spread them upon the records of the court."

Tonsiline Cures Sore Throat

The throat is one of the most delicate parts of the body. It is also one of the most important, and should be given the best possible care.

The throat is the gateway to the body. The air we breathe, the food we eat, the liquids we drink, all pass through it. It is very easily affected by cold, strain, exposure, etc., and Sore Throat is therefore one of our most common ailments. Strangely enough, it is also one of the most neglected.

Sore Throat is a very serious matter, for the whole system is in danger in consequence of it.

Every Sore Throat patient is a candidate for Tonsilitis, Quinsy, Diphtheria and other serious or fatal diseases, all of which can be prevented by the timely cure of the Sore Throat by the use of TONSILINE.

If taken in time a dose or two will do it. TONSILINE is made to cure throat diseases and nothing else. It is the one remedy for this purpose sold largely in the United States. Every user endorses it; every physician, knowing its virtues, commends it.

The one most important thing to remember about TONSILINE is the fact that it really does cure Sore Throat.

All druggists, 25c and 50c bottles. The Tonsiline Co., Canton, Ohio.

Covering the Nation

If no publication in America had a circulation of more than 10,000 copies, modern advertising would be impossible. Some areas would then be subject to extravagant duplication and others would be untouched, and the labor of calculating distribution would be prohibitive.

With a medium that covers the nation, modern merchandizing is possible. The advertiser knows where he is advertising. He knows what kind of people buy the magazine, and why they buy it. And he can inform his dealers in the confidence that they, too, will understand the publication that he is using, and the effect such advertising will have on their sales.

Progressive advertising logic, on goods concerning women, leads up to THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL as the medium of maximum efficiency.

NOT AN INCH OF HEALTHY SKIN

Left on Whole Body—Boy of Five a Mass of Itching Eruption and His Screams were Heart-Breaking—Bandages Stuck to His Flesh.

CURED BY CUTICURA TWELVE YEARS AGO

"My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse until we could not dress him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores. The bandages used to stick to his skin and in removing them it used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heart-breaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. His skin peeled off twenty times, but it finally yielded to the treatment. Now I can say that he is entirely cured, and a stronger and healthier boy you never saw than he is to-day, twelve years or more since the cure was effected. Robert Wattam, 1148 Forty-eighth St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9, 1909."

Millions of women prefer Cuticura Soap to all other skin soaps for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands. For rashes, itchings and chafings, red, rough hands, dry, thin and falling hair, for infantile eruptions and skin blemishes and every purpose of the toilet, bath and nursery, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are invaluable.

Cuticura Soap (35c.), Cuticura Ointment (50c.) and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60), sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. ADVISES THE CITY TO PAY PROMPTLY

Municipal Expert Says Slipshod Methods Impose a Heavy Burden.

WOULD CENTER BUYING.

Merriam Commission and Department Heads Hear Dr. F. A. Cleveland.

"When a city once lets its credit run down and gets in disrepute with tradesmen, it takes a great many years to restore their confidence, no matter how much care is taken to assure them of fair treatment."

This assertion was made by Dr. F. A. Cleveland, director of the bureau of municipal research of New York, in the course of a talk before the Merriam commission yesterday upon how to revise the system of making municipal purchases. Dr. Cleveland outlined a system which the bureau with which he is connected believes to be scientifically correct, and which it believes will insure fair competition, the lowest possible prices, and confidence among sellers.

Ald. Merriam invited the heads of the various departments to be present during this exposition of purchasing methods, and among those who took advantage of the opportunity were Commissioner of Public Works Hanberg, Chief of Police Steward, Fire Marshal Horan, City Business Agent Coleman with several members of his staff, Frank T. Fowler, the new superintendent of streets, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Otis.

Says Bids Are Not Bona Fide.

Dr. Cleveland declared that in most large cities in the United States—he did not mention Chicago specifically—the chief competition among those who sought the city's business was not bona fide with respect to prices.

"A, B, and C, selling the same material, will arrange so that A will sell to one department, B will sell to another, and C will sell to a third, and while they all may bid for each department, their prices will be arranged so that the awards will be made as they desire," he said.

Apparently Chicago is not so far behind other large cities as one might suppose from the revelations that have been made by the Merriam commission. Dr. Cleveland stated that in New York over 100 different agencies were making purchases for the city, and waste of this method was indicated by his statement that one department paid 50 to 75 per cent more than another for the same material delivered under similar conditions. He also argued for standardization of supplies, citing the United States government, which recently reduced the number of kinds of items used by various departments from 60,000 to about 2,500.

Plan to Standardize Supplies.

"There should be a bureau of standardization," he declared, "which should prepare a certain standard for supplies, should procure and preserve samples of these, which could be used when orders are given. It should prepare a catalogue of standard supplies, giving prices which would be serviceable in checking up vouchers, and from which the department head could make his requisitions.

"There should be a central price current bureau to review and certify prices on contract bids, and on purchases on open orders. This bureau would be a protection against collusion in bidding and protect the city against the letting of contracts at unseasonable times.

"There should be a central bureau of inspection to pass on all supplies before they go into stock. This bureau should certify all invoices before they are audited. Connected with this bureau should be a laboratory to make such tests as are necessary.

"There should be a bureau of administrative control for the audit of vouchers and payment of claims. One of the main functions of this bureau would be to see that all claims are paid promptly and in the order they are received, to guard against any favoritism through political pull or otherwise.

"The city should pay its bills promptly, taking advantage of discounts, and it should penalize itself whenever claims are not paid on time, and the head of the department responsible for holding up a claim should be held responsible for the penalty imposed."

Calls Meeting of Committee.

Ald. Britten has called another meeting of the civil service committee to consider the Merriam commission's sewer report, for next Wednesday. Several things have happened since the last meeting and it is now prognosticated by several of the members that the committee, having seen the light and that it is being used as a club to slap the Merriam commission, will refuse to have anything further to do with the report, but will return it to the council with the recommendation that it go to the commissioner of public works or the civil service commission.

This program probably will be combated by Ald. Cullerton, friend of W. E. Quinn, the head of the bureau of sewers.

Grand Jury Graft Inquiry.

Conferences between State's Attorney Wayman and his assistants during the day are believed to presage early grand jury action on the city hall graft charges. The grand jury adjourned until Monday, after taking up a few docket cases. A number of supœnas for witnesses, said to be in connection with the graft cases, have been issued.

Two of the sixteen gates of the Lawrence avenue sewer intake were closed preliminary to the examination to determine whether the amount of cement specified in the contract for section N of the tunnel was used by M. H. McGovern, the contractor. Two days will be required to close all the gates.

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPH trouble broke out yesterday when a statement was issued by the North American Wireless corporation declaring its independence of the Clark Wireless Telegraph and Telephone company of Detroit. C. G. Kiessling, traffic manager of the former company, had several unkind things to say about the latter, and denied that the firms were in any way connected.

OBSERVATION OF THE HAGUE DAY in Chicago public schools has been suggested by the Chicago Peace society, and it is thought that on May 18, the anniversary of the first congress, there will be a general celebration. Miss Kate S. Kellogg, district superintendent of the board of education, is aiding the society in making out a program for the day.

EDGAR PAUL MURDOCK, a graduate of the Bennett Medical college, brought mandatory proceedings in the Circuit court yesterday asking that the state board of health be compelled to issue him a license to practice medicine and surgery. He avers there is no apparent reason why his license should not be issued.

PROF. WILLARD E. HOTCHKISS, supervisor of the national census of Chicago, and Dr. George W. Wester, president of the state board of health, will be the speakers at the luncheon of the City club today. The methods and plans of the coming census in Chicago will be discussed at the luncheon.

THE YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION extension branch at 1327 Jackson boulevard has been opened to girls in need of a place to spend Sunday afternoons. Reading matter is at their disposal, and luncheon is served.

NEW OFFICERS of the Salvation Army Training college, also the cadets who are entering for the semi-annual session, will receive a public welcome at the citadel, 1512 West Madison street, on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m.

Promises to Support His Mother.

Michael Gerew, 540 Ogden avenue, promised Assistant County Attorney Anderson yesterday afternoon that he would support his mother, Mrs. Jane Gerew, 92 years old, of 647 South Western avenue. Several days ago Attorney Anderson sent out summonses for the son and several grandchildren to learn why they had not taken proper care of the aged woman.

"Cupid and the Girl" in Colonial Club Pantomime.

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

MARIE GILL ELEANOR ELMSTROM

"The Story of Cupid," an elaborate pantomime in twenty-four scenes, was presented by sixty members of the Colonial club of Chicago in the auditorium of the clubhouse last evening.

The play, which was originated and directed by Mrs. Abbie Birdsall Phillips, shows that the little god is still at work and that what he approves usually goes. In this case "Cupid" was little Miss Eleanor Elmstrom, the 4 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Elmstrom, but "he" worked as effectively as could be asked, and had not the slightest trouble in bringing together "the girl" (Miss Marie Gill) and "the lover" (W. P. Fraser) to the loss of the noble rival (P. P. Hinckley) and to the amazement of all the relatives.

J. H. Eustace and Mrs. Henry P. Sish appeared as the parents, Miss Marian Cashin and Mrs. M. B. Johns as the sisters, and Mrs. William Murray Davidson and Miss Rena Lattimer as the aunts of the bride. Among the others taking part were the Misses Bessie Bern, Margaret Moore, Florence Bern, Edith Leonard, Dorothy Booth, Mrs. E. G. James, and Mrs. W. S. Furry.

About 600 members and guests of the club attended the pantomime.

LIKES THE LONDON SUBWAY: COMMENDS PLAN TO CHICAGO.

Engineer Furman Says the Tube System Is the Only One That Can Be Operated Successfully.

"The London board of trade is something fierce," said J. R. Furman, mechanical engineer for D. H. Burnham & Co., in describing to the members of the American Technical association last evening the strict supervision and control that is exercised over passenger subways by the governing body of the world's most populous city.

"And it is right that it should be," he added. "In London," he said, "the standard tube subways are 11 feet 8¼ inches in diameter. They are driven through hard clay at a depth of from forty to 200 feet below the street level. The tubes are ventilated by means of a fan system which sucks the fresh air down the passenger stairways and discharges foul air through a high standpipe. This keeps all the stations free of bad air, which is quite different from the wretchedly ventilated subways of New York.

"Each tube station is provided with a passenger lift, the average height of which is about seventy feet. These elevators are chargeable with about one-fourth the total cost of operation of the railways. In addition to the elevators, the board of trade requires that each station be equipped with an escape shaft which is eighteen feet square and has a spiral stairway from the train platform to the street.

"Incoming and outgoing passengers are not permitted to use the same platforms, and if there is any violation of this rule the board of trade orders the station closed until correction is made."

PUTS THE FINISHING TOUCHES TO PROGRAM FOR PRESIDENT.

Irish Fellowship Club Maps Out Busy Day for Mr. Taft When He Comes to the City on March 17.

Final details for the entertainment of President Taft on March 17 were arranged last night at a meeting of the entertainment committee of the Irish Fellowship club. Both banquet halls on the nineteenth floor of the La Salle hotel will be utilized. The east room on the Mezzanine floor will be used by the Irish Choral society.

Immediately after the arrival of the president a breakfast will be served, at which forty citizens will be the guests of the club. He will be given a ride through the parks and boulevards and will visit the Chicago Newspaper club. At noon he will be given a luncheon at the Auditorium hotel, and at 4 o'clock will speak at the Auditorium before the Allied Clubs of Chicago.

During the reception at 5:30 o'clock, the introduction of Irish music will be a unique feature. The Choral society will sing "Hail to the Chief," "The White Snowy Pearl," and other ancient Irish songs. The music will be furnished by an orchestra of harps. In niches about the room Irish pipers will play.

At the banquet, President Taft will be seated between Bishop Muldoon and Bishop Fallows and will be introduced by the former. Dr. James C. Monahan of Brooklyn and John Power of Escanaba, Mich., will follow the president with short speeches.

Stepsons Inherit Cone Estate.

The will of Lucy K. Cone, killed with her husband, Louis B. Cone, in their automobile by an Illinois Central railroad train at Parkside some time ago, was filed for probate yesterday. The husband is beneficiary. As his will left his property to the wife, two of his sons by a former marriage will inherit the estate.

CHICAGO TO HEAR COL. ROOSEVELT

Cablegram from Africa Announces He Will Talk Before Hamilton Club.

PLANS A LECTURE TOUR.

Escort of Honor from the Local Organization Will Meet Him at New York.

"Col. Theodore Roosevelt, wielder of the big stick, leader of the strenuous life and the terror of the wild beasts of the jungle, is coming out of darkest Africa. He is coming to Chicago—sooner or later—and he will tell of his adventures at the Hamilton club."

The Hamilton club rocked with the announcement yesterday. It all came about through a cablegram from Gondokero, Sudan, Africa, which announced that Col. Roosevelt and his party would leave the "dark continent" on Feb. 26 for Europe to deliver a series of lectures and then would return to the United States to deliver more lectures. The welcome news was at once posted up on the club bulletin board and things began to happen immediately.

First of all, the chairman of the house committee got busy. He had thought for some time that a few new pieces of furniture would improve the looks and comfort of the clubrooms. Col. Roosevelt's threatened coming clinched the matter, and a long list of rugs, tapestries, and furniture was made out for an immediate order. Then the news communicated itself to a little group of members. They circulated about among newly arrived members and started to plan the things that will be done for the former president.

Delegation to Meet Him.

"What's the matter with a big delegation and a special train to meet Col. Roosevelt when he arrives at the port of New York?" was suggested. The idea was taken up with enthusiasm, and within a short time enough members to make up a delegation of 100 and a special train party were enlisted. Then, with these slight preparations undertaken, the club members rested content to await the formal acceptance by Col. Roosevelt of an invitation that was cabled to him in Africa several months ago.

"The least I can say about Col. Roosevelt's prospective coming is that it's the best of good news," declared President George W. Dixon. "We sent him an invitation to visit the Hamilton club, which reached him some time after he entered Africa. The relations between Mr. Roosevelt and the Hamilton club always have been most friendly, and he always has honored us with a call when he has been in Chicago."

"We all hope today's news is authentic, and that Col. Roosevelt will honor the Hamilton club with a visit," said James E. Brown, chairman of the press committee. "Of course, the prospective visit probably will not come until June or July, but we feel sure Mr. Roosevelt will accept the club's invitation to visit Chicago if it is possible for him to do so. He always has felt kindly towards the Hamilton club, and it was here that he originated the epigrams, the 'strenuous life' and the 'square deal.' When he comes to Chicago we will show him what these terms really mean."

Visit to Milwaukee Also.

The press dispatch which brought the welcome news to the Hamilton club members also stated that Col. Roosevelt will visit Milwaukee as the guest of the Milwaukee Press club. Definite dates will be fixed when the party arrives at New York.

ROOSEVELTS ON FINAL HUNT: SON IN A HEROIC ROLE.

Kermit and Loring Dive After Body of Native, Headless of Crocodiles—Both Escape Harm.

GONDOKORO, Sudan, on the Upper Nile, Feb. 18.—Col. Roosevelt, Kermit Roosevelt, and Edmund Heller, the zoölogist, left on a steamer today for a final week of shooting along the river banks.

Kermit and Mr. Loring distinguished themselves today. A native had fallen into the river near the steamer occupied by Col. Roosevelt and was drowned.

Kermit and Mr. Loring, in an effort to recover the body, dived into the water heedless of the dangers from the crocodiles and the swift current.

They escaped harm.

Search for Body of Man.

Police are still searching for the body of an unidentified man who was seen clinging to an ice floe in the river at West Twenty-second and South Halsted streets Thursday afternoon. The man sank and was drowned before Policemen Bresnahan and Lancy, who put out from the shore in a small boat, could reach him.

FINE DOGS STOLEN, DYED, SOLD

Men Posing as City Pound Employes Establish "Fence."

Police Investigate Thieves' Clearing House on West Side.

An organized system of stealing and disposing of valuable canines through a clearing house on the west side has been reported to Chief of Police Steward by William F. Stuart, superintendent of the city dog pound.

According to Mr. Stuart, the business of stealing pet dogs has become so profitable that one of the gangs engaged in it uses a wagon in imitation of the three wagons owned by the dog pound. The men on the wagon when interfered with represent themselves as employes of the dog pound, he said, and refer the owners of captured animals to the dog pound.

Many Report Thefts.

Among the recent reports of stolen dogs telephoned to Supt. Stuart are the following:

Robinson Oakes, 4356 Calumet avenue—English fox terrier.

Mrs. Taylor, Ravenswood—Scotch collie.

A. O. McLain, Forty-fifth street and Ellis avenue.

Marie Copper, 430 Forty-third street—Bulldog.

Dr. J. Frank McKinley, 5430 Cornell avenue—White poodle.

C. C. Meister, 5458 Smalley court—Cocker spaniel.

C. M. Storm, 6448 Woodlawn avenue—French bulldog.

Louis Buller, 610 East Forty-second street—Black cocker spaniel.

William Ellis, Alexander place—Collie.

Stolen Dogs Are Dyed.

"The dogs are not taken to the dog pound, but to private kennels, where they are often dyed to change their appearance," Supt. Stuart said. "In one instance a brindle Boston terrier succeeded in escaping from his captors and found his way to his home. This dog's neck was originally white, although the rest of the animal was brindle in color. The neck had been dyed to imitate the color of the rest of his body.

"Dogs are usually dyed all over in imitation of some color on their bodies, completely changing their appearance, and are shipped to outside cities from a west side clearing house. Only dogs of evident pedigree and breeding are sent out of the city and sold elsewhere. The animals of lesser value are taken from one part of the city to another and sold to owners of kennels, who are on to the game.

"There is not a day we do not receive complaints from twenty-five to fifty persons whose dogs have been picked up by these thieves. They operate only in exclusive neighborhoods, where valuable dogs are owned.

Follow Regulation Methods.

"The wagon goes through the street and when a poodle or collie of high degree is sighted the men get out their wire lasso and throw the noose around the animal's neck. They place him in the wagon and drive off."

"An Ass and an Idiot!"

The Sterling Publishers,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

Since reading "Roxana" I do not wish to review it in the "Georgian," and I therefore take the liberty of returning it. The author makes both an ass and an idiot of his hero, and I do not see how he could expect to win favor for his book in either section. One who inherits in his veins the blood of the Lees and the Gordons could never bring himself to marry a woman whom he had seen in the arms of a black; and the prescribed manner in which the author makes Gordon Lee succumb to the fascinations of a negress—however white she may be—after witnessing what he did, is not only an affront to Southern blood but to Anglo-Saxon self-respect. Very truly yours,

Lucian L. Knight.

Feb. 14, 1910. Atlanta, Ga.

The Sterling Publishers have written Mr. Knight as follows in answer to his letter quoted above:

Mr. Lucian L. Knight,
"Georgian and News,"
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Knight:

We wish to thank you for your straightforward criticism of "ROXANA."

We are sending a large number of copies South, on order, and everywhere the book is creating great interest. All the Northern papers are speaking favorably of the book, but we court frank published criticism—such criticism as you have set forth in your letter to us today.

The author, personally, is absolutely without prejudice. He writes about life and its follies as he has seen them and as he sees them. He is totally indifferent to abuse or favor. Perhaps he believes the education of the negro will mean in time a yellow race, and to better show the horror of the thing, he has put horrors into his book and connected them with names that both we of the North and of the South revere and love. He will be greatly misunderstood, but so long as the criticism is frank it will help his work in the end.

We are sending copies of the book, for review, throughout the South. We should consider nothing you might say about it in the "Georgian and News" as discourteous. Cordially,

The Sterling Publishers.

The Chicago "Daily News" says of "ROXANA":

A pathetic drama. Well devised and Ibsenish in its appeal.

The Kansas City "Star" Says of "ROXANA":

A drama of unusual intensity. The peaceful ending after the storm and stress of the play is exceedingly effective. While a treat for the times, it is first of all a piece of artistic writing.

Booker Washington has written the publishers:

I beg to thank you for sending me copy of "ROXANA" for review. At the present time it will be impossible for me to give the matter the attention it deserves. I shall be glad to give the book my attention at the very first opportunity.

Booker T. Washington.

From the first page to the last, the remarkable technical qualities of "ROXANA" hold the reader with breathless interest.

The setting is in a cultured Northern home, and it has been said by the press that the story is founded upon a distressing incident that occurred a year or so ago at the Chicago University.

OFFERS TO PULL FARWELL'S NOSE

Inspector Wheeler Declares Law and Order League President's Charge False.

STEWARD STANDS BY HIM

Ald. Foreman Explains Use of Tunnels by Chicago Railways Company.

Chief of Police Steward yesterday said he would not file charges against Inspector John Wheeler as a result of Arthur Burrage Farwell's charge that Wheeler acted as a pander's aid in the case of Helen Ropp.

"I turned over the document presented by Mr. Farwell to Inspector Wheeler," he said. "I see no just grounds for filing charges against him. Judge Fake seems to have been responsible for letting the girl get out of the state. So in this case there is nothing against the inspector."

When Inspector Wheeler read the story of Mr. Farwell's charge that he was aiding panders to escape conviction, he said it was false, and added:

"If I see Mr. Farwell I will pull his nose."

"I am content to let the public judge between us," said Mr. Farwell. "But for the interference of Inspector Wheeler, Daisy Elliott and Maude Lester would not have escaped conviction."

Explains Use of Tunnels.

Denial was made by Ald. Milton J. Foreman of statements to the effect that the Chicago Railways company was attempting to steal the La Salle street and Washington street tunnels. It was reported that a flooring was being laid in both tunnels and that soon tracks would be placed in the tunnels.

"There is not a grain of truth in such a statement," said the alderman. "The traction company is rebuilding the two tunnels according to plans drawn up by the board of supervising engineers and they are just as much a part of the rehabilitation plans as anything else.

"The Chicago Railways company is to use them, of course, but if the subway plans include those two tunnels they will be used as a part of the subway."

The T. A. Cummings Foundry company was low bidder for valve basin covers when the various bids were opened in the office of Commissioner of Public Works Hanberg. Heretofore the bids have been opened in the office of Business Agent Coleman.

Protest at "Fizz" License.

Edward Ryan, representing the Liquor Dealers' Protective association, appeared before the city council license committee to protest against an ordinance to require dealers who manufacture their own seltzer water and pop to pay a license fee of $20 a year.

Ald. Cermak proposed an amendment exempting saloonkeepers from the license fee and Ald. Merriam suggested in that case it would be well to exempt druggists and others who manufacture their own carbonated water. The matter was referred to the corporation counsel for an opinion.

CALL FOR ACTION ON HARBOR BILL

outer harbor as well, to round out and complete its system and make for the most economical operation."

Prof. Goode agrees with Mr. Ewen regarding the immediate development and the amount of money to be expended, but he also looks at the project from the point of view which his experience in other cities has given him. He has studied the harbors of London, costing $200,000,000, and those at Manchester, Liverpool, Hamburg, Rotterdam ,and Amsterdam.

Chicago's Opportunities Great.

"Chicago offers better opportunities for the development of water traffic than any city I know of," he said. "Three-quarters of the facilities are already under the control of the sanitary trustees, and with the outer harbor under their control also, they could develop a harbor and water transportation system here that would vie with anything else in the world. The fact that the act of legislature creating the sanitary district and the canal calls it, not a drainage canal, but a 'drainage and ship' canal, indicates that it was the original intention to give the trustees control of the shipping on the inland waters.

"The Ton bill, as I understand it, contemplates giving to the sanitary trustees the three powers requisite to the building and operation of a complete harbor. They must have first, the right to condemn property for dock purposes, second, the right to build and operate a terminal railway, and third, the right to build and operate warehouses. Without these three powers the project could not be carried out successfully, but with them the problem would be simple.

"The necessity for the power to condemn property for dock purposes is apparent from the fact that for years the railroad companies have been acquiring property along the water front, largely for the purpose of controlling the docks and keeping out water competition.

All Must Have Equal Show.

"The docks along the river and canal must all be under one control, so that every shipper by water will receive fair treatment. The board must be able to say to the shippers: 'You send your stuff here by water and we will deliver it to any point along the river or canal that you wish.' This applies not only to the Chicago river but to the Calumet region as well.

"The board also must have terminal rail facilities. It would be a simple matter from an engineering standpoint to run a tunnel or tunnels from the outer harbor to the terminals of the various railroads, and the cars can be lifted to the level of the boat by means of elevators, where they can be loaded at the least possible cost and then transferred through the tunnels to the railroads to which they are consigned.

"Then there is the warehouse proposition. It is conceded that the wharves and docks would be practically useless unless there were warehouse facilities at hand to take care of the freight until the consignee is ready to take it away. This is a necessary part of the equipment.

"I do not see how a private corporation could develop the harbor for the best interests of the city and shipping. In the first place, they would have to make a considerable profit upon the money invested, and woulr have to charge higher rates than the sanitary board would."

COURT FAVORABLE TO CORPORATIONS

Illinois Supreme Tribunal Holds That Foreign Concerns May Sue Here.

SETTLES LONG DISPUTE.

Companies Not Licensed in State Need Not File Charter Before Going to Law.

In deciding that foreign corporations not licensed to do business in Illinois may institute and prosecute suits in the courts of this state without having first complied with the foreign corporations act of 1905, the Supreme court has reversed a recent Appellate court decision and has relieved lawyers and judges of a great deal of perplexity.

The Supreme court ruling is regarded by local lawyers and business men as of far reaching importance, for it is at odds with decisions of the Supreme courts of several other states.

Cases in Other Courts.

In Kansas and New York, among other states, the courts have held that foreign corporations cannot prosecute suits in the state courts without having obeyed the requirements respecting foreign corporations. A Kansas decision to this effect is now on appeal to the Supreme court of the United States, and until it is settled the decision just rendered by the Illinois Supreme court will stand as the law in this state.

The case was that of the Alpena Portland Cement company, a Michigan corporation, against the Jenkins & Reynolds company, an Illinois corporation. Suit was begun in the Municipal court of Chicago on a judgment rendered in the federal court for the eastern district of Michigan.

Challenged Right to Sue.

The defendants set up that the Michigan corporation could not maintain a suit in Illinois courts until it had filed a copy of its charter, as required by the act of 1905, and that the bringing of a suit was in itself doing business within the meaning of the statute and was the exercise of one of the corporate powers of the corporation.

In deciding the points at issue the Supreme court in part said:

"The words 'doing business' and 'transacting business,' as used in statutes regulating foreign corporations, have by numerous judicial decisions been given a settled and recognized meaning, and refer only to the transactions of the ordinary business in which the corporaton is engaged, and do not include acts not constituting any part of its ordinary business, such as instituting and prosecuting actions in courts."

Clerk Loses Note for $8,968.18.

Fred C. Smith, a clerk in the county treasurer's office, lost a negotiable note for $8,968.18 yesterday afternoon, and called upon the police and the "lost ad" columns of "The Tribune" to aid him in searching for it. Smith was on his way to the Chicago Title and Trust company's office to arrange an interest payment on the note when the paper was lost.

GIVES BRISCOE 14 YEAR TERM

Jury Finds Him Guilty of Killing Policeman Duffy.

WILL SEEK A NEW TRIAL.

Former Companion Accuser Attacked in Legal Argument.

A definite term of fourteen years in the penitentiary was fixed as the penalty for Vincent Briscoe yesterday by the jury which found him guilty of manslaughter. He was accused of killing Policeman Patrick Duffy on May 1, 1902.

Attorney Felix Streyckmans, representing Briscoe, was not in court when the verdict was read. According to agreement, however, the court received a motion for a new trial. This will be argued later.

Assistant State's Attorney Short made his closing argument shortly after noon and Judge Kersten read his instructions to the jury. No recess was taken, as the court and attorneys wished to finish the case quickly.

HIRSCH OPPOSES PLAN OF "DRYS"

Minister Says Drunkards Can Always Be Found Where There Is Prohibition.

FAVORS BEER AND WINES

Asserts Intoxicated Men Never Are Seen in the Streets in Germany.

Dr. Emil G. Hirsch of Sinai temple is one minister not allied with the Anti-Saloon league in its local option fight, according to Nathan A. Cole, campaign manager of the "wets." Mr. Cole replied to a challenge of the Anti-Saloon league that he produce a single minister of the gospel who does not favor prohibition.

Dr. Hirsch is the only Chicagoan mentioned in a list of a score or more ministers said to oppose prohibition. He is quoted as having said: "There is no doubt that the large part of the population of any large city finds the saloons a necessity of its existence."

When questioned in the evening as to the authenticity of the quotation, Dr. Hirsch unequivocally declared himself against prohibition. "I do not remember the exact statement I made," he said. "Probably my memory is not as good as theirs. But I am against prohibition. I think every Jewish minister in Chicago feels the same way. We are for regulation, not suppression."

Says Prohibition Is a Failure.

"If you want to find drunkards go where there is prohibition. The Jews always have been drinkers but never have been drunkards. One reason is that many of the Jews in Chicago are Germans. The Germans always have been drinkers of light wines and beers, but one never sees a drunken man in the streets in Germany."

After stating that he hesitated to make known the names of any ministers, through fear of submitting them to "bitter and calumnious attacks of the intolerant adherents of the league," Mr. Cole asserted that the Catholic church, beginning with the pope of Rome, is against prohibition, but in favor of temperance.

Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Potter, Bishop Hall, Dr. Felix Adler, Dr. Parkhurst of New York, Bishop Grafton of Wisconsin, the Rev. Lyman Abbott of New York, the Rev. Dr. Cadmus of First Congregational church at Peoria, the Rev. George P. Hoster of St. John's Episcopal church, Peoria, Ill., and a dozen others were named by him as among those said to be opposed to prohibition but in favor of temperance.

A mass meeting under the auspices of the United Societies will be held at Teutonia Turner hall, Fifty-third street and Ashland avenue, at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Other meetings have been arranged for future dates.

The political action committee of the United Societies will meet this afternoon to discuss a pamphlet prepared by the judiciary committee.

Prayer as a Campaign Measure.

A plan to have the church members of Chicago unite in prayer for a few minutes each morning at 9 o'clock was presented to the pastors of Chicago churches in a letter sent out by the Anti-Saloon league. Ministers are requested to urge members of their congregations to stop whatever task they may be engaged in at that hour and offer a silent prayer for the success of the fight.

The letter also urges pastors to set apart Sunday, Feb. 27, as "Local Option day." Ministers are urged to preach upon the subject and requested to devote the contents of the contribution box on that day to providing funds for the fight. "We have a fighting chance to win. We need the pastors to help organize the work" is the closing line of the letter begging the churches to take up the issue.

Meeting at the Stockyards.

Anti-saloon speakers addressed 300 workers at the stockyards, clerks, commission men, drovers, and others who halted work for an hour in the morning. It was the first public meeting of the campaign.

"On every brewery in the United States I would put the words 'Gates of Hades' if I had the power," said the Rev. George H. Vibbert of Boston, the first speaker. "After this in large, flaming type would come Dante's quotation: 'Abandon hope, all ye who enter here.'

"The business men that the saloon helps are the undertaker, the sheriff, the criminal lawyer, and the jailer. A drinking man goes into a butcher shop to buy his Sunday dinner. He orders a pound of liver. While he is there the saloonkeeper with whom he trades comes in and buys porterhouse steak. If the workman has ordinary intelligence this must make him stop and think."

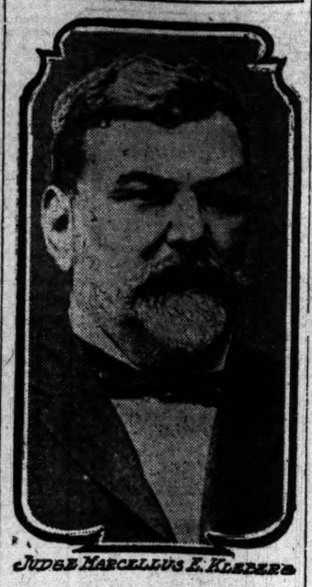
W. F. Mulvihill of the no license committee, and W. A. Brubaker of the Prohibition party also spoke.

"These weekly meetings will be a feature of the campaign," said Mr. Mulvihill. "Meetings will be held at noon in the stockyards, at the factories, and wherever we can get from fifty to 500 men together."

Boy Is Held for Theft of Watch.

Thomas Ford, formerly an elevator boy at the Congress hotel, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $1,500 by Municipal Judge Wells yesterday on complaint of a woman giving the name of Mrs. Ethel M. Love, 2428 Forest drive, Des Moines. She alleged that she had lost a gold watch valued at $250. Ford was arrested while trying to pawn the watch, which he said he found.

Orator to Speak Washington Day.



JUDGE MARCELLUS E. KLEBERG

The one hundred and seventy-eighth anniversary of George Washington's birth will be celebrated by the Union League club as usual with public exercises for the school children at the Auditorium in the morning and a banquet in the evening.

As the chief speaker this year the club has secured Judge Marcellus E. Kleberg of Galveston, Tex. Judge Kleberg will speak on "Civic Standards." Before elevation to the bench he was a member of the state legislature, former president of the school board of Galveston, and one of the fathers of the commission form of city government.

The morning exercises will begin at 10:45 o'clock with selections by the Tenth infantry band from Fort Sheridan. For holders of reserved seats the doors will be opened at 10:30 o'clock, and ten minutes later the general public will be admitted.

DAMPER PUT ON UNION PLAN BY THE TELEPHONE COMPANY.

Electrical Workers Are Given Choice of Keeping Their Jobs or Forming an Organization.

Electical workers in the employ of the Chicago Telephone company were notified yesterday that if they joined the new union of telephone workers they would be discharged. Officials of the company called the men into the office when they arrived at the repair department for orders and gave them their choice of alternatives.

The unfavorable attitude of the company put a damper on the enthusiasm of the promoters of the new local and several electrical workers predicted that the union will not be organized. A meeting set for last evening at 275 La Salle street was called off. A committee of the organizers met during the day and discussed the situation. An effort may be made to hold a meeting next week for the purpose of injecting new life in the movement.

George Henshaw, a former business agent of the painters' union, was accused of being a "slugger" for Martin B. ("Skinny") Madden when arraigned before Municipal Judge Himes. He was charged with assaulting Business Agent C. Berthelsen of the same union, who is allied with the faction opposed to "Skinny" Madden. Henshaw was fined $5.

Lathers are preparing to present demands for an increase in wages from $5.20 to $6 a day. The agreement expires March 1. Officers of the Employing Plasterers' association assert they will fight any further wage increase, and a strike is likely to be called when the present agreement expires.

The employers insist on making a joint trade agreement with the lathers. This the men refuse to accede to, saying they want to control the making of their wage scale.

ADVISES PASTORS TO GO SLOW.

Presbyterian Periodical Warns Them About Church Advertising—Fears It Might Work Harm.

Plans of certain Chicago pastors to advertise their churches have not met with general approval in religious circles. Some fear that the adoption by churches of methods which have heretofore been used almost exclusively by secular institutions might defeat their own aims by creating public disapproval.

An editorial in the Interior, a Presbyterian periodical, this week voices these fears and advises pastors to go slow with such an innovation.

"Shall the church," asks the editorial, "by tone and method and temper of its advertising class itself with, say for example, venders of fake mining stock or with dealers in reliable securities—that is, will it advertise rashly and riotously or soberly and with reserve?"

Operator Crushed by Elevator Car.

Charles Jage, an elevator operator in the Marquette building, was crushed between a car and the floor of the sixteenth story of that building yesterday. His condition is serious.

CEMENT WONDERS ATTRACT CROWDS

Third Annual Show at Coliseum Surpasses One Held There Last Year.

MONUMENT IS A FEATURE

Artistic Shaft Pictures Progress Made in Building Since Age of Stone.

With an attendance that crowded the aisles, gathered up tons of advertising souvenirs—paper and cement—the third annual cement show, under the management of the Cement Products Exhibition company, opened last night at the Coliseum. It is to continue, afternoons and evenings, to the close of next week.

Like other expositions during the winter which have been national in scope, the general arrangement of exhibits and the decorative achievement are of extraordinary character. Again the architects have striven to secure an outdoor effect with the aid of vine clad trellises, artificial trees, and painted curtains.

Beneath a canopy representing blue sky and fleecy clouds more than 300 exhibitors are exploiting cement ideas ranging from hens' nests and shingles to bathtubs and concrete houses.

During the early hours of the show two corners vied with each other for popularity. One was the exhibit of cement coffins and the other was where a vender was striving to dispose of a stock of ice cream. Not until he had grown hoarse was the vender able to convince the crowd that his ice cream cones were not cement but just ordinary fresh biscuit.

Wonders Wrought with Cement.

Visitors had plenty of excuse for the error, because on every hand were deceptions of surprising character. One exhibitor was rolling and unrolling packages of cement roofing. Here were railroad ties of cement that looked so much like wood that visitors tried to pry off the splinters. Comfortable chairs were solid cement, and bathtubs that looked like finest enamel were of polished concrete. A cement house was in process of construction, and beside it was an exhibition of cement lathing.

Dozens of cement mixing machines were in operation, and the floor of the big auditorium trembled with the hum of many wheels.

Among other interesting exhibits were pieces of statuary, cement boats, stoves, telegraph poles, beehives, waste baskets, lawn rollers, laundry tubs, grave markers, and garbage receptacles.

In the center of the Coliseum is the big cement monument typifying the cement age. Inscriptions upon it call attention to the era of stone, then of bronze, of iron and finally of cement. The big statue was designed by Raf Howenstein, a Chicago architect, and Louis Chiloni, an Italian artist. It was installed at an expense of $3,000. The statue is forty-five feet high. The figure of a man, typifying strength, is fifteen feet high.

Bigger Than Last Year's Show.

The cement show is said to have double the capacity of last year, because of the superior arrangement of the floor space. Added to this is the fact that the galleries have been utilized. In each section there are displayed the various interests that have developed in connection with the cement industry. New methods of polishing cement brick and tile are demonstrated. Devices for lifting and placing the cement blocks are on hand. A dozen different varieties of steel wire reinforcement are on display.

The upper floor of the annex has been devoted to a lecture room, where moving pictures and stereopticon will illustrate the progress of cement building and the allied industries.

Attention was called to the fact that the cement product of the country twenty years ago amounted only to 42,000 barrels, whereas last year it was over 60,000,000.

One of the interesting exhibits is a miniature reproduction of a concrete boat which was built in France in 1855. There are shown models of a number of concrete barges and floats. It is claimed that for the construction of big barges such as are used for the transport of coal or big cargoes of any material that cement will soon take the place of wood.

Interest of Japan Is Aroused.

Among the visitors at the show was H. Kohno, manager of the Southern Manchurian railway, who is studying cement conditions in this country. He said that his company proposed adopting the American method of construction of elevators of concrete. Since his arrival a Chicago firm has contracted to erect at Darien an elevator with a capacity of 2,500,000 bushels especially designed for the soyo bean.

Edward M. Hagar, president of the Cement Products Exhibition company, was at the show and with his associates received congratulations from scores of visitors.

Incidental to the conduct of the cement show nine conventions of allied interests are to be held here, including the Association of Cement Users, engineering contractors, builders' supply associations, municipal contractors, lumber dealers, masons' supply association, Northwestern Cement Producers, tile manufacturers, and an association for the standardizing of paving specifications.

Fugitive Brought Back for Trial.

James ("Buck") McDonald, 40 years old, 1335 South Rockwell street, charged with the murder of Russell N. Aldworth, 22 years old, 2730 West Sixteenth street, last November, was brought from New York City yesterday and turned over to Sheriff Strassheim.

GIRLS TO FACE DEBTOR COURT

Misses Dupee Summoned After One Failure to Appear.

ALL OVER MODISTE'S BILL.

Must Show Assets or May Be Fined for Contempt.

Two north side girls, Misses Helen and Lida Dupee, will be face to face with the possibility of a fine for contempt of court if they fail to appear before Municipal Judge Scovel in the debtors' court March 11 to give information concerning their personal assets. Judgments aggregating $211 for dressmakers' bills have not been satisfied, and explanations are sought by the court.

The Misses Dupee are daughters of Mrs. Anna Dupee, widow of Charles Dupee, for several years a wealthy and prominent resident of the north side. The Dupee residence is in the Binderton apartments, 39 Schiller street. Three seasons ago they made their debut at the family's former house, 52 Walton place.

Defendants in Debtors' Court.

The sisters are defendants in a debtors' court suit filed by Miss Mildred Alwin and Miss Dorothea Alwin, dressmakers, doing business as Alwin Sisters.

Yesterday morning when the case was called before Judge Scovel the young women defendants failed to appear in court, and Jacob E. Dittus, attorney for the dressmakers, asked that an order be entered citing the defendants to appear March 11 and "show cause" for their failure to produce information concerning their assets. The dressmakers, for more than a year, have had their case on the Municipal court records in an effort to collect the money they allege the sisters owe.

Made Two Gowns for Them.

"We made two reception gowns of silk and satin in 1908 for the Misses Dupee," said Miss Mildred Alwin yesterday. "The gowns were accepted as satisfactory, but we were never able to get the money for them. When the bill was presented the Dupees said they did not have the money, and we waited patiently for a long time. Then we started the suit and got judgment March 18, 1909; but that is as much as we have got. The Misses Dupee have never appeared in court."

Adam Frauenholz, deputy bailiff, said he had made many unsuccessful attempts to obtain service on the young women, having served them finally as they were leaving their residence one day to attend some social function. No statement was made during the day in behalf of the young women.

Jail for Illegal Liquor Dealer.

Burton Pratt, "blind pig" keeper of Highwood, recently fined $100 on four counts, yesterday was taken to jail at Waukegan to serve his fine. Pratt declared he has no money to pay the fine, which with costs amounts to nearly $200.

BLACK HAND SEEN IN FIRE AT LYONS

Property of Italian Who Had Received Threatening Letters Is Destroyed.

MANY BARELY ESCAPE.

Demand for Money Made While Man and Several Rivals Were Courting Girl.

Work of persons who under guise of the "Black Hand" have been demanding money from Frank Settecase of Lyons is seen in the fire which early yesterday destroyed $14,000 worth of property owned by Settecase and his brother-in-law, S. Vazzani, in the town.

The letters, of which there were three, came to the man while he and several other Italians were contesting for the hand of Miss Augustana Calumbo, now Mrs. Settecase, and he suspects the fire was started by one of these defeated rivals.

As no origin of the flames could be found, incendiarism was suspected.

Families Have Narrow Escapes.

Frank Settecase and his wife, the former Miss Calumbo; S. Vazzani, the latter's family, Joseph Settecase, and Mrs. J. F. Myer were forced to flee in their nightclothes, the flames having gained considerable headway before they were discovered.

Bragia Settecase and his wife and children were rescued from a second story window by means of a ladder.

Frank Settecase said he and the other men, whose names he would not give, met Miss Calumbo at the same time and lay seige to her heart. He seemed to be the favored one, and then came the threatening letters, all signed "Black Hand," and directing him to deposit $2,000 at a certain point in Cream City park, two blocks from his residence.

Unable to Catch Writer.

Unsuccessful efforts were made at the time to entrap the writer. Following receipt of the first letter, Settecase wrapped a few bills of large denomination around a roll of paper and deposited it at the designated place. No one appeared. After the second and third letters detectives were called into the case and a close watch was kept, but nothing developed.

The destroyed property consisted of a three story cement block building and a two story brick structure besides the contents of the grocery and general stores occupying the first floor.

Lyons has no fire fighting apparatus and this led to the total destruction of the houses.

Society; Clubs, Entertainments.

Events in Society.

THE Friday club gave one of its most interesting programs for the year yesterday and brought out a company of unusual size. The program announces "A Day in the Open," Mrs. Carter H. Harrison giving an original reading—"A Legend of the Little Huron," for the first number. Miss Paloma Schramm, in whose musical career many of the members have been interested for some years, gave MacDowell's "Woodland Sketches," and the program closed with dances by Miss Hinman's pupils, who gave the Tree dance, the dance of the Green Sleeves, of the Butterflies, of the Indian Pipes, and the Jumping Jacks. The Tree dance is the story of the love of the Tree Heart and Pan, the Indian dance is an adaptation of a Morris dance wherein the pipe of peace plays an important part, and the dance of the Green Sleeves comes from the quaint little English village—Stow-in-the-World. The people of the village give the dance—which is one of their inheritances—at fair time in the spring, the dancers moving from village to village and singing a quaint old song as they go.

Mrs. W. K. Cowan, 1422 North State street, will give a children's party on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 26, in honor of her young daughter, Ruth. The hours are from 3 to 6 o'clock and the children are asked to come dressed in domino and mask.

Mrs. Walter J. Engle, 1449 Dearborn avenue, has originated a Lenten sewing class which is proving one of the successes of the season. She gathered together a half dozen little girl friends of her young daughter, Weona Engle, and asked Mrs. Webster of the Francis Parker school to meet with them and teach them how to sew. They have termed themselves the Sew-and-Sew club. The articles being fashioned vary from a doll's wardrobe properly constructed to wash cloths and tea towels for the household, but the plans of the sewers are much more extensive.

Mrs. Edmund S. Graf and Mrs. Joseph H. Servatius will give a Martha Washington tea party in the Birchwood Country club next Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson Jr. of East Huron street gave a dinner last night for a few friends. Mrs. Higginson and the children of the household will leave the city next week early for the south and will spend a short time in Washington before their return.

Judge Peter S. Grosscup, Miss Elizabeth Waller, Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouse, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Glennon, Mrs. E. G. Keith, and Miss Bessie Keith are among the Chicagoans who will sail for Mediterranean ports and Alexandria today.

Miss Eva Merle Kahlert of Louisville, who has been the guest of Mrs. John H. Barnet, 59 East Huron street, will return to her home shortly. She will be accompanied by her brother, L. Craig Kahlert of New York, who is a guest at the Barnet residence for a few days also.

Another of the old north side homes will pass into strange hands on March 1 when Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Morrison of Richmond, Ind., newcomers to Chicago but friends of many of the married set on the north side, will take possession of Mrs. Joseph Kirkland's residence at 713 Rush street. Mrs. Kirkland and her daughter, Miss Caroline Kirkland, have taken Mrs. Margaret Avery Shanklin's apartment in the Majestic on Walton place.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter will return from New York on Monday.

Mrs. Philip Stanwood and Mrs. William H. Gray of Boston are the guests of their father, W. J. Calhoun, 208 Erie street, having come on for a short visit before Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun sail for China.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hoxie and their son Hamilton are leaving for the southern resorts this morning, to be gone for several weeks.

Mrs. H. E. Keeler, 7223 Sheridan road, will entertain a large party at "500" today.

Mrs. H. H. McKay gave a luncheon yesterday at her residence, 7204 Sheridan road.

The Radcliffe College club will give a reception for Le Baron Russell Briggs, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences of Harvard university, Monday afternoon, Feb. 21, at 4 o'clock at the Women's club, Fine Arts building. Dean Briggs will be guest of honor at the fifty-third annual banquet of the Harvard club in the evening at the University club.

Miss Nettie Mallen

Mrs. H. W. Mallen of 304 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, will announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Nettie Mallen, and Helmer Melum, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Melum, 6621 Washington boulevard, today at luncheon. There will be twenty guests. Photographs of the bride and groom to be will adorn the heart shaped place cards. Progressive hearts will form the afternoon's diversion. The wedding will take place in the early spring.

L'Après-midi littéraire today will be at the residence of Mrs. S. L. Sulsberger, 4404 Michigan avenue. Dr. Alice Brugnot will talk of "Les Salons du 18 ème siècle."

At the free public reading given by the Alliance Française today at noon in Fullerton hall, Art institute, Mme. Helein will give a talk with dramatic extracts from Jean Richepin's play, "La Belle au Bois Dormant," which Sarah Bernhardt produced last season in Paris.

Alpha Chi Omega sorority will have its monthly luncheon in Marshall Field's northeast tea room at 12:30 o'clock today. Miss Elizabeth Rundall will be hostess.

Mrs. Frank X. Walls will pour tea at the French library this afternoon when Mlle. Leah De Lagneau will speak of "Au Cœur de la Vie," by Pierre de Coulevain.

Society at Nation's Capital.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—The president and Mrs. Taft attended the drill given at Fort Myer today for the benefit of the Army Relief society. They later went to the tea given by the chief of staff, Gen. J. Franklin Bell, at his headquarters.

Mrs. Ballinger, wife of the secretary of the interior, entertained at a luncheon today when her guests were Mrs. Holmes, wife of Justice Holmes; Mrs. Dickinson, wife of the secretary of war; Mrs. Beekman Winthrop, Mrs. W. H. H. Greene and Mrs. Joshua Greene of Seattle, Mrs. Robertson of Chicago, Mrs. Battle, Mrs. Chilberg, Mrs. Shallenberger, Mrs. Richard Butler, Mrs. Fremont Smith, Mrs. Gleaves, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Hoppin, Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Lawler, Mrs. John Joy Edison, and Mrs. Berryhill.

Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois was the host at a dinner today.

Mrs. Leiter entertained at a dinner tonight in honor of the attorney general and Mrs. Wickersham. The other guests were Chief Justice Fuller, Justice and Mrs. Lurton, the secretary of the treasury and Mrs. MacVeagh, the secretary of the navy and Mrs. Meyer, the secretary of the interior and Mrs. Ballinger, Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock, Senator Warren, Senator Wetmore, Mrs. Thomas K. Laughlin of Pittsburg, Representative Hamilton Fish, Mr. and Mrs. James Wadsworth, Mrs. Marcus A. Hanna, Mrs. Ezra McCagg of Chicago, Mrs. Roger Walcott of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter.

Music and the Drama.

Notable Entertainments.

BY W. L. HUBBARD.

THE Germans have a proverb to the effect that "all good things are three." As regards the Orchestra hall offerings this week the proverb might be transposed into "all three things were good," and thus be made to serve as a sufficient criticism. And yet three such offerings are not to be dismissed with a simple phrase. Mr. Elmendorf's lecture on "Egypt" on Wednesday evening, the Mendelssohn club's presentment of "Antigone" and "Frithjof" on Thursday, and the Thomas orchestra's playing of Tschaikowsky's "Pathetic" Symphony yesterday afternoon were achievements which merit more than mere recording. For each of them was truly notable and among the finest and greatest of its kind.

Over each of them rested the shadow of tragedy—over the "Pathetic," the tragedy of the human spirit struggling against the earth bonds that cumber it; over the "Antigone," the tragedy of human ambition and pride hurrying blindly to their fall; over the "Egypt," the tragedy of time and its wrecking of material things and human lives. And yet the tragedy in each instance was glorified and beautified by art masterly and supreme, and its potency and its appeal therefore knew increase, and it itself became ennobled and high.

It is doubtful if there is in the entire range of musical literature another composition which is so frankly and unqualifiedly a document of a human soul as is the "Pathetic" Symphony of Tschaikowsky. Those who know something of the unwritten tragedy of the Russian composer's inner life can read in this last creation of his the story of his own struggles and the hopeless battle he waged against a power seemingly stronger than himself. He wrote it with his heart and its life blood, and the pages he penned tell to those who hear aright the full tragedy of the human spirit pure and aspiring, striving against physical conditions that drag down. The world is prone to judge hastily and harshly oftentimes, and weaknesses which frequently are set down to some lowness or depravity of soul are weaknesses not of the spirit but of the flesh that holds it imprisoned. The spirit has a will of its own and it has desires of its own. The same is true of the flesh, and while one may be high, the other may be less so. And the weaknesses we often discover and condemn may perhaps not be those of the ego itself, but of the nerves, muscles, and tissues that incase it. There is no struggle, probably, more terrible than just such a struggle as ensues between a spirit thus pure and a physical thus weak, and in the "Pathetic" more than in any other music that the world knows today this battle terrible and crushing is depicted and fought out to its tragic end. The symphony is the creation of a man who knew what this battle was, and he wrote so forcefully and so poignantly that every listening human soul that hears feels the truth and the awfulness of the tragedy, even though it may not have experienced it itself. It is given from time to time to genius to produce a work which is so mighty and so true that it convinces the whole world and gains the world's tribute. Usually only one of such works is vouchsafed to any one creative talent—its other products may be masterly and enduring, but the one rises above all its fellows. Such an one is the "Pathetic," and no one who hears can escape its spell. The audience yesterday afternoon in Orchestra hall sat tense under the compelling masterpiece, and when the closing adagio was ended there was little applause and the whole assemblage left the hall subdued and almost awestricken. A soul had spoken and told its suffering, and silence and reverent hush were the only and fitting tribute.

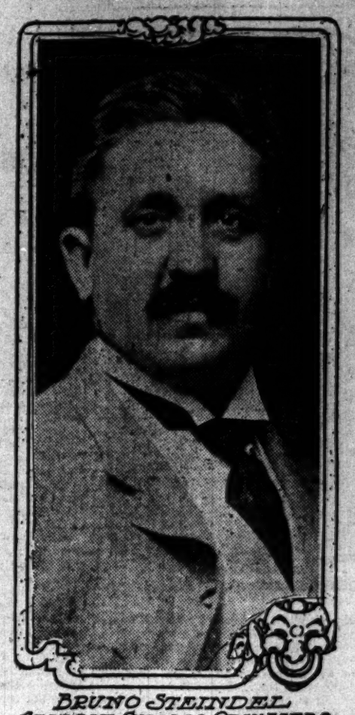
The performance was one truly superb. Mr. Stock has ever read the great work with sympathy and fine understanding, and his men have always answered instantly and fully to his desires. But yesterday he grasped himself and his forces more firmly than ever before, and he gave a reading which was one in every respect notable. Never has that tremendous first movement been given here as he and his men gave it yesterday. It was so intense that it ceased to be pleasure. It hurt, and that was what Tschaikowsky meant it should do. The wonderful Waltz, in quintuple time, was taken at the tempo and with a spirit that gave it its best effect, and the March was fairly electrifying. Mr. Stock went directly from the march into the Adagio, permitting only the briefest pause and silencing attempted applause. The change was a wholly desirable one and intensified the potency of the closing movement.

It was a performance long to be cherished in memory—one which showed how splendidly Mr. Stock's powers have unfolded and how eminent he stands today as a conductor and musician, and one which told also of what exceptional quality our orchestra is composed.

The soloist of the afternoon was Bruno Steindel. He was given cordial welcome—a welcome which showed how sincere is the public admiration for him as artist and musician, and how his absence last season had been felt. He played the Goltermann B minor concerto, and played it as he can play when at his best. The work is a grateful one, especially satisfactory being the first and second movements. The third movement is trivial and cheap, and only the finish and finesse with which it was played gave it worth. But the other two are music that is beautiful, and it knew glorification and enhancement through the tonal, technical, and musical skill Mr. Steindel brought to its presentment. He is a master 'cellist and hearing him again was a joy.

Thursday evening the Mendelssohn club offered the most severe and ambitious program it has undertaken in several seasons. Assisted by the Thomas orchestra and Mr. Bispham and Mrs. Gannon, it presented the "Antigone" of Sophocles, with the incidental music by Mendelssohn, and the "Frithjof" of Max Bruch. The "Antigone" is less familiar than the Bruch work, which is an established favorite, and its hearing on Thursday was productive of both interest and pleasure. The performance was a convincing one, for Mr. Bispham entered wholly into the spirit of the Greek tragedy and was equal to reading it with that skillful avoidance of the theatrical which is desirable on the concert stage, and yet without any lessening of the dramatic intensity and stately dignity that belong to it. He made the whole story vivid to the listeners, and the majestic lines he delivered with a tonal beauty and smoothness and an emotional truthfulness and power that made them truly eloquent. There is might in those stately old periods, and Thursday evening they gripped and moved even present day auditors.

The Mendelssohn music begins to grow somewhat faded and unconvincing. It has little of true dramatic quality in it. Perhaps certain people will claim that because of this it is more in the Greek chorus spirit than it would be had it more of that quality. This may be true, but music hearers of the present are apt to overlook this fact, and to note the incongruity that oftentimes exists between the words and the musical phrase, and also to be annoyed by the awkward manner in which the words are set to the music. The impression received on Thursday was that the translation used was a peculiarly bad and ill fitting one. The men of the club sang with the finish and tonal smoothness and purity that long have distinguished their work, and, in such of the numbers as gave them chance, scored their usual success. The "O Eros," which is among the most telling music in the Mendelssohn score, was especially well given, and the comments in the noble finale of the tragedy were also made effective. The "Frithjof" was of course just such work as the club shines in, and the melodious, sonorous choruses of Bruch received masterly presentment. Mr. Bispham's voice showed at first the effects of his reading of the "Antigone," but it later cleared and all that he did was the work of the artist tried, experienced, and able. Mrs. Gannon was the Ingeborg, but the music impressed as not lying in best range for her. The orchestra gave excellent accompaniment, and Mr. Wild showed himself again the right man in the right place. He stands now master of himself and his forces, and his work takes on authority and poise because of it.



Bruno Steindel
Cellist, Chicago Orchestra

Into Egypt Mr. Elmendorf led his fellow travelers last Wednesday evening and again last night, and he will make the trip once more this afternoon. We have had many travel talks about the Nile and its interesting banks, but it may safely be said that in none of them—not even in the admirable one previously given here by Mr. Elmendorf—has there been so much of instructive value, so much of historic worth, so much of beauty, and so much of high quality as in this present one. The lecturer has put aside all the tourist phase of Egyptian travel, and has devoted himself solely to the worth while things that are being done and have been discovered there.

It is the most instructive lecture Mr. Elmendorf has given us, unless perhaps his "Palestine" be accorded first place in this respect. But in his "Egypt" he has hit upon the particularly happy plan of showing the gems of Egyptian art which now stand in the great museum in Cairo, not when he is taking his auditors into that museum, but when he takes them to the place where these art works were discovered and where they originally stood. Thus these objects, instead of leaving a hazy impression as to their meaning and import, become clearly and closely associated with the temple or the tomb for which they were designed, and the personality of the king or queen who builded or who was honored or entombed becomes more actual and vivid to the onlooker. It is a lecture crowded with information and interest, and yet so easily and undidactically is it presented that the listener receives no impression of being instructed, and the two full hours which the talk lasts seem less than half that time.

The pictures are even more remarkable photographically than the most remarkable of the Elmendorf achievements previously seen. He has photographed many statues through the glass cases in which they stand in the museum, and yet so perfectly has the lens done its work that the quality, material, and form of the statue is not in the slightest obscured or changed. As for the coloring of the slides, the astonishing has been accomplished, and the final pictures showing the temple of Karnak restored and then the capital of one of the great columns are of such exquisite beauty that the audience fairly gasped with delight.

The Wide, Wide World.

Strangers Scrutinized on Entering Servia.

BY GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH. D., LL. D.

[Copyright: 1910: By The Tribune Company.]

PARACHINE, Servia, Nov. 23.—All day long I have watched peasants slopping about in the slush and snow. I am in about the geographical center of Servia, a village of some 6,000 peasants, two or three factories, a new cathedral and a dead level of humdrum Servian life. It is a good place to survey the geography of Servia and get some idea of the people of the kingdom.

While I am here to study the Servians, I am at a loss to know whether to be gratified or annoyed by the interest they take in me. They not only wanted to see my passport when I entered the country but also when I went to the ticket office this morning in Belgrade to take the train for Parachine. On the train I was again obliged to show it. Here in the hotel they want to know who you are, your business, where you came from, how long you are going to stay, and where you are going. They even want to know your religion. All of which shows that Servia is still in an uneasy condition and fearful of Austria.

Whole Country Mountainous.

I suspect that the ride from Belgrade to Parachine in the summer or autumn would be beautiful. Even today, with the snow falling steadily, it has not been without interest. Every mile of the way we are in sight of hills or low mountains. There is little lowland or plain in Servia. The entire country is mountainous, made up of the broken ranges of four mountain systems, the Dinaric Alps, the Carpathians, the Balkans, and the Rhodopes. The highest peak in the kingdom is Mt. Midsor, with an elevation of 6,837 feet. There are ten other peaks reaching a height of 4,300 feet.

The train by which I traveled is what we call a local. It makes all stops, twenty-four in number, in a ninety-six mile journey, which required six and a quarter hours. It is a long train, largely of third class carriages. A single small carriage contains accommodation for first and second classes. In the first class are nine seats, eight of which were occupied—and all deadheads. It reminded me of the old days on the overland trains west of Chicago, with three-fourths of the Pullman passengers traveling on transportation. Our new system is an undoubted improvement. The carriage itself was of an antiquated type, barren and with a low-vaulted ceiling within easy reach. The train makes a halt of thirty-five minutes for the noonday meal, where well cooked food was to be had at a reasonable price.

A few miles beyond Belgrade we reach Toptchider, with a beautiful park, summer restaurants, and a favorite retreat from the capital in summer. Nearby is the summer home of the king. It was in this village that Michael Obrenovitch III. was assassinated in 1868.

Pretty Villas on the Hills.

Here we leave the Sava valley, which we have been following toward the southwest, and turn sharply toward the southeast. We continue in this direction throughout the journey. For the first hour we are climbing out of the Sava drainage basin into that of one of the tributaries of the Morava. We are among high, rolling hills, partly wooded, the trees still in leaf, the country thinly settled and evidently of poor quality. Low down in the hills are several pretty two story villas, summer homes of the well-to-do of Belgrade.

At the end of two hours we are in a two mile wide valley, with broad cornfields, the land rich and well timbered. The corn is all in the shock and in the fields are hundreds of big, white pigs. Twenty miles beyond we reach the valley of the Morava, Servia's longest and most important river, flowing across the kingdom from south to north and emptying into the Danube east of Belgrade. Our direction is now nearly south all the way to Parachine.

As we ascend the valley the hills become higher and the valley gradually contracts. But the houses seem to grow larger and appear better kept. There are fewer houses without a coat of white. One of the signs of the naïveté which prevails among the peasants is that of some men walking along the road, with primitive looking drum and home-made fifes. On the way we pass two or three weddings, for this is the marriage month of the Servian year, due to the fact that the long ante-Christmas fast begins this week. In December of last year there were only twenty-three marriages; in November, more than 10,000, double the number of October, which ranks second in popularity.

Streets Rough and Muddy.

It was dark when we reached Parachine. There is the usual long drive from the station to the center of the town. The streets are rougher and the mud is much deeper than in Belgrade; the cab is more rickety and more antiquated. The hotel is primitive, of a single story, but comfortable. Evidently iron is cheaper than adobe, for the stoves are of metal. The walls are not covered with wallpaper. In fact, I have seen no wallpaper for months. About the same effect is produced by means of large stencils. The result is just as good and the process cheaper. The chief feature of the hotel is its enormous dining room and still larger café. The two combined seat perhaps 200 people, although there are but twelve bedrooms.

I am about 150 miles from the extreme northwest corner of Servia. When I have completed the journey of 140 miles to the extreme southeastern corner, I shall have traversed its long axis. This will give you some idea of the size of Servia. The total area is 18,650 square miles. It is a little bit larger than Switzerland, but less than one-fourth the size of Illinois. In fact, Illinois would make four Servias and have enough left over to make a state the size of Vermont. But Servia has as many people as Indiana, 2,688,000. This gives it a density of 144 a square mile, which is more than that of Maryland and less than that of Pennsylvania. If the territory of the United States were as densely populated as Servia, it would have over 500,000,000 people, which would be only 100,000,000 more than are found in Europe, but less than a million more than the population of China.

People of Pure Stock.

The people of Servia are Servians by blood and language and in their orthodox religion. Few independent kingdoms of Europe have a purer and more uniform population. Of all the inhabitants, more than 93 per cent are Servians. This is all the more remarkable, for it has been centuries since the gypsies left India, their original home. Their language belongs to the Indian group of the Asiatic or East Aryan branch of the Aryan tongue. It is allied to Bengali, Hindi, Gujarati and other dialects of the Gaurian group. In this connection it may be interesting to note that the language of the Armenians also belongs to this Asiatic branch of the Aryan tongue, forming a distinct group, between the Iranian or Persian on the one hand and the Greek on the other.

Jews Number 6,000.

Next in order are the Jews, numbering about 6,000; over one-half of them live in Belgrade and Nish. The remainder are scattered through the smaller towns. There are more than 1,500 Spanish Jews and 8 per cent of German. Less than half the Jews speak Servian.

Of southern Slava, outside the Servians, there are few representatives in the kingdom, less than 4,000 in all. Of these, the Croatians stand first in number, followed by the Slovenes.

But of other nationalities than those above enumerated, there are about 16,000, or less than 4 per cent of the total population. Of these the Germans have the largest representation. Then follow the Albanians, Hungarians, Greeks, and Bohemians, or Czechs. There are nine English in the state and, outside of our consulate, no Americans—and they were not born in America. The foreigners in Servia, from Germany, Austria, and Hungary, are largely found in the cities and towns, where they are employed in various industries; the Germans in operating coal mines, iron foundries, etc.; the Bohemians in glass works and industries of a similar nature.

The Servian is even more uniform in his religion than in his language, for more than 98 per cent belong to the orthodox faith. The Mohammedans come next, the greater part of their number being Mohammedanized gypsies. Then come the Roman Catholics, making less than ½ of 1 per cent, made up largely of the Croatians and the Slovenes. There are less than 1,400 Protestants in the kingdom.

For a country so thickly inhabited, the population is largely rural. Over 2,000,000, or more than 85 per cent, are dependent upon agriculture. Less than 170,000 are engaged in industry. The number of officeholders and those engaged in liberal professions, 116,000, is considerably more than those engaged in commerce.

Rural to Urban 16 to 1.

Outside of Belgrade, with its less than 80,000, there are no cities of any considerable importance. The next largest town is Nish. The proportion of rural to urban population is as 16 is to 1.

In spite of its large birth rate, the population of Servia increases slowly, due to a high death rate. In forty years the population has just about doubled. There have been two years in this period when the number of deaths exceeded the births. In one year births exceeded deaths, a thousand of population, by 15, the average excess being 15. This increase is considerably greater than in certain other countries of Europe, notably France, Ireland, Austria, Spain, and Belgium, but is much less than that of Bulgaria, which stands highest in Europe, having an excess of births over deaths, a thousand, of 21.

But Servia suffers, like certain other countries, from emigration, the number leaving the country each year exceeding those who enter by about 10,000. This emigration is largely to neighboring states. There is even a larger temporary emigration each year, especially to Roumania, about 60,000 Servians visiting Oltenia for the four months of the harvest season.

This temporary movement from one country to another in Europe is one of the most interesting facts of emigration. When we ascertain the reason for such movements, we find that it is nearly always a question of difference in price of labor. Thus can we account for the emigration of Servians of the north to lower Hungary, of Servians of the east to Roumania, and of the Hungarians of Transylvania to Moldavia. But this movement is temporary and made up largely of agricultural laborers. There is a smaller but perhaps even more important movement of skilled artisans, especially from Germany and Austria, into all the countries of southeastern Europe.

Woman, Her Work and Interests

Just Between Us Girls.

BY SISTER MARY.

"I HAVE a daughter, a good, true, and honest girl," writes a father who is seriously distressed over the prospects for his daughter and wishes advice. "She goes constantly with a young man who is not to my liking, and I will give you the reasons why. He is disrespectful to her mother. He went so far as to call her a liar one day. My daughter did not hear it herself, but I know on good authority. He has bad manners in the house and at the table. What can she expect but unhappiness later on if she marries him? I have warned her, but she said that 'He is always nice to me.' Please tell me your opinion through THE TRIBUNE. It might be of help to some other young girl."

The responsibility for answering these questions seemed so grave—so much seemed to hang on answering them just right—that I took this letter over to a woman who is an extremely kind and wise mother. She has been almost like a mother to me and she has two happy daughters of her own, one of whom is married and the other of whom is about to be. I read the letter aloud as we all sat together in her comfortable living room sewing. We talked it over and we felt the same way about it.

Of course it would seem as if the girl could not be happy married to such a man as her father describes, and yet it is a delicate matter to break up an affair like that—delicate because, after all, there is a chance that it might not be for the best and then again because in doing it you are likely to make a rupture between your daughter and yourself which it will take a long, long time to heal. You are likely to leave her with the feeling that will last all of her life that, no matter what happiness comes to her, she is not as happy as she would have been with that man.

The best way to guide her away from her present feeling all of us thought is one which takes a good deal of strategy and a good deal of self-control. I should not advise her against the man or find fault with him or tell her unfavorable things about him, because this course would only prejudice her in his favor. Instead, I think that I should try to arrange things so that she can see him a great deal in her own home. I should make it comfortable and agreeable for him there and should try to appear always to be on perfectly good terms with him. Above all things, I should do nothing that would tend to make her meet him secretly or run away with him or marry him suddenly to defy her family.

Then, if she gets to see him as much as she wishes at home and isn't driven to take his part because she thinks her family wrongs him, she is almost sure, sooner or later, to learn what kind of a man he is for herself. If he has called her mother a liar something will almost surely come along when he is at ease and off his guard which will provoke him into saying the same thing or another just as bad to the daughter. The chances are a good deal more than even that he will reveal himself to her. The faults of our best friends become glaring when we see a great deal of these people.

A mighty good way to make a chicken fond of wheat is to feed it constantly on corn, and a mighty good way to make a girl like a man is to throw another one at her head constantly. If there was some other nice young man that could be introduced to her at about the time this first one was beginning to display his faults, the cure would probably be effected speedily.

At any rate I should try this course of treatment before ever taking any positive measures against her young man friend.

Elbow Sleeves.

Elbow sleeves will be fashionable during the summer. They will be finished with the usual soft frill on the lower edge. If the waist which is being remodeled has been made high in the neck it may be cut V shaped. If the latter a yoke and collar of lace or embroidery or tucked muslin may be added and the general appearance of the gown entirely changed.

Beauty and Health.

BY MARIAN MARTINEAU.

ONE would naturally suppose that actresses, with the constant use of "grease paints," rouge, and "liquid whiteners," would lose every vestige of beauty of skin. The opposite is the case. This is because they know the value of cold cream. They use it by the pound, filling the skin before using soap and water as well as before applying the whitening or reddening compounds necessary in the "make-up." The secret of keeping the skin fresh and young looking is in supplying the oils that are washed out of the skin by the use of too strong soaps and water.

Almond Milk for Wrinkles.

An old and simple cosmetic used to prevent wrinkles forming is almond milk. To make it, blanch and pound twenty-five Jordan almonds, adding a teaspoonful of sugar and a little over a gill of water. Let this stand all night, when a sort of paste will form. Strain through fine muslin and add for each three-quarters of an ounce three ounces of rosewater and thirty grains of powdered alum. This milk is good to whiten and soften the skin without the alum, but the latter has an astringent quality that makes it beneficial where wrinkles are forming, as it helps to contract the skin.

Three-piece Suit.

The long coat has proved so popular that it will be continued to be worn regardless of the greater popularity of the shorter models.

Household Hints.

BY SALLIE JOY BROWN.

LONG ago the wise woman learned that clothes often tell tales as to character. And of all the tale bearing clothes none can equal the dresses a woman wears about the house in the morning. Do you take pride in your home and are you willing to work yourself to always keep it its shining best? Then let your clothes which you wear in the morning when about your home duties indicate those characteristics most plainly. Today there is no excuse for a woman not looking neatly and tastefully dressed in the morning. There are so many materials for her to choose from which launder to perfection, and wear well, too. And there are so many designs specially created for clothes for morning wear that she need have no difficulty suiting her own individual preference.

Two Piece Dresses.

Two piece dresses for morning wear are quite as much the vogue as the one piece dress. Many of them, however, have the princess effect, though they consist of separate waist and skirt, for the belt, which is made of the same fabric, is joined to the skirt, thus giving the costume effect. The separate belt made of ribbon or elastic belting in contrasting shades from the dress is not as good style as it used to be, though with the shirt waist suit the black belt will never be discarded.

Baked White Fish.

Take a good white fish and salt well. Cut three slits in the side and put slices of bacon in; lay the fish on slices of bacon also. Put skewers through the fish to hold in position after the dressing is in. Add no water; bake in its own juice.

Dressing for Fish.

Two cupfuls of cracker crumbs, three sweet pickles minced, one teaspoonful of capers, two tablespoonfuls of onions cooked in a tablespoonful of butter. Stir well; bake the fish forty-five minutes in a slow oven.

Tartar Sauce.

Take the yolks of two raw eggs, half a teaspoonful of dry mustard, half a teaspoonful of salt, a pinch of paprika. Beat well together and add a little oil and vinegar alternately until it becomes thick. Then add a few chopped gherkins, pickles, or olives and capers, and a little chopped onion.

Eggs Stuffed and Fried.

With a small tin tube or a sharp knife cut a cylindrical piece of white from the pointed ends of hard boiled eggs, then with a small after dinner coffee spoon remove the yolks. Rub these through a sieve, add half the amount of cooked giblets, chicken, veal, or ham, moisten to a paste with melted butter, and season highly. Fill the whites with this mixture, brush the openings with white or raw egg, and put the pieces of white back in place. Egg and bread crumb the eggs and fry to a pale straw color in deep fat. Serve hot with tomato or mushroom sauce. This is simple and inexpensive and may be served with wafers as a dainty appetizer.

Twisted Maple Cookies.

One cupful each of granulated and maple sugar and one of butter, two well beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of water, and flour enough to make of the consistency of cooky dough. Cut into strips, roll in powdered sugar, twist, and bake a light brown.

Prune and Nut Salad.

Cook prunes till tender. Remove the seeds and cut fruit into eighths lengthwise. Arrange on lettuce with a mound of cream dressing in the center. Sprinkle chopped pecan meats over all, or break the prune seeds and chop the kernels.

Waldorf Salad.

Use equal parts of tart apple diced and diced celery. Coat with mayonnaise or cooked dressing.

NICARAGUA SEEN FROM CAR WINDOW

Panorama of Picturesque Tropical Scenery in Country of Revolt.

VOLCANOES IN EVIDENCE.

Marriage So Costly That Ceremony Frequently Is Dispensed With.

BY R. W. EMERSON.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 8.—[Correspondence.]—Out of the port of Corinto in the early dawn the train for Managua shrieks its way through rolling billows of dust upon a journey teeming with fascinations in a country where the tourist is unknown. It is a route successively presenting green savannas and haze clad volcanoes rising abruptly from the shores of limpid lakes. It proceeds through a region where mingles the flavor of ancient Egypt with the Castilian romance of the conquistadores.

More than this, the trip presents rare opportunities for the study of human nature in the raw. It gives opportunities for appraising all the varied types of this revolutionary state when they are off their guard. It presents an astonishing amount of material for the identification of impressions gained through car windows—a method that frequently is attacked by critics who never have been in Nicaragua.

There had been no time in which to procure tickets at Corinto. The tropic day broke with the suddenness of the turning up of a lamp. The sun pierced stately rows of banana plants, set out with as much regularity as corn, and lighted up the interior of the car. Only then did the passengers extricate themselves from the heaps of suitcases and cameras and fit themselves into seats.

Through the rear door of the car could be seen a group of shoe blacks clinging to the rocking platform, while a crone in rusty crape knelt with them, clutching the brake irons.

The old woman rose to her feet and tottered pathetically into the car, holding out her hands in mute appeal for money to pay her fare. The passengers, including natives and Indians, contributed enough to pay for the transport of the gnarled old body to Managua. The old woman held up her hands with a Spanish blessing and crept forward into the third class coach.

"Poor People's" Cars Put in Front.

"They put the poor people's cars—" is "tercera clase"—in front of the first class so they will be smashed first in an accident," commented a buxom damsel, brown as a coffee berry and with great liquid brown eyes, who sat across the aisle from the correspondent.

The buxom damsel attracted much attention from the foreigners. Like three-fourths of the others in the car, she was in large proportion of Aztec blood. She wore a string of big brass beads around her neck and exhibited her plump brown arms, which were bare to the shoulder, with evident pride. Her costume was covered with tawdry fixings—bows and big cloth covered buttons of brown silk—but was too slovenly for American eyes. It didn't meet in the back and generally had the appearance of being drawn askew.

A pair of high heeled tan slippers, considerably scuffed, were on her well shaped feet. The principal superficial difference between the buxom damsel and the majority of the other native girls in the car was that she was prettier. All of the girls wore buds in their fetty pompadours, and presumably were exercising their utmost powers of fascination.

The affability of the buxom brown girl was such that she invited conversation. She spoke a patois of Spanish, which included some Indian words, but which was understandable to any one with a fair knowledge of Spanish.

The girl said she was 16, although she looked older. She said she had a husband, but that no marriage ceremony had been performed. The reason she gave was a common one among the less ethical classes in Nicaragua—legal marriage cost too much money.

The church, she said, required $40 paper money (about $4.50 gold) for a marriage ceremony. As for a state marriage, the church did not recognize it, so what was the use of getting married, anyway?

Keeping Up Her Dignity.

It seemed a bit incongruous for a girl whose husband couldn't afford to pay $4.50 gold to get married to be riding in a car where the fare was double that of the car next to it. She explained with dignity that the people in the next car were poorer than they were and that, any way, her husband wanted her to keep up the dignity of their position.

A cultivated Nicaraguan who wore an entire suit made from a material resembling that used in an ordinary blue and white striped negligee shirt, volunteered the information that the Zelayan administration and other administrations preceding it had done much to discredit the church in Nicaragua.

Religious processions had been forbidden and nuns and priests were subjected to arrest if they appeared in the streets in their habits. More than 99 per cent of the people, he said, were Catholics—devout in worship, but surprisingly heedless of the ritualistic observances of the church.

The fall of Zelaya had brought an offer of freedom to the church by the government, he said, and he expected that were the conservatives to get in power, the church would be given the same degree of liberty that it enjoys in the United States.

The informant had spent so much time in business in California that he held no preferences in politics. He said quietly that the sensible people of Nicaragua knew in their inermost minds that the specific remedy for the ills of Nicaragua could only be found in intervention by the United States. The differences between the liberals and the conservatives in politics, he declared, were slight, aside from the fact that each of the parties wanted its adherents to hold all the political jobs.

"Conservative" as a Misnomer.

The term conservative, as used in Nicaragua, he said, was liable to misconception by foreigners accustomed to the meaning of the term as used in the politics of some other countries.

While the conservatives included most of the "old families" of Nicaragua, he said it was worthy of note that they were as progressive in the development of the country as were the liberals. They were as quick to appreciate the value of railroads and other modern machinery for the advancement of commerce and industry as the liberals.

In delineating some of the praiseworthy qualities of Granada, and pointing to the fact that the leading men there are bright and have degrees from foreign universities, one remarked upon the well known fact that the people of Granada were as energetic in support of the conservative party as those of Leon are in suport of the liberal division.

By this time the sun was well up, disclosing a beautiful, fertile country that any fair minded person would feel forced to admire. Beyond the barbed wire fence to the left of the track were extensive meadows, verdant and sparkling with dew. Sleek, long horned cattle cropped the fresh, rank grass. A mile beyond the meadows a placid blue lagoon mirrored a sinister looking volcano clothed in purple haze, its declivitous sides cutting the sky like a Brobdingnagian ash heap. It was fully 3,000 feet high.

Volcanoes Against the Horizon.

Higher still were other volcanoes making a serrated line against the horizon in the distance. Among them was Momotombo, the giant volcano of Nicaragua, from the subterranean fires in which the smoke always is ascending.

The priests of Nicaragua annually exorcise the volcanoes by climbing up and throwing holy water into the craters—all except Momotombo. A group of brave priests once ascended Momotombo, but they never came back. The natives call the volcano "Tombo" for short, but the nickname is without levity. Nicaragua is one of the greatest chimneys of the earth.

The train paused frequently at little stations. At the first stop, Chinandega, a typical village of conorete and adobe dwellings with some cane huts, tickets covering the route from Corinto to Managua were obtained. The first class fare amounted to about $1.10 gold.

Flag Stops Train for a Family.

Looking down the line ahead of the brass bound "Yahya," as the engine was named, a peon could be seen waving a red flag. The train stopped in front of a single room house built of rough and ready concrete while the family got on. The flagman, like all railroad flagmen in Nicaragua, carried a machete swinging at his side, reminding Americans of a farmer with a heavy corn knife. The machete is handy for fighting in revolutions or for cutting down the huge banana and plantain plants in lulls of peace. A Nicaraguan peasant would as soon think of going without his trousers as minus his machete.

Peasant conscripts bound for the war and their guards were seen frequently beside the track. They were ununiformed. Each carried a bag with eatables in it slung over his shoulder. It was easy to believe the truth of a story current in Nicaragua concerning the enlistment of volunteers. A commandante telegraphed to his general:

"Am sending you 500 volunteers. Please return the ropes."

It was seldom that two soldiers of the government army were found uniformed alike. Some were in khaki, some in half khaki, and some in calico uniforms with stripe of red cloth sewn on in places where it might or might not have belonged.

Officers Are Conspicuous.

The officers generally wore conspicuous uniforms of dark blue with double red stripes running down the outside of the trousers' legs. They had German military caps with little red buttons in the front above the visor. The guns of the army were such discarded army rifles as can be purchased in department stores in the United States for as low as $1.50 or $2 apiece, but they are capable of doing execution.

The bayonets were long enough to impale two men at once. Every station had its dusty appearing guard of soldiers on duty, sitting down. Some of them were eating emerald skinned oranges sold by women who run at full speed with baskets of oranges balanced upon their heads and peel oranges at the same time. An oddity in Nicaragua is that the emerald green oranges in Nicaragua are sweet, while the golden skinned oranges are bitter.

The inavitable Englishman of the tropics had boarded the train at Leon. Like the Englishman left behind at Corinto, he had been "out from home" for fifteen years.

Just a few miles outside of Managua the train began climbing a heavy grade, curving around a salt lake contained in the crater of an extinct volcano. This lake is one that travelers are enthusiastic over until they have seen Lake Apoyo between Managua and Granada. Then most of them forget all about the first lake, despite the fact that it is impressive and that beyond a divide can be seen the larger waters of Lake Managua with black and salmon colored volcanic formation towering in the haze upon its farther shore. Six and a half hours from the time of leaving Corinto brought the dusty train into the station at Managua.

NICARAGUANS IN TERRIFIC BATTLE

Result of Three Day Contest at St. Vicente Has Not Become Known.

REBELS NEAR MANAGUA.

Three Columns Expected to Join in Advance Upon the Madriz Capital.

BY R. W. EMERSON.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE.]

MANAGUA, Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Gen. Vasques, commander of the Madriz forces, reports that the third day of the terrific fighting at St. Vicente resulted in heavy losses to both sides. He says he has captured one strong position of the rebels and that victory for the government forces seems certain.

He sent his troops forward into close range fighting today to neutralize the skill of the Americans who are aiding the rebels and who are accustomed to long range shooting. The insurgents, he says, have two cannon, two rapid fire guns, and 700 men. His own forces he placed at 1,000 men, exclusive of the artillery.

Despite the confident tone of the message from Vasques, it is rumored in unofficial circles here that the revolutionists were victors at St. Vicente, and that they are advancing to join the column of Chamorro at Tipitapa.

Admit Advance on Managua.

The government admits that Gen. Chamorro has arrived at Esquipulas, ninety miles from Managua. Officials say the reports of a battle at Esquipulas are untrue, but expect a fight tomorrow.

Rodolfo Espinosa, the prospective Liberal candidate for the presidency, Aurelio Estrada, brother of the revolutionary president, and Federico Sacasta, former minister of foreign affairs, telegraphed to Rear Admiral Kimball that they desire to go to Bluefields as an independent peace commission representing the Liberal party. It is believed they want Kimball to facilitate their journey to Greytown and Bluefields.

The commission is minus President Madriz's authority, but politicians think Madriz wants the commission situated handy for his recognition or repudiation according to the developments of the war. Another theory is that two members of the commission were likely to provoke an uprising in Managua if they remain here.

Rebels Hear of Victory.

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, Feb. 18.—Gen. Mena telegraphs from St. Vicente, a plantation between Lamanga and Acoyapa, that he occupied St. Vicente and held it against three attacks made by the government forces on Tuesday. Conirmatory telegrams have been received from other provisional officials in the field, one of whom declared his belief that Bluefields will be able soon to celebrate the occupation of Acoyapa, which is twelve miles from St. Vicente.

Gen. Matuty with 300 provisionals is expected to join Gen. Mena today.

Zelaya Arrives in Spain.

VIGO, Spain, Feb. 18.—Jose Santos Zelaya, former president of Nicaragua, arrived here today on the steamer Allemania.

OCEAN STEAMER IS MISSING

Prins Willem II. Reported Long Overdue at Port au Prince.

CRUISER LOOKS FOR IT.

Grave Fears Are Entertained for Safety of the Vessel.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Feb. 18.—Grave fears are entertained here for the safety of the Dutch steamer Prins Willem II., due here from Amsterdam since Feb. 7. The Dutch cruiser Utrecht passed north of this island yesterday, steering eastward. It inquired by wireless whether the missing steamer had arrived and was informed that no news of it had been received.

The Prins Willem II. is a passenger and mail steamship of 1,621 tons and is owned at Amsterdam. It makes regular trips between that port and the West Indies.

PRINCE DENIES EMERALD STORY

Miguel of Braganza Issues Statement on Report That He Invested $1,000,000 in Mines.

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Prince Miguel of Braganza, who recently married Miss Anita Stewart of New York, gave out a statement to the press here today as follows:

"The newspaper reports concerning myself and $1,000,000 invested in emerald mines are absolutely unfounded. I never heard of the matter, nor do I know the people said to have been concerned."

The police of Berlin on Wednesday took possession of promissory notes representing a large sum, which were given by Prince Francis Joseph of Braganza, brother of Prince Miguel, to a mining venture to a man who, the prince says, he supposed was Frederick Vanderbilt of New York.

NIGHT WORK FOR GIRLS TO END.

Decree of French Ministry of Labor, Owing to Abuses, Is Effective on June 30.

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Night work by French seamstresses and other working girls will cease on June 30 by a decree of the ministry of labor. The sweating system in France, especially in Paris, has resulted in great abuses. In many fashionable dressmaking establishments the girls have been in the habit of working until 10 or 11 o'clock at night and during the rush of the American season they are often retained all night.

NEW DIOCESES IN AMERICA.

Vatican to Establish That of Crookston and Another at Bismarck.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, Feb. 18.—Two new dioceses are to be instituted in America. They are Crookston, which will be formed of a part of the present diocese of Dubuque and Bismarck, now forming a part of the diocese of St. Paul, Minn.

ASQUITH IS FIRM IN FACE OF BLUFF

Laborite and Irish Demand for "Guarantees" Regarded as for Effect.

HANDS TIED AT PRESENT.

Premier Reiterates Determination to Clear Up Budget Before Veto.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The demands for "guarantees" which the Laborites and Nationalists must know Premier Asquith cannot seek from King Edward until the prime minister is enabled to demonstrate by actual voting in the house of commons that he has a solid majority of the house at his back, is described today as being in the nature of a bluff.

Premier Asquith appears to have met this bluff with a reiteration of his determination to clear up the financial situation before launching a campaign against the veto of the house of lords, and it is freely predicted that the extremists will decide at party meetings on Monday that they have more to gain by keeping the government in office than in precipitating another general election.

Keir Hardie Changes Front.

James Keir Hardie, president of the Independent Labor party, in an interview said his declaration that the Laborites would support the government was made under the impression that Premier Asquith had already obtained from the king guarantee forbidding will the house of lords, without which the premier declared before the elections, he would not take office again.

Now, however, Hardie declared, since he had learned that no guaranties were obtained, he shared the opinion of George M. Barnes, member for Glasgow and chairman of the Laborite party, who issued a manifesto yesterday in which he said that if Premier Asquith is to hold office without assurances from the king with regard to the veto, such a course would not be acceptable to the Labor party.

Some of the Laborites disavowed the ultimatum which Barnes sent to Premier Asquith demanding that the veto question precede the budget measure in consideration by the house. Some of these individuals alleged that the Labor party had not as yet reached a decision and asserted that the chairman's manifesto constituted merely an expression of his personal opinion.

Redmond to Salve Conscience.

It is expected that John Redmond will salve his conscience by offering an amendment either to the premier's speech next Monday or to the budget measure, to the effect that Ireland shall be excluded from the operation of the land and excise clauses of the financial bill.

The ministers cannot possibly accept such an amendment, but the Irish leader will be in a position to say that he did all he could and, with this explanation, allow the budget to pass.

Herbert Samuel, newly appointed postmaster general, prophesied tonight that the government's action against the lords would be swift, courageous, and decisive.

Song Festival at St. James' Church.

St. James' Episcopal church choir, at its monthly song festival tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, will sing Maunder's Lenten cantata, "Penitence, Pardon, and Peace." West's magnificat in B flat, Dudley Buck's "Deus Misereatur," and Spicker's "Behold There Shall Be a Day." Following the song festival John W. Norton, organist and choirmaster, will play "March Religieuse," by Guilmant; "Triumphal Chorus," by Lemmens; "Andantino in D flat," by Lemare, and "Fantasia," by Tours.

The Bane of Beauty

Is Pimples, Boils, Blackheads, Eruptions: Its Blessing Is "Stuart's Calcium Wafers."

Trial Package Free

Is your blood out of order? Have you pimples on your face and body? Do you have boils, blotches, eczema, blackheads, rash and rough, scabby skin? If you have all or some of these it is a sure indication that there is something the matter with your blood. Of course you know this as well as any one and have suspected it from the first appearance of a pimple or boil. You have been negligent in attending to yourself and your case; this is all. It is so easy to be negligent and put off for another time that which should have been done right away.

And all these vexations and annoyances—pimples, boils, etc.—are your good friends, so don't harbor ill feelings towards them and attack them with ugly remedies in order to rid yourself of them. Besides being the escape of bad and poisonous humors, they act as messengers which the blood sends out to tell you that it is in peril and needs help and seeks it from you. The blood is starving and must have supplies; famishing for some certain kind of food which it has been denied and is unable to get. More messengers and yet more are sent out as the delay becomes longer and they plead for and almost demand help.

Eczema, rash, tetters, blackheads come, all persistently telling the same story of the great and imminent need of aid. Science has made the important discovery that when these various eruptions appear on the surface of the body that the blood and system need a calcium—a limelight—in order that it may do chemically correct and able to do all the important work assigned to it.

The scientific and medical laboratories have been busy endeavoring to produce a product, manufacture a medicine, invent a remedy adequate to this need and entirely adapted to the purpose required. The demand was for something more carefully elaborated than the rude and rather elementary remedies heretofore used. The happy outcome of this combined effort is the STUART CALCIUM WAFERS, which contain in agreeable and convenient form the lacking food which the blood has been craving and demanding, and with the use of these as a remedial agent, the blood becomes pure and normal and the outward indications disappear. No more pimples, boils, and blackheads; no more eczema, rash, eruptions and scabby skin for the reason that there is no cause for them, and the skin very soon becomes clean and smooth and the entire system enters upon a new lease of health and activity.

The Calcium Wafers' action is prompt and the system responds quickly; no tiresome months and years waiting for results. While there is nothing magical or mysterious about these wafers, their quick and silent action may well suggest it. They are the willing helpers of the various organs of the body; they give the lungs a lift by furnishing them with better material to work on; they invigorate the bowels and encourage them to normal action; in fact, lend a helping hand wherever needed.

Get rid of the pimples and blotches on your face, the boils on your body, and be well and healthy once more; realize that this is your condition again and your friends as well. Try the STUART CALCIUM WAFER TREATMENT; it is not expensive even in extreme cases. Ask your doctor what he thinks of Calcium Sulphide as a blood purifier; if he knows his business he will have but one answer. There is no better way of presenting this remedy than in the form Calcium Tablet form, and a trial package will be sent to any one who will write for it. This trial package will serve as an introduction, after which if you need more you can get it yourself at the Drug store. You will be charged 50 cents a box for it here, as this is the price everywhere. For the free trial package address F. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Building, Marshall, Michigan.

Business Men of America Make Fashions as Well as Fortunes

American business men have long dictated to Europe in matters of finance and this year they will dictate in matters of style. America now has the best designers in the world, and no other nation equals its great system of manufacture. Chicago alone produces $80,000,000 worth of men's clothing or one out of every four suits made in the whole United States. The fascinating story of this great industry will be told in detail on March 6th in The Chicago Tribune's American Fashion Number. It will appeal to the whole public and be of special interest to the 120,000 dealers of wearing apparel in this country. Order your newsdealer to save a copy on March 6th for you—remember the date.

CAIRO'S SECOND RIOT.

The second outbreak of mob violence in Cairo within half a year ought to satisfy the citizens of that community that their civic conditions require a drastic overhauling. If the present sheriff has shown more courage than his predecessor, whom the governor removed, the incident of the young member of the mob who is said to have been left to die after the first assault does not show that the new sheriff is overburdened with good judgment. If colored deputies were employed, short of absolute necessity, this, too, is an inexcusable mistake. It cannot but add fuel to the flames of race hatred and seriously retard measures for any fundamental treatment of the situation.

The salient lesson of this second riot is that it is up to the reputable citizens of Cairo to take this situation in hand. They must examine the civic conditions which make such affairs possible. What is the matter with their city government that it cannot maintain peace, prevent wholesale crime, or punish without clumsy miscarriages such outbreaks? The mob seems to have been recruited in saloons, and it used saloons as refuges between assaults. What surveillance is maintained over these resorts, and over those who patronize them, white or black?

Cairo ought to think enough of itself to cure this disease, and to cure it there first must be intelligent diagnosis. To wait till violence breaks out and then to call wildly for soldiers is a costly folly with which the state can have little patience unless the decent citizenship of the city shows a disposition itself to deal with the problem forethoughtfully and thoroughly.

GENIUS BEHIND STONE WALLS.

Prison walls, so far from deterring genius of a certain sort, seem to spur it on. A petition for pardon has been circulated in favor of a convict in the Minnesota penitentiary who while incarcerated succeeded by grafting, of an innocent sort, certain fruits so as to produce a lemon as large as a pumpkin. Another man similarly situated in Nebraska has invented a self-balancing aeroplane, and a pardon is sought for him also. In an eastern prison a convict has patented a process for something or other for which he has been offered $50,000. In Kansas two years ago the governor pardoned a convict who wrote a poem, although this seemed stretching the executive prerogative the wrong way. There is plenty of inventive genius confined behind stone walls, but most of it is employed devising means to get out.

AN IMPROVEMENT IN TELEGRAPH SERVICE.

Among the innovations which it is said the new management of the Western Union Telegraph company proposes to institute will be one by which "night letters" of fifty words each may be mailed to or delivered at its main office not later than midnight, the same to be sent by wire at the cost of a ten word day dispatch to the same point. It is also proposed that any telephone subscriber may telephone a message to the telegraph company, the charge for the same being added to the subscriber's telephone bill at the end of the month.

The night letter accommodation is something which will undoubtedly be widely taken advantage of not only by individuals but also by business houses. At night the telegraph companies have heretofore had many idle wires. This will not only put many more operators at work but will result in a largely increased revenue for the company. The "letter" on reaching its destination will be mailed at the earliest possible moment, or be delivered by messenger or telephone to the person for whom it is intended.

In case a message is taken for a town where a night telegraphic system is not maintained, it will be sent to the nearest night point and mailed or telephoned from there.

This combined use of the telegraph and telephone service will give an accommodation approaching that of the postal telegraph system in use in Great Britain. There has been need of something like this for many years. The incompleteness of the telegraph service and the high rates charged have kept the public from making freer use of the wires than is the case in other countries. A few such progressive ideas as this will be of common benefit to the company and those who need its services.

THE HARBOR SITUATION.

Personally I am not strongly committed to that theory (development by private capital under city control) as the best to be worked out ultimately. At the same time it is a question whether the city, even if it were financially able, would want to go into an enterprise in which the profit would be so uncertain.—Ald. Foell, chairman of committee on harbor, wharves, and bridges.

Ald. Foell's duties, here confessed, may explain the exceedingly languid interest with which the proposed enabling legislation has been pressed. It may explain the want of practical progress which has brought about Mr. Ewen's protest and resignation. It may explain why the counsel for the Pugh Terminal company feels sure that while "the ordinance just now is not wholly satisfactory to us," terms can be reached.

Very likely—if the Ton bill fails.

With the representatives of the city in doubt as to whether the city really ought to build and control its great harbor, even if it were authorized and financially able to do so, with the city notoriously poverty stricken, and certain for many years to be without means to proceed with the work or to take it over once it is done, with no competitor to bid against, and the pressure for relief becoming heavier every day—we do not blame Attorney Gurley for indulging in roseate hopes of satisfactory terms for his company.

But what does the business community think of this situation?

Does a negotiation under duress of urgent need—with the city's hands tied and every avenue of resource, save one, shut off—does this promise, does this permit, a solution satisfactory to the city?

THE TRIBUNE believes that Chicago will not walk into a cul de sac.

There is one way out of the harbor dilemma, and one only. That is the way of the Ton bill authorizing the sanitary board to act.

BEWARE, MR. KRAUSE!

The longer is considered the plan to put to death Chicago's homeless cats the more appalling seems the proposal. Surely Mr. Hugo Krause belongs not with the Anti-Cruelty society, but with something far removed from that in its object. Mr. Krause's idea is to rid Chicago of 500,000 pussies which now have no firesides by which to purr, to put them out of their hungry state and to relieve the city of their nightly caterwauling. But does he realize what he is about to do?

At the statistical average of nine lives to each cat, he would blot out 4,500,000 feline existences! If the human mind stands appalled at this awful cataclysm, this unparalleled destruction of cat life, how will it comprehend the results? Chicago has become used to be lulled to sleep by the music made by these harmless animals. For generations the space between wakefulness and oblivion has been bridged by this concourse of sounds. Once deprived of this medium of forgetfulness of care, what will take its place?

Can the human mind grasp the depths of the silence which is to follow the shutting off of these accustomed sounds? That silence will partake of what was before the creation, when the world was without form and void, of the awful intensity which is to follow death! Reason starts back aghast from contemplating this silence. That way madness lies.

THE VERSES OF MR. JAMES STEPHENS.

Miss Jeannette L. Gilder confesses her intellectual surrender to the poems of James Stephens, asking only for the military honor of marching out with side arms and with colors unfurled. This is unfortunate, inasmuch as it puts a well known book authority in practical flight—the honors of war do not do much more than save the face of the defeated—before a volume of verse which might not have been so formidable if it had been met with a sterner resolve.

We do not wish to suggest that Miss Gilder be court martialed for cowardice, but we do believe if she had survived the first tremors caused by the title of one of the poems—"The Red Haired Man's Wife"—she would have found no difficulty in handling the rest of the book. Apparently she sought for some reason to explain the relation of the red hair of the husband to the emotions of the wife, and finding none was able merely to fight down an impulse towards immediate and precipitate flight and to send out a flag for terms of surrender.

"The Dancer," which, with the "Red Haired Man's Wife," Miss Gilder presented yesterday in her book news in THE TRIBUNE as illustrative of Mr. Stephens' evasive and formidable art, is no fearsome thing, and the reviewer would not have been frightened by it if she had not already been stampeded by the "Red Haired" poem. After one has given up the notion that the verse relates to a Salome dancer who "will not dance"—and in abandoning the idea strangles a fond hope—the poem becomes not only comprehensible but fascinating. The Salome idea prevails until the poet causes the dancer to refer to the gathering for the delight of which she is expected to perform and makes her exclaim:

Let them drain
Their porter pots and snuffle—I'll not stay.

Neither of these acts is regarded as proper in the assemblages which have found the greatest artistic appeal in the vision of Salome. Snuffles and porter pots indicate the low browed, and the locale of the poem immediately shifts from fashionable circles to the beer hall. If Miss Gilder had not been frightened by the title to which reference has been made she would have found in "The Dancer" a broad canvas on which a remarkable picture is presented.

If she had not surrendered she would have enjoyed "Where the Demons Grin," "Ould Snarly Gob," and "Seumas Beg." Old Seumas Beg:

And he had
A gold ring in one ear; the other one
"Was bit off by a crocodile, bedad."
That's what he said. He taught me how to chew.
He was a real nice man. He liked me, too.

ECHOES OF THE PAROLE LAW DECISION.

"Am I strictly legal? Is my precious salary safe?" These are questions which many alarmed state job holders are asking. They are reading with knitted brows the laws which created their offices and the Supreme court parole law decision to find out if they are hit by it. Their feelings were not moved by one of the first wild reports of the effect of the decision—that it might put back behind gloomy prison walls men out on parole. They are deeply moved by the mere possibility that they themselves may be lifted out of office. They have not so much respect for the Supreme court as they had last week.

The alarm of some officeholders does not appeal forcibly to the sympathies of the people of Illinois. They do not think any grievous harm would be done even if it were to turn out that the Supreme court decision does cloud the title to office of certain more or less estimable gentlemen. It may well be that some of the acts creating various offices are defective in one or another particular. The legislature having been careless of the constitution in one case, probably has been so in others.

But there can be no sudden evictions from office, no heartbreaking stoppage of salaries, something which would be doubly calamitous during these chill February days. The members of the state board of administration, the state food commission, and other commissions who are asking "where they are at" can go on with the zealous performance of their important duties until the Supreme court shall have directly declared them dead ones. That would take considerable time.

It would not be necessary, however, to wait in fear and trembling for the court to behead them. If in the sober judgment of the governor and the attorney general there be any laws under which salaries are drawn that should be sent to the legislative hospital for surgical treatment, the governor has but to wave his fairy wand and speak the magic word—that is, to call a special session after this one is over. The legislators would respond with eagerness to his call, and any destructive decisions by the Supreme court could be anticipated. It would not be offended. It would, indeed, be delighted if the legislature were to save it the labor of killing some laws.

There is no occasion for the Springfield panic. The agitated officeholders should calm down. This month's salary will not be their last.

BANKER DOUGHERTY, formerly of Peoria, but latterly of Joliet, who pleaded guilty five years ago to appropriating "erroneously" $150,000 that didn't belong to him, thinks he has been punished enough, and is trying to get out of the penitentiary. Isn't $150,000 a year rather a large remuneration for doing light work in a state institution?

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright, 1910, by the Brentwood Company.]

FROM the fact that young Lord Torrington is shown, by legal proceedings which have just taken place in London, to be head over ears in debt to money lenders, with interest, and to have been borrowing money from them at 40 and 60 per cent, in order to preserve himself from being posted as a defaulter for the nonpayment of his racing debts, it would seem that this promising scion of the British peerage has reached the end of his financial tether.

He has not yet attained the age of 25, and, unless rescued without delay by marriage with an heiress, probably will quickly end up in the bankruptcy court and be compelled to give up his fine old home in Kent, known as Yotes court, surrounded by a park containing some of the grandest old trees in the county and stocked full of family relics, including the cabin chair in which the unfortunate Admiral John Byng, fourth son of the first Viscount Torrington, was shot in 1757, after being sentenced to death by court martial.

The court, which was composed of the admirals, acquitted him of the charges of cowardice which had been brought against him, but issued a verdict to the effect that he had not done his utmost to relieve Minorca, which was being besieged by the French fleet.

According to the articles of war, the court had no alternative but to sentence the admiral to death on this account, but strongly recommended him to mercy, on the ground that he had been sent to sea with a squadron poorly manned and in shameful condition, and that at the most he had been guilty of an error of judgment and of reluctance to accept the responsibility of engaging overwhelming French forces with ships in bad shape and inadequately armed.

The prime minister and government endeavored in vain to obtain not merely a commutation, but a pardon, but George II, with his traditional obstinacy, declined to listen to a word in the admiral's behalf, and he was shot down by a file of marines on the quarterdeck of his own flagship in Portsmouth harbor, a victim of his sovereign's obstinacy and of the construction of the existing naval regulations.

The first Lord Torrington was Admiral Sir George Byng, so famous for his victories over the Spaniards, and it is from another of his sons, Robert Byng, governor of Barbados, that the earls of Strafford are descended. The late earl of Strafford, it may be remembered, married the widowed Mrs. Samuel Colgate of New York, and met with a tragic death, being run over by a railroad train at the moment when his American wife was being presented for the first time at court.

The house of Byng is one of the oldest in the kingdom, and Lord Torrington is its chief. The late Lord Torrington, eighth of his line, was a veteran of the Indian mutiny, and one of the favorite and trusted members of the household of Queen Victoria. It was her absolute refusal to dispense with his services as a lord in waiting that led to the inauguration of the present system whereby one lord in waiting remains permanently attached to the service of his sovereign—just at present it is Lord Suffield.

The others, some seven in number, change with the administration, and have to belong to the political party that happens to be in office. His predecessor, the seventh viscount, was also a lord in waiting to Queen Victoria, in the early years of her reign, and the present lord officiated as one of the pages of honor of King Edward on the occasion of his coronation, thus continuing the court connection of the family.

There is no office that necessitates a greater amount of discretion and diplomacy than that of military or naval attaché to an embassy. The chief mission of the officers appointed to these posts is to obtain information with regard to the defenses of the country in which they are stationed and to keep track of the new departures in the organization, the equipment, and the armament of its army and navy. More especially are they required to keep their governments informed of the new inventions in the way of ordnance, explosives, rifles, aviation, etc.; that is to say, the things which the powers concerned are anxious to keep to themselves and to envelop with a mantle of secrecy.

The penetration of this secrecy is always a delicate matter. There almost always are traitors who are willing to sell to the military or naval attaché the information which he is endeavoring to obtain, and if the traitor gets caught at the game, and is shown to have communicated secrets to the attaché, the position of the latter becomes intolerable. For he is held to have been guilty of an abuse of the hospitality which he is enjoying on the part of the government and nation of the country in which he is stationed. In fact, he is regarded much as a man who while staying in the country house of a friend bribes dishonest servants of the latter to betray secrets affecting the position and safety of his host.

During the various Dreyfus trials the public were allowed to perceive, for the first time, the nature of the activities of the military attachés attached to the foreign embassies at Paris, and how some of them were in the habit of purchasing confidential documents from the officers of the general staff of the French army.

It is in consequence of excessive activity of a similar nature that Col. Matchenke, the military attaché of the Russian embassy at Vienna, has just been quickly transferred from the Austrian capital to Constantinople, his departure from Vienna following his encounter with Emperor Francis Joseph at the last court ball. It seems that the aged monarch, who had always shown himself particularly gracious to Col. Matchenke and had repeatedly invited him to his table and to his shooting parties, declined to acknowledge his bow at the ball, stopped in front of him, looked at him from head to foot in the most contemptuous fashion, and then turned his back upon him.

The emperor had only a few hours previously received a report of the arrest of an Austrian officer of the name of Kretschmar, attached to the war department at Vienna, in the act of carrying plans and data into the colonel's house.

Caught redhanded, the man made a complete confession, acknowledging sums of money which he had received from the Russian military attaché, and also convincing the Austrian authorities that he was by no means the only one of his stripe in the colonel's pay. The colonel has until now been so well known and popular a figure at Vienna, and particularly at the Austrian court, that the whole affair has created a great sensation.

A funny story is current in London concerning an encounter between Lady Lansdowne and one of the Japanese chamberlains of Prince Fushimi, who has lately been visiting England. The chamberlain spoke English delightfully, and Lady Lansdowne found his conversation interesting.

When he took his leave he expressed the hope that he had not "cockroached too much on your ladyship's time." Lady Lansdowne mentioned the slip to her husband, and it was decided that when she next met the chamberlain it would be kind to call his attention to this lapsus linguæ. This she did, delicately, but he did not seem at first to grasp the error.

At last he beamed, thanked her profusely for setting him right, and then, with a foreigner's idea of gender, observed: "I quite understand. When I speak to your ladyship I must say 'hen-croach,' and when I speak to Lord Lansdowne I must say 'cock-roach.'"

REVOLUTIONS IN TAXATION.
[Minneapolis Journal.]

After having fought fiercely against the Lloyd George budget and won a partial victory, the English Conservatives have notified the government that they will support it in the session which begins next week. The Conservatives are not any more in favor of the budget than they were before, but they believe that to continue the fight and further disorganize the government finances would produce a panic. Hence they will agree to the budget.

Mr. Lloyd George will get in his taxes upon unearned increments of wealth and will have a chance to develop his plans for valuing the lands of the country. The privileged classes probably have seen the beginning of a revolution in taxation which will not go backward, just as we in this country have entered upon an era when lower tariffs will prevail. The only politicians who are willfully blind are those who try to assure themselves that opposition to an unnecessarily high tariff will blow over. It blew over in the past because the people were imperfectly educated on the question. But the Dingley and Payne bills opened their eyes, and they will not rest until protection is shorn of its excesses.

TO LEAGUE MEMBERS.

We had occasion yesterday to advise a clever baiter that "jolly mood" does not rhyme with "solitude"—except on the final syllable—and hence is no better rhyme than peevish mood, or crapulent mood. This is a point that so many poets overlook. All sounds after the rhymed syllable must be the same in both words; thus paragon rhymes Aragon, but Marathon does not—except on the final syllable. Browning, perniciously inventive, was fond of such rhymes as "enough is it" and "sumcit"; and the Ingoldsby Legends are sprinkled with such ingenuities as "Holy Saint Ermengarde, O from these vermin guard." All the sounds after the rhymed and accented syllable are the same in both combinations of words. If this is not perfectly clear we will have Dr. Dubbs lecture on it.

THE Evanston News of Feb. 9 has a picture of a young man sashaying out of the Y. M. C. A. with a happy souse on, and a caption explains that he is starting "on the road to good citizenship." We shall have to detail Nic to investigate Evanston.

AN ODE, BY CHARLES R. ALLOWAY.
[With an illustration by Charles Francis Brown.]

At her window she'd sit the whole day through
Where her noble hero's grave was in full view.
During this time, 'tis said, she never left her room;
Her loving heart was filled with bitter gloom.

The twenty-first day of May, Eighteen Hundred and One,
As she reached the good old age of seventy-one,
The welcome call of Death came to her door,
And she went to meet her George upon that golden shore.

NIC RECEIVES A VALENTINE.

Plano, Ill., Feb. 18.—Believe I'll go to Dwight. Here is a valentine I received from N. C. Komis of that place:

"Heap of friends has Nic Coldwater
In his chase for Minnehaha—
Minnehaha, laughing water,
And the cart in which they brought her.
He pursues this mighty wagon
He pursues it with a dagon,
O'er the plains of Illinoi.
May you catch it, Nic Coldwater;
May you give your foes the laughter,
Hand them all the merry ha-ha,
Singing la-la, la-la, la-la.
Come to Dwight, Nic, with your fault ons;
Come to Dwight, Nic, on the Alton.
This is where we know you'll strike it,
And in time you'll learn to like it,
In the land of Illinoi."

NIC COLDWATER.

They are trying to put one over on Nic at Waterloo, Ia. Keep him away from that town, or if you do send him there mail him on the seat. The Eagles clubrooms are so wet that they have them lined with tile, and they hand you rubber boots and a rain coat before you go up. I've been against that game. R. B. C.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE SPITTING HABIT.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Weeks ago I read that Chief Steward was to start another crusade against spitting. These outbreaks come in biennial, semi-annual, or bimonthly spasms, it seems to me. I have been compelled to utilize, almost daily, the Milwaukee avenue cars, and not a trip is made without one or more men, sometimes women, committing the filthy act of spitting. DISGUSTED.

BRITISH RULE IN INDIA.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Can British rule in India be judged by British rule in Africa, or British rule in Ireland, or British rule in America? Does the leopard change his spots? What kind was British rule in America when the English bribed the American Indians to tomahawk the settlers in the original colonies? What kind of British jurisprudence did they have in South Africa when Boer women and children were herded together in concentrado camps and subjected to the insults of British soldiers within the memory of those who have not yet reached the age of maturity? If the "magnificent system of jurisprudence" administered in India by the British is similar to that administered in Ireland by them, where their juries are packed and their judges corrupted against those who struggle against the tyrannies, treacheries, and exactions of British rule in that oppressed country, against such a "blessing for all time," with our most sincere and heartfelt devotion we would most devoutly pray may the Almighty in his infinite wisdom deliver the remainder of the human race the world over from such "a blessing." EUGENE F. O'RIORDAN.

SAW THE FIRST ROBIN.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I want to tell you how we appreciate your paper in our home. We especially enjoy reading the articles written by Prof. Dorsey, Mr. Hammond's dramatic criticisms, also the "Line-o'-Type or Two" by Mr. Taylor. One is investing his money to a good advantage when he subscribes for your paper. By the way, my husband says that he saw a robin on New Year's day and that the people in Morgan Park have nothing on him. I suppose he was looking in the window of some bird store on State street. MRS. H. A. L.

FACTIONALISM VERSUS PUBLIC WELFARE.

Spencer, Ia., Feb. 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I wish to congratulate you on the unanswerable evidence of public sentiment you have obtained by your poll of the editors. It shows that the people know that they have been duped. Your résumé of the poll surpasses the term "editorial" and stands as an epic—lofty, unanswerable, concise, grand. Lincoln, Washington, Webster, nor any other statesman ever penned a more true or a nobler patriotic sentiment or more completely subverted factionalism for the public welfare. J. B. WEBB.

AN ARTIST'S ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I wish to express to THE TRIBUNE my thanks for the kind acknowledgment and remarks on my work in the present exhibitions at the Art Institute which appeared in THE TRIBUNE on Feb. 9 and 13.

After six years' sojourn in Europe it is certainly a pleasure to be welcomed by my own country. The art and artists of Chicago need the support of the press in their efforts toward a great national art and I, as a Chicago artist, appreciate the words of THE TRIBUNE.
A. LOO MATTHEWS.

WANTS THE CATS SMOTHERED.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I read with interest in THE TRIBUNE the humane suggestion of Hugo Krause, superintendent of the Anti-Cruelty society, for a quick and painless exit of the poor, starved, homeless tramp cat. It truly is a distressing sight to witness the little hungry felines prowling around in fruitless search for food, and, when caught at it, nine times out of ten sticks or stones are resorted to, or a small boy hired for a few pennies to carry it off to some other neighborhood to share a similar fate. No one gives a thought or a care to its being hungry or thinks of feeding it, and so it drags through its miserable existence.

The suggestion of a "cat wagon" is a good one, and I for one heartily approve of it and thank Superintendent Krause for the idea and sincerely hope it will be carried out. H. LA VERNE BATEMAN.

CARNEGIE AND HIS TAX.

Vinton, Ia., Feb. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Andrew Carnegie defends his $365,000,000 he has failed to have assessed and frankly states if they should take courage and assess him on this amount he would have to leave New York. It is amusing to see this excuse given by a man that is so well and favorably known. It is clear it is wrong to assess him this $5,000,000, or the balance of this $300,000,000 he received for his $15,000,000 of steel stock is open to the same assessment.

The fact that he does not come forward and pay his tax as poor men are obliged to is the very thing that is making anarchists every day in this country.

If these rich men will come forward and do the right thing, and pay their taxes as the poor men do, the rate would drop to $5 per $1,000 at once throughout the country.

Now, the sublime cheek of the present move to abolish all personal tax is an insult to the sense of justice which the poor American citizen has held and does today. Just as sensible would it be to say to the burglar who has robbed you of $35 out of your $100: "Here, take the other $5." Is it any wonder that this sneaking is creating class hatred? JUSTICE.

HISTORY FAKERS.

Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It is a real pleasure to some of your many readers to peruse your comments concerning "Another Boston Massacre." There is no doubting the fact that Mr. James Stark in a muckraking campaign has exhibited a most reckless disregard for the common proprieties vouchsafed to the unreplying dead by a sense of a square deal and fair play.

But why are these diatribes of the iconoclastic Mr. Stark more offensive to the spirit of respect for American patriots than the vilifying drivel doled out by the strenuous Mr. Roosevelt in dealing with the traits and habits of the selfsame heroes? Are your readers to understand from your prompt protests in the one case and your persistent silence in the other that Mr. Stark is a small man and Mr. Roosevelt a great one—that one can rise to the dignity of a history faker without reprovings upon the one hand and reproaches upon the other? If one merits an editorial castigation, why not both? Is it a question of stature—intellectually estimated? Is the political prominence of the parties under consideration a factor in withholding an adverse criticism? B. M. BLAND.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

CANNON, FAKE STATESMAN.
[Salt Lake Tribune.]

We note that Speaker Cannon is still in full possession of his mania that newspapers are bad, that what they print is fakery, and that journalism altogether is a nuisance that should be held in utter contempt by the American public and especially by American statesmen.

But right there comes the rub. American statesmen of the substantial sort have no quarrel with the newspapers. It is only fake statesmen, grafters in politics, leeches on the public purse, and self-seeking, selfish politicians and public robbers that object so strenuously to newspapers and that are so glib in pronouncing what the newspapers print to be fakery. That is, it is only fake statesmen that consider newspapers and newspaper contents fakes.

There is no possible fakery worse than the Cannon fakery.

FOOLISH LEGISLATION.
[Bloomington Pantagraph.]

When a foolish law is set aside by the Supreme court the reasons for it are generally made so simple and plain that most people wonder why it was not done sooner. Thus, in view of the reasons given by the court for holding the parole law invalid, it appears a little strange that the state should have operated under such a law for ten years or more. It might as well have been tested at once and declared void and all the confusion obviated which is now involved.

The law appears to have been a sample of a sort of legislation which softhearted and equally softheaded people want to see enacted to make the way a little easier for persons convicted of crime. It was a specimen of that gushing and tender humanity which would turn criminals loose upon society a little sooner than before under looser regulations and place a sort of premium upon lawbreaking.

Among the New Books

ENGLISH SOCIETY DRONE THE HERO OF MRS. ATHERTON'S LATEST NOVEL.

"Tower of Ivory" Pictures the Lazy, Debt-Ridden Snob Whose Goal Is Marriage with an Heiress.

I HAVE before me the advance sheets of Mrs. Atherton's novel, "TOWER OF IVORY," which will be published next week by the Macmillan company. The scene is laid in Bavaria—that is, most of it is a story of the artistic and aristocratic life. The principal figures are of the aristocracy, while the leading woman, Margarethe Styr, is an opera singer of Bavarian ancestry, but American birth. The hero, if such a man can be called a hero, is an Englishman, John Ordham. If Mrs. Atherton had ever set to show up the hideousness of most international marriages she could not have done it better than she has in this story. John Ordham is a type of Englishmen, but not an admirable type. But still the type that is on the lookout for American heiresses so that they may live lives of odious idleness. Ordham seems to have been even of a more despicable character than those scions of British aristocracy who sell their coronets for American gold. I think something must have been wrong with him constitutionally, as he could not grow a beard, but this smoothness of his face, according to Mrs. Atherton, revealed the "perfect oval of his face and the clean, yet rounded, outline of the long jaw; but he yearned for a beard to shave as a girl yearns for her first adorer to maltreat."

There are always American mothers willing to sell their daughters to foreign men of rank or title and they are, to my mind, just as odious as the men who lend themselves to the deal. The mother of the American girl in this book intended to buy Ordham the moment she laid her eyes on him, notwithstanding the unmanliness that his inability to raise a beard must have given his appearance. Ordhem confessed to the opera singer, Margarethe Styr, that he must have money and when she said to him, "I suppose it has never occurred to you to work," he barely saved his knife from dropping to the little Steven plate. His eyes grew round and his mouth fell slightly apart.

Styr almost laughed outright, but she dropped her eyes to her cup and said: "Well, I am an American, you know. A young man over there, born in a position corresponding to your own—well, if he found himself in debt or wanted money badly and there was no immediate prospect of inheritance, he would go to work and make it."

"How odd! No, I don't mean that. Of course, I know those things do happen, but it must be when they feel fitted, have been prepared, for some of those things that make money. The only one I ever thought about it—one night not long ago," he paled at the memory, "I could not think of any means by which I could support myself but I lose the little I have. But in America I suppose the business instinct is in every man's soul—naturally. Why shouldn't they be able to make fortunes if they must? Some of our chaps have to go to work also, but I never heard of any of them making a fortune—not even in the scientific. Only people you never heard of before do that. I suppose our brains are too old, they are no longer capable of that amount of concentration and energy. For generations we have had so many interests. To let a fixed idea like money making control you, I fancy you must have, and inherit little intellectual development. Nevertheless, I should think that those same indulgences and developments must be among the incentives."

"That is the most ingenious defense I ever heard a lazy man put up. But I am not sure there is not a good deal in it. The fact remains, however, that you want money and do not want to work. Suppose I send you to my banker in New York. He is a good friend of mine and would give you a chance of some sort. Would you commence your very superior faculties upon the making of money?"

"Good heavens, no! I should hate it. To spend one's life trying to be more dishonest than the next man—I had rather live on a younger son's portion all my life." And he elevated his nose in aristocratic disgust.

"I should hate the people I should be compelled to associate with. As I said just now, it requires enormous concentration to be a successful man of business; and fancy hearing no other topic of conversation day in and out, to see, to feel nothing else in the men by whom one was surrounded!"

"You might be a cowboy. That has appealed to other Englishmen, and is more picturesque—quite honest, also, I should think."

"But so dirty and such a hard life physically. They get up at 4 and go to bed with their boots on. Then, after they are quite demoralized, all their fine tastes hopelessly blunted, they come home without a penny. Heaven only knows into what limbo they disappear then. Don't think I am really lazy. [There was a genuine anxiety in his tones!] What you said at Neuschwanstein about the possibility of finishing as a society drone has got me up every morning in time for Fräulein Lutz I mean to pass my examinations and enter diplomacy. But I am afraid I am fitted for nothing else. I haven't stumbled into it blindly. It is that or nothing, and although the suggestion was my mother's, my father quite agreed with her."

"It all comes back to this—you must marry money."

"Alas, yes! But four or five years hence. I will pay these bills somehow, and then I can run up others. They will always wait a few years."

"But suppose you could meet some girl of great wealth whom you could love? That would be the ideal solution, and there are many rich and lovely girls. Should not you like peace of mind and happiness?"

"Happiness!" He started at her in a fashion he had got into before, as if she were a mirror in which the future might take form. "I fancy that no matter whom I marry—even if persuaded that I was in love with her—I should go sooner or later down than I should begin to invent some one I might have loved better." He came to himself with a smile. "Will you let me smoke? And tell you what a delight it is to see you again! And this room! To think that I might sit in it often! That we are to be friends for a whole summer! Nothing in life can ever be as wonderful as that!"

A fine specimen of a man this.

I must say of Mrs. Atherton's story that it is interesting, full of strong bits of local color, and it abounds with character drawing that is so good that it must be from the life. One of the characters flitting through the book is that of Ludwig, the mad king of Bavaria. Mrs. Atherton lived in Munich for some time to get into the spirit of the life of that fascinating city, particularly fascinating to those who love German music and German beer.

Mr. Alexander Irvine's autobiography "From the Bottom Up," which has been running through the World's Work, will be published next week by Messrs. Doubleday, Page & Co. It is a far cry from the autobiographical papers of John D. Rockefeller to the autobiographical papers of Alexander Irvine, and yet one followed the other in the pages of the World's Work. Both of these men worked from the bottom up, but in different ways. It is for the world to say which has reached the top, the socialist or the millionaire.

Alexander Irvine was born in Ireland. "The world in which I first found myself," he writes, "was a world of hungry people." No doubt Mr. Irvine was hungry himself at that time and at other times, but I do not believe he is hungry now. He is not rich, however, like Mr. Rockefeller, and he does not believe in being rich like Mr. Rockefeller. Mr. Irvine began his business career by selling newspapers in a little Irish village. Then he got a job at grooming horses. At the age of 19 he enlisted, because as an enlisted man he had a chance to learn to read. Before this he had played the part of a scarecrow to a peasant farmer, and he had been a ditch digger and a coal miner. For a time he was a sailor on a British warship, and he was with Gordon in Khartum. According to his publishers he "fought prize fights, saved souls, received a decoration for bravery from Queen Victoria, attended Oxford university, ran an elevator, helped write a dictionary, became assistant janitor, and lived all the time."

Mr. Irvine has now reached middle life and is lay minister of the Church of the Ascension in this city, of which the Rev. Dr. Percy S. Grant is rector. Mr. Irvine runs the socialistic branch of the Church of the Ascension, and his "open forums" are popular with millionaires as well as socialists. I should say millionaires and socialists, for a socialist these days may be a millionaire.

There is much more in the book containing Mr. Irvine's biography than appeared in the magazine. It is an interesting story, because Mr. Irvine knows how to write, and he has, as the title of the book implies, seen life from the bottom up. Mr. Irvine has the style of a story writer, his book reads almost like fiction, and there is so much dialogue in it and so many anecdotes that its pages look as bright as a novel by Victor Hugo.

Mr. Irvine makes things lively in the parish house of the Church of the Ascension, for he is not the only socialist who uses that place as his forum. Morris Hillquit is often heard there and so is the millionaire socialist, Robert Hunter.

There is a wholesome tone about Mr. Irvine's book. There is no whining in it. He fought a big fight and he has obtained the recognition that he sought.

Perhaps you may remember that during the Boer war there was an Englishman named Spenser Wilkinson who was coming to the front on every occasion with prophecies concerning that war. He seemed to be the only Englishman whose opinion on the war was quoted. Whatever he said was cabled to this country, and he was always saying things. Recently he has been made Chichele professor of military history at Oxford, and I daresay that it is all on account of those Boer war prophecies. Now a book by Prof. Wilkinson, called "BRITAIN AT BAY," soon will be published by Messrs. Putnam. In this we find more prophecies, and they will prove unpopular prophecies to his countrymen, I imagine. Prof. Wilkinson believes that a large number of his countrymen will think, each for himself, the thoughts which he is trying to express. It is to them that this book is an appeal. His contention is that the future of England "depends entirely upon the restoration of duty, of which the nation is the censor, to its proper place in our lives." Prof. Wilkinson seems to share the views of the author of "The Englishman's Home," that Great Britain is "drifting, unintentionally and half unconsciously, into a war with the German empire, a state which has a population of 60,000,000, and is better organised for war than any state ever has been in modern times. For such a conflict, which may come about tomorrow, and, unless a great change takes place, must come about in the near future, Great Britain is not prepared." The food of the people, the raw material of their industries, comes to Great Britain by sea, and if there should be a war between that country and one of the powers of Europe tomorrow, this means that supply will be cut off. This, I imagine, will be pleasanter reading to the German emperor than to the king of England. I should think that King Edward would feel like suppressing Prof. Wilkinson and other writers who air these uncomfortable prophecies in public. It may be all very well to whisper his fears into the ears of the premier, but why air them in newspapers and books. The only way out that Mr. Wilkinson sees is hard thinking. In summing up his prophecies he says:

> I cannot but believe that if we could all accustom ourselves to make some sacrifice for the sake of England, if only by giving a few minutes every day to thinking about her, and by trying to convince ourselves that those who are not of our party are yet perhaps animated by the same love of their country as we ourselves, we might realise that the question of duty is answered more easily by performance than by speculation. I suspect that the relations between the political parties, between capital and labor, between master and servant, between rich and poor, between class and class, would become simpler and better if Englishmen were to come to see how natural it is that they should spend their lives for England.

About Prof. Wilkinson's patriotism I do not think there can be any doubt. He wants England to be the greatest nation of the world and to hold her supremacy by force of arms, but it seems to me a mistake to point out the weaknesses in the present state of affairs in public. I am not surprised that his books are highly praised in Germany.

Mr. B. L. Putnam Weale, author of "The Reshaping of the Far East," "Indiscreet Letters from Peking," etc., is just out with a novel, "THE HUMAN COBWEB" (Dodd, Mead & Co.). It is a story of European life in Peking by a man who knows the city as well as most of the readers of THE TRIBUNE know Chicago. As a novel—that is, a story of love and romance—this book may be lacking, but as a picture of China it has few rivals. It is a story of oriental frenzied finance, of men seeking concessions from the Chinese government for railways, mining, and other lines of business. Mr. Weale knows absolutely what he is writing about, and he has wanted to say what he has said here and to have people read it, and he has probably thought that the book would have more readers if it was put in the form of fiction than as mere facts. The descriptions of Chinese scenes are vivid and give one a better idea of a strange country than is sometimes found in books of travel. The people introduced by Mr. Weale are undoubtedly the sort of people that one meets in the foreign colonies of China. Of course there is a love story, but it is not for that that people will read the book; they will read it for the inside picture of Chinese life, in and out of doors, that it gives.

JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

MAX BEERBOHM SAYS OUR PRESIDENTS ARE UPSTARTS.

Smart London Essayist Makes His Reappearance with a New Book of Sketches.

MR. MAX BEERBOHM has the effect of "coming at" the public with a new book of essays which he calls "YET AGAIN." He does not intend to be either serious or entertaining, but in his own way he is delightfully clever as he talks about "Memory of a Midnight Train," or "The House of Commons Manner," or "The Naming of Streets," or "The Humor of the Public."

Of course, being casual in the nature of his utterances, he could not always be right, and he who goes a-browsing among all these "little opinions" is rather pleased than otherwise to find Mr. Beerbohm really wrong now and then in some particular. He is wrong, for example, in "Porro Unum" when, talking about republics and their temporary rulers, he says: "In America, where no kings have been, they are able to make a pretense of enthusiasm for a president. But no real chord of national sentiment is touched by this eminent gentleman who has no past or future eminence, who has been shoved forward for a space and will anon be sent packing in favor of some other upstart. Let some princeling of a foreign state set foot in America, and lo! all the inhabitants are tumbling over one another in their desire for a glimpse of him—a desire which is the natural and pathetic outcome of their unsatisfied inner craving for a dynasty of their own."

Mr. Beerbohm is not aware, apparently, that our presidents are not upstarts. Almost without exception—perhaps quite without exception—our presidents have been of signal service to the public before they reached their ultimate honors. Could he have seen the genuine enthusiasm which greeted Mr. Taft when he was in Chicago a short time ago he would not have imagined that enthusiasm to have been a pretense. To be sure, it was not for the man alone. It was for the principle he represented—the principle of the equal political chance of the enduring democracy, of the operative will of the people. One goes a long way along the road of evolution to secure and hold that feeling, but when once it has found its place in the human breast it would be like a sort of personal shame to return to the monarchical idea.

More—much more—than kings are personalities. They are more than religious formulas, or political parties, or social creeds. It is not ideas that are remembered in the history of the world so much as men. In a republic there is the best opportunity for the exercise of individuality. We do not have to accept any commonplace king that may happen to be born to us. We pick out a personality. With quite unerring instinct, we picked out a few years ago a personality so glittering, so invigorating, so impetuous, so eternally youthful that he remains, in spite of all defects, compromises, and inconsistencies, the most interesting man in the world today. As for our present president, he certainly was distinguished before he was elected to the presidency, and, indeed, might have been yet more distinguished if he had not been called upon to meet the peculiar requirements of his present position.

As for tumbling over each other to meet princelings, perhaps we do. But the wise "tumbled over each other" to meet Bryce; and if Gladstone had honored us with a visit the enthusiasm with which he would have been greeted would have exceeded the tribute paid to any prince. Mr. Beerbohm, like most foreigners, mistakes us. We have a surface manner and ebullition which deceives. For us, Mr. Beerbohm, always, at any cost, the republic. France may, as you say, be amused at its republican institutions. We, with our light, acrid manner, may froth about them. But we make light of them only as happy men, secure in their homes, make light of domestic peace. Let any accident disturb that serenity, and how great a storm you will raise! The enthusiasm for this republic and for its chief representative is no less passionate because it is hidden, after our fashion, beneath a surface of jesting indifference. You have to get through two or three funny, stringy, bothersome shells and skins to reach the good, sweet kernel of American faith. And, though the cynics try to make out that the kernel is worm eaten, it really is a mistake.

Among the delightful things in Mr. Beerbohm's book is a series of little critiques of pictures, and wittiest and most diverting of these is one relating to a colored drawing by Hokusai. The book is worth buying if only to possess that delicious little essay. (John Lane company.)

A tiny paper bound book of verse, privately printed, comes to hand bearing the title of "OVERTONES." The author is Miss Bertha F. Gordon, a Chicago writer. One opens it casually enough to encounter a sonnet so beautiful, so fine in form, and mounting to so thrilling a climax that at first one is bewildered. So seldom is a sonnet encountered which at once impresses the critic with a knowledge of the technique of the writer and awakens the soul to some sincere and impassioned expression of emotion that it seems almost incredible that such a thing is to be found between the leaves of a little book from an unknown pen. Yet judge if this "Sonnet to the Violin" does not warrant the warmest enthusiasm in lovers of that form of versification which is, mysteriously, at once the best vehicle for intellect and for sentiment.

SONNET TO A VIOLIN.

Strange shape, who molded first thy fragile shell?
Who carved these melting curves? who first did bring
Across thy latticed bridge the slender string?
Who formed this magic wand, to weave the spell
And lending thee his spirit, bade thee tell
When o'er the quivering strings he drew the bow,
Life's history of happiness and woe—
A ringing paean, or a funeral knell!
Come, O belov'd responsive instrument!
Across thy slender throat, with gentle care
I'll stretch my heart strings, and be quite content
To lose them, if with man I may but share
The springs of song that in my soul are pent,
To ease his toil, and help his load to bear.

There are other poems in the book which have charm, but none of them attain to the merits of the one which has been quoted. (Huntley Press, 4325 Champlain avenue.)

THE BOOKMAN, A Magazine of Literature and Life — THE NEW INTERNATIONAL ENCYCLOPAEDIA

THE FORTUNE HUNTER is a city man who goes to the country, not for change, nor a rest, not to raise vegetables nor lead the simple life, but with the direct and single aim in view of accumulating dollars—plenty of dollars. He has a plan, which, if followed faithfully, is guaranteed to make any alert presentable looking city man independently wealthy.

By popular verdict LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE is one of the most entertaining story writers in this country. All his skill shows in THE FORTUNE HUNTER, and in addition there is humor, a charming romance, and a wealth of genuine human nature.

The Most Readable Book of the Season

The Top of the Morning
By JULIET WILBOR TOMPKINS
Author of "Dr. Ellen" and "Open House"

Is not "A GREAT NOVEL." Does not "RECALL BALZAC, TOLSTOI, GEORGE ELIOT—or even Sir Walter Scott." It does not "THROB WITH OVER-MASTERING PASSION!"

What then? It is a human story, with tears and laughter, but neither a heartache nor a headache for its reader. It sings its way along like a sparkling musical comedy.

James L. Ford, in the New York Herald, says:
"It would not surprise me were 'The Top of the Morning' to prove, if not a best seller, a remarkably good one."

READY THIS DAY

Dr. Henry van Dyke's — The Spirit of America
Precisely as you would interpret one friend to another by describing the spirit which shapes his character, Dr. van Dyke has explained America by defining the ideals of the country as he has seen them in her life and literature. It is an illuminating book.
Cloth, $1.50 net, by mail, $1.65.

Charles G. D. Roberts' — Kings in Exile
Quite remarkably keen studies of animal life in captivity, truer in their observation and insight than most nature studies, and along decidedly novel lines. A book that will interest any animal lover.
Illustrated, cloth, $1.50.

George E. Woodberry's — The Inspiration of Poetry.
No critic has keener insight into the springs of poetic energy, or expresses with warmer sympathy each man's effort to follow the gleam, than Mr. Woodbury, himself a poet of distinction.
Cloth, 12mo, $1.25 net; postpaid, $1.35.

Dr. Irving King's — The Development of Religion
A Study in Anthropology and the Social Psychology of Primitive Religion, showing how the religious attitude has been built up gradually through activities in the main social.
Cloth, 8vo, $1.75 net; postpaid, $1.88.

Dr. Andrew M. Fairbairn's — Studies in Religion and Theology
Dr. Fairbairn stands easily at the head of theologians writing in English. His "Philosophy of the Christian Religion" is justly a standard, not only in point of learning and insight, but in the power of expressing deep truths in attractively clear and simple terms.

SAME SCHEDULE; LONGER SEASON

National League's Wrangle Ends in a Compromise 154 Game Scheme.

WORLD SERIES DELAYED.

Pittsburg Booked Here Instead of St. Louis to Oppose the Sox and Tigers.

New York, Feb. 18.—[Special.]—After four days of heated discussion the National league magnates adopted a playing schedule of 154 games at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight, but not until it was agreed to close the championship season on Oct. 15.

This arrangement compelled numerous changes in the original schedule in order to avoid conflicting dates in Chicago and enable the clubs to string out their games to cover Columbus day, Oct. 12. It was not until Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati and John T. Brush of New York had applied extra pressure that the Murphy-Ebbets combination agreed to accept the 154 game plan, with concessions.

After it was all over Herrmann said: "This squabble was extremely childish. It could have been settled in half an hour if the league as a body had gone about it in a businesslike way. Why, Ebbets admitted all along that the shorter schedule was the better, but he would not vote for it because, he said, Dreyfuss had refused to vote for his 168 game plan.

Threat to Combine with American.

"At tomorrow's meeting I shall offer a resolution that in the future the two league presidents draw up the schedules without fear or favor so there can never be another wrangle. I told the opposition this morning that if the schedule of 154 games was not agreed upon the New York, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, and Boston clubs with salaries to pay would ask the American league to shorten its schedule to 120 games so that we could be partially taken care of and enabled to pay our expenses. Perhaps that was the reason why the wrangling ceased."

Combined with this threat to form an alliance with the American league was the argument made by a majority of the magnates that newspaper criticism over the delay was causing unfavorable publicity.

Although the desire of the American league for a 154 game schedule was met, that league's interests were disregarded by stretching the schedule out to Oct. 15. Ebbets and Murphy insisted on using their players up to the contract time. Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg was the only club owner willing to make concessions, and he saved the league from what seemed to be a hopeless deadlock.

Fear Sox and Tigers.

Pittsburg was scheduled for six Sunday games in Cincinnati, where there is no opposition, and where such dates have been exceptionally remunerative. St. Louis was scheduled for six Sunday games in Chicago and four of these were when Detroit of the American league was to play the White Sox. Robison and Murphy objected, holding that Detroit would draw the bigger crowds. Then Dreyfuss, with his world's champions, stepped in and offered to take three of the St. Louis conflicting dates. The matter was settled today by changing St. Louis to Cincinnati and Pittsburg to Chicago, so that in Chicago it will be seen whether the Pirates or the Tigers are the more popular.

The board of directors met to consider the claim of William H. Murray against the Philadelphia club for two years' salary. Until the newspaper criticisms became so severe the board refused to consider the case, but tonight they took it up.

Will Act on Murray Case.

After a two hour session the board decided that it had jurisdiction in the Murray case and notified the Philadelphia club that it must explain within fifteen days why Murray's contract was broken. The answer of the club will be sent to President Lynch, who in turn will forward a copy to each of the five directors. It will then be decided whether another meeting of the board shall be called or whether the case shall be adjudicated by mail vote.

The league members will continue at 2 p. m. tomorrow the consideration of proposed constitutional changes.

WESTERN LEAGUE PICKS SLATE.

Magnates Adopt 168 Game Schedule Satisfactory to All—Sioux City Signs Local Semi-Pro.

The Western league Marathon meeting came to an end at the Grand Pacific hotel last night, the club owners finally getting a 168 game slate that suited them and adjourning to meet at President O'Neill's call.

The magnates had been in session most of the time since Wednesday afternoon. All of them were in favor of the longer playing season, but it was a difficult task to arrange a satisfactory slate. President O'Neill was happy at the close of the long and tedious affair, for he said the schedule chosen was just about perfect and that harmony existed in his ranks.

The season will open April 22 and will close Oct. 3. The opening dates were allotted as follows: Lincoln at Denver, Des Moines at St. Joseph, Sioux City at Topeka, and Omaha at Wichita. Memorial day will find Omaha at Des Moines, Lincoln at Sioux City, Topeka at St. Joseph, and Wichita at Denver. On the Fourth of July Des Moines will be at Sioux City, Wichita at Topeka, Denver at St. Joseph, and Omaha at Lincoln in the forenoon and Lincoln at Omaha in the afternoon. The Labor day card is Sioux City at Des Moines, Lincoln at Omaha, St. Joseph at Denver, and Topeka at Wichita.

During the day the Sioux City club signed Pitcher Lind of the Rogers Parks.

President O'Neill announced that opening and Fourth of July dates hereafter would rotate. This rule was passed yesterday and will be binding as long as the league exists.

No Cuban Trip for Hoosiers.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Because he received a cablegram today from Havana saying the Havana and Almandares teams had backed out of their agreement to play the Hoosiers, Manager Carr has abandoned the Cuban trip and his men will train at the local park. Carr is deeply disappointed at the "throw down."

Doyle Refuses to Join Giants.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Larry Doyle, the Giants' second baseman, balked today at the salary offered him and refused to accompany Mathewson and his squad to Texas. McGraw is said to be on his way here to see Doyle.

TWENTY YEARS MORE.

NO KICK FROM BAN JOHNSON

American League Would Object to More Conflicts.

LYNCH'S IDEA IS WELCOMED.

Atz Released to Providence to Complete Blackburn Deal.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

There will be no change in the American league schedule adopted here on Wednesday. Any changes made by the National league in the schedule prepared at the Pittsburg conference so as to produce a greater number of conflicting dates will be considered an unfriendly act by the American league, and as a termination of the existing understanding. Any other switches which the old league makes in its dates will be regarded as a matter of indifference by the younger organization.

These statements were made yesterday by President Johnson of the American league with reference to the reports from New York announcing the compromise by which the National league's schedule deadlock had been broken. He also made it positive his league would welcome the adoption by the National league of President Lynch's suggestion to put the making of schedules in future in the hands of the national commission, because the American league had been for years suggesting in vain that the schedule be taken out of the hands of committees composed of interested club owners.

Strong Attractions Against Sox.

"It is my understanding," said Mr. Johnson, "that the National league merely intends to accept the sportsmanlike offer of Mr. Dreyfuss to exchange some of Pittsburg's dates in Cincinnati for corresponding St. Louis dates in Chicago. The object, of course, is to play a stronger attraction against the White Sox than the St. Louis club might prove. We have no objection to that in making up the schedules. We did not take into account the strength of conflicting attractions, but simply framed up the best schedule from the standpoint of both leagues that we ever made. There were fewer conflicting dates in it than ever before. In Chicago there were exactly the same number of conflicts as last year.

"If the National league is able to get away from any of those conflicts we will be glad, of course, but we shall regard any changes which will increase the number of conflicting dates as unfriendly, to say the least. In arranging our schedule the strength or weakness of an attraction in midsummer cannot be counted on as far ahead as February. Our teams are so evenly matched that the club which may be counted as strongest in midwinter may be in the second division in July.

Draft Long Term Schedules.

"For several seasons I tried to have the National league see the wisdom of taking the schedule out of the hands of committees composed of club owners and put it in the hands of the two league presidents. The proposition was turned down. I sincerely hope Mr. Lynch's suggestion to leave future schedule making to the national commission will be adopted. I will be glad to meet Mr. Lynch, with Garry Herrmann as arbiter, to draft playing schedules for one, four, ten, or twenty years. That is the ideal way."

Releases and Contracts.

The American league issued the following official bulletin of contracts and releases:

Releases—By Boston to Sacramento, B. F. Hunt [optional]; to Denver, H. N. Yount [optional]; to Sacramento, C. Venable; to Toronto, C. Tonneman. By Cleveland to Toledo, W. E. Butler. By Washington to Columbus, Jerry Downs.

Contracts—With New York, F. H. Clemus, E. C. Foster. With Boston, D. Lewis.

President Comiskey reduced by one more the number of White Sox booked for the California trip when he released Jakey Atz yesterday to the Providence club of the Eastern league. This move was made to complete the provisions of the deal by which Shortstop Blackburn was obtained from Manager Duffy last season. Comiskey gave $6,000 in cash, it was said, and the services of Welday and Atz, making Blackburn the highest priced untried recruit on record.

Welday was released last season to the Providence club, but there was some hitch in securing waivers on Atz, and it is believed the consent of all the other seven clubs to Atz's release was not obtained until the American league meeting. Four of last season's Sox now have been let go, the others being Frank Isbell, George Davis, and Barney Reilly.

The signed contract of Fred Payne, Sox catcher, was received with the announcement that he would leave his Detroit home to report early next week. Blackburn is expected to reach here tomorrow to pass a few days with a former teammate before leaving for the coast. Pitcher Leverenz of the Hartford, Conn., team will be the Sox shortstop's host while here. They broke into fast company together in Worcester two years ago, and were fellow champions of the New England league. Last year Blackburn played short for Providence and Leverenz pitched for Hartford, which team won the pennant in its league.

Manager Chance of the Cubs is expected to arrive on Monday. He wired Treasurer Williams of the club to that effect and added that his train was due at noon. One of the Cub manager's first official duties will be to look over the list of players left on the roster and decide how many of them will make the southern trip. Another will be to confer with Mordecai Brown and ascertain why the T. F. S. has put off signing his 1910 contract so long.

Altizer to Be Magnate?

GOTCH MATCHED WITH ESSON.

Bout Is Scheduled to Take Place at the Coliseum on Feb. 28—Both Men Are Anxious for Battle.

World's Champion Wrestler Frank Gotch will be the main attraction of the next wrestling show to be staged by the Empire Athletic club in the Coliseum on the night of Feb. 28. Gotch's opponent will be none other than "Hoot Mon" Jimmy Esson of Aberdeen, Scotland, who gained fame by "sticking" for fifteen minutes with the champion when the Jeffries show was here on Jan. 1.

Esson's showing encouraged him in the belief that he has a chance to defeat the Iowa farmer, and he has been after a bout for the last month. The match was clinched by the local club last night without difficulty, as both men were anxious to settle the matter of superiority. The fact that Esson has been matched with Gotch has nothing to do with the proposed contest between the champion and Mahmout and Zbyszko. The club announced last night that this match was intended for the show to be given in April.

Gotch is resting at his home in Humboldt, Ia., after the strenuous tour of the Jeffries show, but will be in Chicago next week.

TEST FOR FOOTBALL REFORMS

Stagg Will Give Proposed New Rules Trial in South.

GLOOM IN CAMP OF MAROONS.

Little Hope of Victory in Indoor Meet with Illinois Tonight.

Director A. A. Stagg, who has become noted for his "laboratory methods" in a football way through "vegetarian" and "oxygen" treatments, announced yesterday he will give the new rules recently brought up at the national committee in New York a practical tryout next week.

On Director Stagg's suggestion Hugo Bezdek, the former Maroon full back and coach at the University of Arkansas, has rounded up his football squad, and Stagg will go to the southern university at Fayetteville, Ark., on Wednesday. The actual test for the gridiron reforms will come in two games to be played by picked teams at the University of Arkansas on Friday and Saturday.

The invitation was extended by President John N. Tillman of the Arkansas institution, a leader in the reform movement. Before pitting the athletes in battle Stagg personally will coach them for a day.

University of Chicago and University of Illinois athletes will participate in three contests tonight. While the Illini swimmers are competing against the Maroons in Bartlett gymnasium, varsity and freshmen track teams of the two institutions will contest at Champaign.

Scant hopes are entertained for victories in any of the meets. The captainless track team has a big list of cripples and seven of the freshman stars are under the faculty ban. The swimming team, which is below the usual class at the Midway, will be without the services of a polo star, Cook, who quit college yesterday.

McCormick Wins at Racquets.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 18.—There were five matches and three defaults in the national amateur racquets championship tournament today. Decidedly the best match came late in the afternoon when H. F. McCormick of Chicago, titleholder, defeated William Stackpole of New York in a four game match.

La Grange Wins Dual Track Meet.

La Grange High school defeated Austin High in a dual track meet at La Grange yesterday afternoon, 56½ to 23½ points. The winners took first place in six events, Austin winning the twenty yard hurdles and the shotput.

C. A. A.-Notre Dame Meet Off.

Martin Delaney, coach of the C. A. A. track team, yesterday called off the dual meet with Notre Dame scheduled to take place in the Hoosiers' gymnasium next Saturday. Notre Dame refused to send him a program of events.

Ferguson and Taylor Stars.

Ferguson and H. Taylor were the stars of the swimming meet held last night at the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., the former scoring 27 points and the latter 20.

Mahmout Fails to Throw Cutler.

Yussiff Mahmout failed to throw Charles Cutler once in thirty minutes in their handicap match at the Empire theater last night and lost the decision. In the preliminary bout "Cyclone" Burns threw Adolph Ernst in 28:15, but hurt his ankle and had to forfeit the match.

GLOOM FOLLOWS JOHN L.'S DEFEAT

Sorrowful Party Gathers in Sullivan's Dressing Room After the Big Fight.

FRIENDS REMAIN LOYAL.

Old Champion Broke, While the Streets Ring with Cheers for James J. Corbett.

BY JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

[Copyright: 1910: By John L. Sullivan.]
[Copyright: 1910: By the Press Publishing Company, New York World.]

It was a sorrowful party that gathered in my dressing room that night. The streets of New Orleans were still alive with people cheering James Corbett, the new champion. There were some who had kinds words to say of "old John L.," but they were in the minority. Most of the people who knew neither of us personally were trying to jump on to the band wagon of the victor. My personal friends stuck to me. Not for a minute did they go back on me because I had lost.

In the dressing room with me were Wakely, Johnston, McAuliffe, Casey, and Frank Moran. My nose was still bleeding as I passed into the room, and I sat on the edge of the cot and began to dry my face, using the pillow case as a towel. Charley Johnston came over and held a bottle of ammonia to my nose. I was heartbroken. It was not so much my physical troubles that bothered me. It was my heart. Finally I looked up at Johnston with tears in my eyes, so they said.

Old Story of the Pitcher.

"Well, John L. is done," I said. "I am sorry you lost your money, but the old pitcher was sent to the well once too often. Corbett is the cleverest man in the world, but that doesn't help matters. I am awfully sorry about your loss."

"It's all over, John," replied Johnston. "You fought a good fight and did the best you could." He brushed my hair and tried to comfort me, but I would not be comforted.

"I don't care a rap for the money," said Charley, "but I would have given every dollar I own in the world if the result could have been different."

I then told Johnston of the fight. When Corbett struck me that last blow the queerest feeling I ever experienced came over me while I was trying to rise to my feet. I thought I was on a precipice overlooking a big sheet of water. I could feel myself toppling over as if to fall into the stream. I tried to catch myself and couldn't, and then I could hear the roar of the water all around me.

Regrets Backers' Loss.

"I think there are many good fights left in you, John," Johnston said to me, "and I would be willing to back you for $10,000 tomorrow to meet Mitchell."

"I would like to have a try at that fellow," I replied. "But I could not go through another spell of training. Besides, you have lost too much money on me already."

The conversation ceased for a minute, and I could feel the tears trickling down my face as I thought of how loyal my friends were in this hour of distress. Just then McAuliffe opened a bottle of beer and handed me a glass. I drained it and it tasted good.

"Have another," said Johnston as he started to refill my glass.

"No," I replied. "Not another. That was just right. I only wish, though, that I had stuck to beer all my life instead of going after the hard drinks, such as wine and whisky."

The party finally broke up and I was taken to my rooms. I could not sleep well for thinking of the defeat that had come upon me. It was not until the next morning that I realized I didn't have a cent in the world. Then it dawned upon me with force. I wanted to do something for my friends that were broke, and all of a sudden I realized that I was flat broke myself. Not one penny did I have.

Johnston and my other friends finally secured a special car and we started on our sorrowful trip back to New York. Everywhere along the route people gathered around the train and wanted to see "John L." But, as a rule, I didn't have the heart to get out of the train and speak to them.

Great Crowd Greets Defeated Man.

Arriving in New York I was met by an immense crowd at the Grand Central station. That gave me a little comfort. All these people were still my friends. It was with the greatest difficulty that Frank Moran and myself succeeded in getting through the crowd and going to Matt McClune's hotel, which was about a block away.

Quite a party of my intimate friends gathered at the hotel to talk with me, and I was comforted to know that none of them had gone back on me.

About this time a reporter called to tell me of a plan started by James J. Corbett, the champion, to take me on as a boxing partner in the show business. It was a rather liberal offer, but I felt that I could not accept it. I did finally agree to a benefit performance at Madison Square garden in which he and I were to box four rounds as an exhibition.

That benefit proved to be a big success, and without going into details I will say that it netted me a good, round sum. In fact, it gave me enough money to go back to Boston and rest up awhile.

My next move of importance was when I opened up a café in Boston. I had the distinction of being the first person to completely block the traffic. On the night that I had my grand opening the street cars had to stop for nearly an hour and an extra platoon of police were called out to make the people move on. People packed in my doors until there was not an inch of standing room left. Then the crowd stretched for two blocks each way. It certainly was a nice tribute to a fighter who had been defeated.

Prominent men from all parts of the country came to that opening of my café and they bought as long as the police would let us stay open after hours. I guess I was never cut out for the saloon business, though. While I did a good business, and apparently made money, I never had anything to show for it. Finally, I had to close up or sell out and go back to the stage, where for some reason the people were always willing to pay box office money to see me.

SELECT FIGHT ARENA SUNDAY.

Gleason and Rickard Will Inspect Sites In and Near San Francisco Before Deciding.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 18.—The battle ground for the Jeffries-Johnson fight will be definitely announced Sunday night, according to a statement made today by Jack Gleason, who arrived last night with the Jeffries party. He said no conference would be held between himself and "Tex" Rickard until they had made a joint inspection of the various arena sites in and near this city. They will start on their trip of inspection tomorrow and will hold a conference on Sunday.

Ketchel Begins Training.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 17.—After passing several weeks in idleness, Stanley Ketchel left tonight for Hot Springs where he will begin training for his bout with Frank Klaus at Pittsburg on March 10.

THE PLUCKING OF BLUCK.

Joseph E. Bluck, captain of the 1910 Missouri varsity eleven, has been handed the Joy Miller sign for conduct unbecoming a rowdy. Which reminds us:

> Ain't it tough luck
> That Joseph Bluck,
> Dear ol' Missouri's captain kicker,
> Should be a duck
> That runs amuck
> Like some lowbrow the worse for licker?
>
> They've plucked Joe Bluck,
> Now we are stuck,
> Without him we are flabbergasted;
> For who can buck
> The line like Bluck?
> We're up a tree for sho'. Dodgast it!

The vicar of Philadelphia was not afflicted with any organic trouble. Merely a slight attack of Murrayitis which yielded to mild persuasion at a given signal.

As long as it is where he can lay his hands on it President Johnson doubtless doesn't care whether or not the press agent placed it there.

Owing to the "unsettled condition of the American turf" and the alleged alienation of the affections of some $200,000 at Jacksonville, where perhaps he did not find things trimmed to suit him as he did at Los Angeles, Phil Chinn announces the sale of his stable and his determination to try France for another bite at fortune. Phil, being about the most resourceful member of the famous Harrodsburg family, ought to go well in French.

L. M. R.—There are enough Airedales to go around. Don't be jealous.

Speaking of Airedales, did you ever read Marion Harland's cure for mange?

If you have a delirium (slang for bug) for fitting appropriate names to appropriate jobs, consider T. Fairweather. He is on the Western league schedule committee.

"Abolish all schedules. Make it catch as catch can and the divvle take the hindmost," says Dorgan.

"Or," says Duke Hutchinson, "make everybody's birthday a public holiday."

A NICE YACHTING ODE.

Stingy space crabs the reproduction in its entirety of a beautiful metrical composition on sailing from the gifted pen of Althea McK. Baker which occupies the place of honor in this month's issue of the Binnacle. Three stanzas must suffice:

> Say—does anybody need a extry hand?
> I'm lookin' for a chance to board a ship;
> I'll hustle round and work to beat the band
> An' I can say "aye aye sir" awful quick.
>
> Experience? Sure, I've had a lot of that—
> Why, three or four times I have crossed the lake,
> An' once I had a job—but quicker'n scat
> I chucked it—for the captain was a skate.
>
> Right at the start, a storm kicked up a fuss,
> An' say—how that old tub did roll an' reel
> An' us guys had to work—but that old cuss
> Just smoked his pipe an' swore an' steered a wheel.

San Francisco has had its seismic disturbance and its moral convulsion and is all set again—the same dear old widen open, cut 'er loose, sin ridden Frisco, the kind you always bought and would take no other.

Funny. No matter how puritanical and uplifted one is about one's own burg one is not enthusiastic about that sort of thing when one goes visiting.

M. W. Savage of St. Paul (we know he would not object to our mentioning his business in this connection) has purchased the pacing horse George Gano, 2:something, for the lithographed price of $20,000.

And in the meantime:

> I want a power boat, a loud and gaudy power boat,
> A boat that can hit it up a few.
> I love my roadster,
> My 60 H. P. roadster,
> But I must have a power boat, too.

CHICAGO DEFEATS PURDUE IN FAST BASKETBALL GAME.

Maroons Find Themselves in Last Stages of Play and Romp Home with 26 to 17 Victory.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—In one of the best played basketball games of this season Chicago won from Purdue tonight by a score of 26 to 17. The play was fast and furious throughout, and it was only in the closing stages that the Maroons were able to secure a safe lead.

Chicago played a holding game and the Boilermakers were unable to shake off the Maroon players or get many chances at the basket.

Clarke, the Maroon forward, played a great game and Stockton was unable to hold him. Charters and McVaugh did some great work and their play was the feature of Purdue's game. Charters performed the remarkable feat of making two goals on the toss while McVaugh scored an overhand goal from the center of the floor.

Stockton was badly injured in the second half, but resumed play after about fifteen minutes' delay. Lineup:

Chicago [26].		Purdue [17].
Sauer	R. F.	McVaugh
Clarke	L. F.	Creed
Hubble, Edwards	C.	Charters
Hoffman	L. G.	Miller

Baskets—McVaugh [2], Charters [2], Creed, Stockton, Miller, Sauer [4], Clarke [4], Hubble, Hoffman. Free throws—Charters [7], Clarke [6]. Referee—Reiman. Umpire—Reynolds.

Oak Park High Defeats Armour.

Oak Park High school basketball team won a hard fought game from Armour Academy yesterday in the latter's gymnasium, 27 to 25. It was Armour's final game of the season. Lineup:

Oak Park [27].		Armour [25].
Russell	R. F.	Boylston
Ridell	L. F.	Wilson
McKay	C.	Lyon
Herron	R. G.	Brewer, Opper, Israel
Royal	L. G.	Holden

Baskets—Russell [6], Ridell [6], Boylston [7], Wilson [2], Lyon [3]. Free throws—Herron [3], Lyon. Referee—Sangerman. Umpire—Smith.

Victory for Central "Y" Students.

Central Y. M. C. A. students easily defeated the Maywood High school at basketball yesterday in the La Salle street gymnasium, 26 to 6.

Nelson and Thompson to Fight.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Articles have been signed for a forty-five round battle between Battling Nelson and "Cyclone" Thompson. The fight is to take place on Decoration day before the club offering the best terms. Nelson is to have a guarantee of $10,000 and $500 training expenses. The men must weigh 133 ringside.

Donovan Outpoints Kid Broad.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Billy Donovan of Kensington outpointed Kid Broad of Southwark in a fast six round bout at the Nonpareil A. C. tonight.

C. A. A. ATHLETES WIN INDOOR MEET

Cherry Circle Fliers Score an Easy Victory in Central A. A. U. Events.

MAKE A 35 POINT TOTAL.

Seventh Regiment and I. A. C. Tied for Second Place; Riverview Course Is Short.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Athletes representing the C. A. A. easily won the first annual indoor handicap track and field meet of the Central A. A. U. last night at the Riverview rink, scoring 35 points. Seventh Regiment and I. A. C. tied for second place with 7 points each. Irving Park A. C. scored 6 points.

The Cherry Circle flyers outclassed the rest of the field and in all but three of the nine open events scored heavily. The best competition of the meeting was between athletes representing the Michigan avenue club, for the meet served as a tryout for the stars, who will represent the club in future meetings.

Track Measurements Short.

Through a mistake in measurements of the track fast time showed in the longer events. The track was fully a lap short, while the other distances varied to such an extent that too much [illegible] cannot be placed in the performances.

Although the track and field contests were the main attractions, the gymnastic contests attracted a deal of attention. The Central Turners of Chicago easily defeated the Milwaukee and Cincinnati Turners in the three events, parallel and horizontal bars, and side horse. Fred Schmid of the local turners was the star of these events. He took first on the parallel bars and side horse and tied for third on the horizontal bar.

FURTHER SLUMP IN WHEAT

Realizing and Hammering by Bears Cause Sharp Price Dip.

PATTEN CROWD RAIDS CORN.

Weakness in Cash Grain Induces Free Selling; Product Up Early.

The wheat market was decidedly weak all through the last half of the session. The slump in corn started the selling and liquidation was added to the pressure of profit taking, causing a gradual easing off of values. In addition to selling of this character the local crowd jumped on the market and increased the pressure materially. Buying was principally on resting orders after the first accumulation of orders had been executed in the morning. Prospects for large world's shipments and the weak tone at Liverpool, together with the fact that snow protection has been afforded a large part of the winter wheat area, were factors in causing selling. Some of the leaders in the recent buying also dumped their lines here and in other markets. Final prices were ⅜@¾c lower.

Crop Reports Are Ignored.

Although they were to a large extent ignored, crop reports were of even a more sensational tenor than any time so far. The territory from which the complaints are being received comprises practically all of the winter wheat belt with the exception of the extreme northern parts. Indiana, Nebraska, Michigan, Tennessee, and Kentucky, as well as the southwestern states, fairly flooded the markets with calamitous reports, but without avail so far as lifting quotations was concerned. The majority of traders are not prepared to enthuse on the buying side until the wheat has been given an opportunity to show for itself whether it has been as thoroughly killed as the reports would indicate. Winter wheat has a recuperative power little short of marvelous when the efforts to kill it are considered.

Primary Receipts Are Lighter.

Storm conditions are interfering with the movement of grains and primary receipts of wheat are running lighter than for some time. It is probable that the arrivals will be moderate from now. Nebraska offerings of wheat are practically nothing, and late reports from the northwest also indicate that farmers are selling sparingly. In Nebraska $1.00 a bushel for wheat is no longer attractive in bringing out offers from the farmers. This is significant and indicates a holding tendency. Primary arrivals for the day were 482,000 bu, compared to 526,000 bu a year ago. Receipts at Chicago were 17 cars, with 8 cars promised for today. The cash trade was light and there was little business. In St. Louis the demand was also slow, while late in the day the milling inquiry at Minneapolis was a little slower. Stocks at Minneapolis increased 425,000 bu for the day.

Foreign News Is Bearish.

Foreign news was bearish. World's shipments will be large, although Argentine exports were only 2,432,000 bu. Early estimates from that country indicated 5,160,000 bu, as reported by Broomhall, but later figures were reduced. Total shipments from the United States and Canada were 1,618,000 bu. World's shipments will be about 11,000,000 bu. Early buying of wheat was headed by Bartlett-Patten, Chapin, Logan-Bryan, Lake, and Peavey. Selling was by Shearson-Hammill, Logan-Bryan, Bailey, A. J. White, and near the end of the session the offerings became general, with buying by wire houses on resting orders. Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 179,000 bu.

Cash Corn Prices Slump.

A radical slump in cash prices gave corn bears an opportunity to hammer the market, which they made the most of. The Bartlett-Patten house and its following was estimated to have sold fully 4,000,000 bu May corn. This pressure, coupled with sales of long corn, caused net losses for the day of ⅝c to 1⅜@1½c. The cash market was ½@2c lower, with the undertone extremely weak. The demand was slow and offerings fair. Shipping sales were 130,000 bu. Buying was of a fair character. Clement-Curtis, Barrell, and Ware-Leland leading. Primary receipts were 650,000 bu, against 575,000 bu a year ago, and local receipts were 448 cars, with 346 cars inspected yesterday. Cables were ¼d lower. Clearances of corn from this country were 772,000 bu, and Argentine 252,000 bu.

Heavy Realizing in Oats.

In oats there was realizing on a heavy scale, with selling by Buckley and commission houses selling. Peavey was a fair buyer on the break. Prices were ⅝@¾c to ⅜c lower. The volume of trade as a whole was moderate. Cash trade was quiet and sales 120,000 bu. Sample prices were ½@1c lower. Country offerings are fair and the shipping demand is showing signs of slackening. Primary points had 433,000 bu wheat, compared to 412,000 bu, and the run here was 134 cars, with 124 cars inspected yesterday. Country stocks are large and there is no shortage in oats anywhere apparent. Many traders consider oats high compared to other grains.

Early Bulge in Hog Products.

Provisions scored another big gain early, but later eased off with the grain list. The trade in hogs at the yards was less snappy and prices were lower. This had considerable late influence, but the fact that the leading longs had product for sale on all the hard spots was a bear factor, and buyers were inclined to be cautious. Shorts were the best buyers. Receipts here were 22,000, with 16,000 expected today. Western arrivals were 54,100, against 74,400 a year ago. The high prices are not attracting the volume of shipments expected. Liverpool quotations were 1s higher for Cumberland sides, and 6d up for lard, hams, and bacon. Receipts of product were 20 cars, with shipments of 69 cars.

Rye Mart Is Neglected.

Rye was neglected. May closed nominally at 80c. No. 2 was quoted 81c; No. 3, 75@80c, and No. 4, 65@75c. Receipts were estimated at 2 cars.

Barley was steady for malting and unchanged to 1c lower for mixing. Malting was quoted 66@78c; mixing, 65@67c, and screenings, 40@67c. Receipts were estimated at 53 cars.

Flaxseed was 3c higher. No. 1 northwestern closed at $2.22, and No. 1 southwestern, $2.12. Receipts, 1 car.

Timothy seed was quiet. March was offered at $4.05. Country lots, $2.50@3.50. Clover seed was 10c lower. March closed at $13.90 nominal. Country lots, $9.00@13.00.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON CHANGE.

The heaviness of the cash situation in corn continues to be the main depressing factor. Not only were prices weak here, but other western and southwestern markets were much lower relatively, while receipts continue fairly liberal. The particularly weak thing about the present situation is that the east appears to be indifferent to corn. Distributing points in the east are well supplied apparently, Buffalo having about 3,000,000 bu in store and in the yards, and Baltimore having about 2,000,000 bu. Other points are understood to have correspondingly large quantities in stock. Resellers are offering corn practically everywhere at lower than the Chicago shipping basis. Recent reports from Ohio indicate that shipments from that state will be small from now on. Supplies in and around Chicago are estimated at between 10,000,000 and 12,000,000 bu, and there are liberal stocks at other western points, public stocks at Kansas City being approximately 2,000,000 bu. A few local shippers reported a fair demand, but in most instances holders here were unable to compete with eastern resellers. Just when the cash situation will begin to right itself is a question, but at the moment discounts for sample corn are phenomenally wide, and many receivers last night had a plain case of dumps as the result of the discouraging conditions surrounding the market.

Crop damage reports were the most sensational so far, but did not have much if any effect. A Nebraska report to Nye-Jenks from Lincoln said that all the late sown wheat had been damaged, and that about half the wheat area was late sown. In Kansas the snow covering has been limited to the southeastern corner, and from the remainder of the state there was a steady stream of damage reports. N. C. Goodwine, a grain man of Pence, Ind., who was here yesterday, said there was no doubt that wheat in that section had been seriously damaged as the result of the covering of ice which had been on the fields for several weeks. A Kansas City message to Logan-Bryan said: "Wheat in Salina county has been damaged as never before, especially on the upland farms. In many places wheat has been frozen out of the ground and is totally dead. Farmers say no conservative estimates of damage can be given at this time. This is the first winter in the history of the county that grain has been damaged in this manner." The fact that damage reports are being received from several of the best firms in the west and southwest lends color to the reports. The Nebraska reports were regarded as especially serious.

"On today's advance after the lower opening the provisions again were sold by the leading holders, and we think they went into much weaker hands. The cash trade is not following the advance, and this is especially true of lard," said a provisions specialist. "The short interest is being gradually reduced and new investors of a solid character are going to be conservative unless we have a reaction, as other fats are getting below a lard parity, and these new conditions are liable to create a sentiment against high priced lard which will be hard to combat."

The cash wheat demand is almost as bad as in corn, although premiums continue to rule at recent level, and in this regard wheat is the direct opposite of corn. In the southwest prices were a little easy and a shade lower relative prices prevailed at St. Louis. In the northwest there was not much change in prices and offerings from the country were exceptionally light. Cash corn here was ½@2½c lower, and oats were ½@1c off. The eastern demand for coarse grains was poor, and offerings fair. Shipping sales were 130,000 bu corn and 120,000 bu oats.

Matheny of Springfield, Ill., wired: "We have made good inquiry from the farmers about the growing wheat. We hear some complaints, as is always the case, but the best posted farmers are not claiming the wheat is killed. In many fields the top is brown and shows no sign of life, but on examination we find the germ is in good condition. With the top all killed we think it is in more danger from weather yet to come than when the top is green like it was last spring. As I wired you, we are trying some of it out in the house, and fully expect it to grow."

The Patten crowd hammered May corn early and late, and it was estimated that the combined sales of Patten and his followers aggregated 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 bu, and perhaps more. This selling was followed by the local crowd and recent buyers in many instances were forced out of their corn on the decline. July corn was relatively strong, and it was believed in some quarters that Bartlett-Patten had bought considerable July against their sales of May. Barrell and Clement-Curtis were the leading buyers.

Broomhall had a hard time getting the Argentine shipment figures straightened out satisfactorily. His first report made the total 5,160,000 bu, or about double the Thursday's estimate. This was such a radical change that the figures were held for confirmation. Following this the exports were posted at 3,448,000 bu, and just before the close another correction was forwarded making the total 2,432,000 bu.

"The weakness in the cash corn position was the chief factor in making lower prices," said Bartlett-Patten. "Country and investment buying was not so much in evidence, although some was apparent in the July future. Outside markets were weak for the cash property, with stocks accumulating everywhere. The price cannot hold against the cash situation, and the market will work lower until that changes."

Modern Miller: "Reports are increasing regarding damage to winter wheat. Most reports assert that the frequent thawing and freezing is the principal cause of injury to the plant, the root being exposed by heaving of the soil. The Kansas State Agricultural college reports that in several localities wheat on wet ground has been injured by alternate thawing and freezing."

Bradstreet's reported the exports of wheat and flour and corn from both coasts for the week, with comparisons, as follows:

	Wheat and flour.	Corn.
This week	1,618,000	772,000
Last week	2,408,000	1,136,000

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were 1c lower to 2c higher, corn 1¼c to 2¼c lower, oats ½c to 2½c lower, and rye unchanged to ½c lower. Sales were: 2,500 bu No. 3 yellow corn or better, February shipment, 62½c track Chicago, and 2,000 bu, 62⅝c Illinois proportional.

Clement-Curtis had the following message from Kansas City: "Kansas City weather man says snow covering in Kansas is limited to southeastern corn. Only flurries in the west. Temperature is to rise 10@12 degrees. Now cold, bright, and windy."

The proposed amendment to the rules in regard to commission rates applies only to cash grain and not to futures. The commissions to be charged members will be raised to ⅜c from ¼c on corn and oats and to ⅝c from ½c on wheat, rye, and barley.

Australian shipments of wheat for the week were 2,568,000 bu, compared with 2,208,000 bu last week and 1,368,000 bu the corresponding week last year. Indian shipments were 320,000 bu, compared with 232,000 bu last week and none last year.

Closing price of wheat in foreign markets: Liverpool, spot, unchanged to ⅜d lower; futures, ⅝@¼d lower; Paris, unchanged; Antwerp, unchanged; Berlin, ⅝c lower; Budapest, ½c lower.

Minneapolis stocks of wheat increased 425,000 bu for the week, compared with an increase of 10,000 bu the corresponding week last year.

Receipts of wheat at Winnipeg were 74 cars, compared with 143 cars last week and 54 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

Estimated receipts are: Wheat, 8 cars; corn, 346 cars; oats, 124 cars; rye, 2 cars; barley, 53 cars; hogs, 16,000.

Brown of Minneapolis wired to Lake that farmers practically had stopped selling wheat in the northwest.

Henry Nicolay has posted his board of trade membership for transfer.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Shippers again took the lead in the market for hogs and paid an advance of 5@10c for offerings good enough to meet their requirements, while packers held back and secured their quota of stock at prices that did not show so much gain, although they were still higher than on the preceding day. A top price of $9.47½ was paid and the average was raised to $9.31, against $9.24 on Thursday. Sheep and lambs also sold at firm figures, but the offerings lacked quality and no new prices were made, although Thursday's record figures were again reached. Cattle trade was quiet and steady, with a moderate supply finding an outlet at the firm prices in force the preceding session.

CATTLE.

Receipts were placed at only 4,500 head, but salesmen could not do better than to keep prices at the slight upturn recorded on Thursday, most business being at a net advance of 10c over Wednesday's figures. The demand switched in favor of good heavy steers and they cleared more freely than the cheaper grades, although no difficulty was experienced in disposing of the latter. The supply included a fair quota of medium to good weighty animals, and sales at $6.00 and higher were fairly numerous, tops reaching $6.90 and more than half of the total fresh arrivals clearing at $5.50 and higher. Plain light steers went down to $4.50@5.00. The general market closed in good condition, with prices largely 15@20c higher than a week ago.

Butcher stock trade was uneven and cows sold less readily than heifers, but the supply was so limited that buyers could not force much difference in prices and most of the day's business was transacted at Thursday's figures. Cows of choice quality sold at $5.00@5.50, while heifers reached $5.75, with the bulk of the fair to good grades at $4.25@5.00. Bologna bulls met with less favor and sales were made at easier prices, selected offerings clearing at $4.50. Packers wanted fancy veal calves and paid up to $9.75 for assorted lots. Stocker and feeder trade was firm. Quotations:

Beef steers, good to choice	$6.25@7.90
Beef steers, plain to good	4.50@6.15
Yearling steers, good to prime	6.15@7.50
Exporters	5.75@6.50
Beef cows, good to choice	4.00@5.00
Beef cows, plain to good	3.35@3.90
Fat heifers, good to choice	4.00@5.15
Heifers, extra selected	5.30@6.00
Canners and cutters	2.25@3.25
Calves, common to choice heavy	4.25@5.50
Good to prime veals	8.25@9.75
Feeding steers	3.50@5.65
Bulls	3.00@5.25

Cattle at six western markets, 11,500, against 10,400 a week ago, 7,500 a year ago, and 20,500 two years ago. Total for 1910 to date, 1,036,000, against 1,060,000 the same period in 1909.

HOGS.

Market opened 5@10c higher, but it acted top heavy before the session was far advanced, and at the extreme close sales could not be effected except at figures which were no higher than at the finish the preceding day. Shippers were responsible for the early upturn and so long as they staid in the trade the market had an active and buoyant tone. Speculators also operated with freedom at the start, but they confined their purchases to shipping hogs, and while they added to the strength of the market for such stock, they were of no benefit to sellers of packing hogs. After the first few rounds, when shippers had filled their most urgent orders, the market weakened to barely 5c higher than on Thursday, and packers came in and bought fairly liberal droves on that basis.

Still later in the day there was much delayed stock thrown on the market and packers tried to force further recessions in prices. Not many salesmen were willing to make the concessions packers demanded, however, and much stock was placed under cover for another day. Buyers did not stay out as late as on the last few days, and the market closed on the bottom, with packers more confident that the upturn had been checked than they have been at any previous time this week. Mixed hogs sold at $9.00@9.25, with heavy packing grades at $9.20@9.40, and shipping hogs at $9.35@9.47½. Quotations:

Bulk of sales	$9.20@9.35
Common to good mixed	9.00@9.25
Fair to choice, medium weight	9.15@9.40
Select 250@300 lb packing	9.20@9.45
Fair to fancy shipping	9.20@9.47
Medium to prime butchers	9.20@9.45
Common to choice lightweight	9.00@9.30
Select pigs, 110@130 lbs	8.50@9.25
Mixed pigs, 110 lbs and lighter	7.75@8.45
Boars, according to weight	5.75@6.50
Stags, according to weight	9.60@10.00

Average price of hogs at Chicago $9.31, against $9.24 Thursday, $8.92 a week ago, $6.27 a year ago, and $4.40 two years ago.

Eleven markets received 51,200 hogs, against 60,600 a week ago, 88,700 a year ago, and 133,100 two years ago. Total for 1910 to date, 3,472,000, against 4,635,000 the same period in 1909.

Hog purchases for the day follow: Armour & Co., 2,600; Swift & Co., 2,000; Anglo-American, 900; Hammond, 900; Morris & Co., 700; Boyd-Lunham, 500; Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, 1,200; Boore & Co., 500; Roberts & Oake, 500; Western Packing company, 1,000; butchers, 1,500; shippers, 6,000; total, 18,300; left over, 10,000.

SHEEP.

Five thousand sheep and lambs were reported in sight for the day's trade, but not more than 3,000 head arrived before noon, and, as there was no certainty that the remainder of the expected run would get in before dark, packers filled what orders they could at an advance of 10@15c without waiting for delayed stock to be received. As on earlier days this week, buyers stood at the chutes anxious to get in the first bid on every load of desirable stock as soon as it was unloaded, and pens were kept practically cleared throughout the session. In spite of the advance sales were made within the same range as on Thursday, all of the gain being offset by the inferior quality of the offerings.

A string of fancy western lambs was reported on the way, and it was believed that $9.50 would be reached if the consignment got in before the market closed. The best prices secured for early arrivals were $9.15 for woolskins and $8.15@8.25 for shorn lambs. Western wethers of prime quality made $7.25@7.35, with natives at $7.00@7.50, and yearlings at $8.00@8.25. Shorn western wethers made $6.40@6.50, with ewes at $5.75. Native wool ewes cleared at $4.00@7.50, with few higher than $6.85. Quotations:

Western wethers	$6.50@7.40
Native wethers	6.75@7.50
Native ewes	4.00@7.00
Western ewes	4.50@6.50
Bucks and stags	3.50@5.50

Receipts for Feb. 19 were estimated at 1,500 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep, against actual arrivals of 356 cattle, 12,665 hogs, and 286 sheep for Feb. 20, 1909.

STOCKYARDS GOSSIP.

Hog prices collapsed badly at the close, but salesmen were too bullish to let packers have their own way altogether, and fully 10,000 hogs were placed under cover by holders who refused to accept late bids.

Receipts of hogs were estimated at 18,000 head at the start of business, but many traders were of the opinion that the official count would total closer to 20,000 head.

Packers are beginning to show a more urgent need of cheap steers and they are coming in competition with country buyers in bidding for the better grades of feeders.

Western markets received 3,500 hogs more than a week ago, while the eastern points were more sparingly supplied than on the same day last week. Shipping demand for hogs here was of brisk character.

Joe Horan, sheep buyer for Armour & Co., paid $7.85 for a string of fancy 114 lb western wethers.

Hogs left over unsold from Thursday's market were officially counted at 9,738 head.

Chicago Horse Market.

Auction sales were closed, but there were many buyers along the horse line looking for odd lots of medium weight horses which could be secured at reasonable prices, and they afforded an outlet for animals carried over from earlier in the week at $125.00@175.00, according to weight and quality. A few heavy drafters were shipped east at $175.00@250.00, and there was a steady call for farm mares and chunks at $140.00@175.00, with medium drivers at up to $200.00. The market closed in good condition, with little stock left unsold, and with prices fully steady as compared to last week's closing figures. Receipts for five days were 1,947 head, against 1,996 a week ago and 2,144 a year ago.

BROOMCORN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Offerings were moderate and prices firm at $200.00@240.00 for all varieties.

Groceries.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Attendance of buyers in the market for staple groceries was large and business in all branches had a strong, active tone. The demand was well distributed to all branches of the market, although particular attention was paid to certain lines of canned goods, the supply of which has been greatly reduced by the increased call for staples from country merchants. Dried fruits were well held and there was a buoyant market for canned salmon and for fish in kegs and boxes for immediate consumption. Teas and spices met with a steadily broadening demand, with depleted stocks in retailers' stores necessitating more extensive purchases and more varied assortments. Cereals were held with confidence, and there was a good demand for package breakfast foods, navy beans, rice, and tapioca.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Market for refined sugars was strengthened by a firm feeling in the raw sugar trade and a brisk consumptive demand. Following were the ruling prices in wholesale circles, quotations being on 100 lb lots: Standard granulated, beet and cane, $5.22@5.32; cut loaf, H. & E., $6.32; standard powdered, $5.75; extra C, $5.05; canary, $4.75; chemically pure milk sugar, 22c per lb in brl lots.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—SUGAR—Raw firm; Muscovado, 89 test, 3.70c; centrifugal, 96 test, 4.20c; molasses sugar, 89 test, 3.45c. Refined steady; crushed, 5.85c; granulated, 5.15c; powdered, 5.25c.

COFFEE.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Green coffees were taken by brokers and roasters, who expected to see stocks undergo a sharp reduction in the near future, while roasted offerings found a ready outlet through consumptive channels at firm prices. Receipts of green coffees at Rio and Santos were 7,000 bags each.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—COFFEE—The market for futures opened quiet at unchanged prices and closed steady, net unchanged to 5 points higher. Sales of 47,000 bags, including March at 6.95@7c; May, 7.10c; July, September, October, and December, 7.15c. Receipts at the two Brazilian ports, 14,000 bags, against 32,000 last year; January receipts, 3,600 bags, against 13,500. Warehouse deliveries at New York yesterday, 18,661 bags, against 22,037 last year. Spot steady; No. 7 Rio, 8⅝c; No. 4 Santos, 9⅛@9⅛c. Mild quiet; Cordova, 9¼@12½c.

Dry Goods.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods market, said: "All indications are to the effect that shirt waist sleeves for the coming summer wear will be the three-quarter and elbow lengths. This is causing a strong and growing demand for long silk gloves, and during the last two weeks many large and important sales have been made. With the increasing demand for turban pads, an accessory to the latest style hair dress, values which were offered in genuine hair were received with considerable favor. Orders were also of large volume for the turban hair pins which, in attractive designs, were conspicuous in the spring novelties. Buyers evinced much interest in the showing of ladies' neckwear, jabots, ascots, and maline bows in stylish and unusually striking effects being ordered freely. Rug sales were of a satisfactory nature. Pronounced activity was noted in the new novelty bathroom and chamber rugs with fancy colored borders. Linoleums sold particularly well. The increase in number of southern merchants in the market is gratifying and shows plainly the prominence which the great central market has attained as a distributing center of dry goods."

Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade said: "The near approach of Easter—coming as it does earlier than usual—seems to have given an added impetus to the dry goods market, particularly those lines adapted to feminine wearing apparel. In women's gloves the greatest demand is for black and white, while among the colors champagne, mastique, and biscuit are rapidly increasing in favor. Notwithstanding the fact that the glove leather market has been stiffening perceptibly for some time past, further advances are probable. All Paris models of millinery show elaborate ribbon bow decorations to a larger extent than for many seasons past. Black and colored broad velvet ribbons predominate. Sales in muslin underwear and women's and misses' wash dresses continue extremely gratifying. Fifty-four inch coats in pongees, taffetas, coverts, and fancy mixtures are popular. Orders for white dress goods continue liberal. The market in this line shows a strong upward tendency. Prints and narrow percales continue active."

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The cotton goods market was a little more active at low prices, some trading being reported on sateens, twills, and other convertibles. The jobbing trade for the day held about as it has been for the last week, retailers supplying their wants without speculation of any sort. Cotton yarns were lower and wool is quiet.

TELLS WOES OF RAILROADS

Kruttschnitt Says They Are Abused, Rich or Poor.

HARD TO FIND MEDIUM.

Kellogg Forces Witness to Admit Pacifics Take Profits.

New York, Feb. 18.—[Special.]—That the railroads find themselves between the devil of objection to a decrease of salaries in hard times and the deep sea of even stronger objection to raising rates when operating expenses go up, was the opinion expressed today by Vice President Julius Kruttschnitt of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads at the hearing of the government's suit to dissolve the merger between the two roads. Kruttschnitt also declared when the railroads become prosperous they are investigated and that when they fall upon evil days they are told by the government and the public that they can sink or swim, as its nobody's business.

Kruttschnitt spoke of the fines imposed by the government for failure to hold mail schedules. In one year on two mail routes, he said, the fines aggregated $62,330, or 20 per cent of the entire revenue of carrying the mails. He said that, generally speaking, he believed the merger of the roads had pleased their patrons, and added:

"When we find we are serving the public satisfactorily and the owners of the railroads also, and are obeying the laws, we consider we have a happy medium."

Denies Roads Could Compete.

Frank B. Kellogg, counsel for the government, began Kruttschnitt's cross examination. He turned his attention first to the government's contention that the Southern Pacific is a natural competitor with the Union Pacific for business to and from points in California via Portland, Ore. The witness stuck to it that the lines cannot compete on account of the physical differences. Then Kellogg took up the benefits received by the public from the merged roads.

He drew from Kruttschnitt an admission that, with the exception of 1907, the panic year, there had been an unusual expansion of business among all the railroads in the last ten years. Then he asked if it were not true that during that time the roads all over the country had spent vast sums of money on improvements similar to those described by Kruttschnitt as having been made by the Union and Southern Pacific. The witness said that at least some of the railroads had done so.

Next the government's prosecutor wanted to know why, in estimating the increase of the cost of labor and commodities, Kruttschnitt selected 1897 as the first year in the comparison. Kruttschnitt replied that the statement was drawn up for use in "one of numerous cases in which we were cited to appear."

Asked why he hadn't selected the years of 1900 or 1901 as a basis of comparison, Kruttschnitt said:

"Because I understand it is the theory of this case that we began sinning in 1901."

Admits Dividends Have Increased.

Kruttschnitt then was asked if it wasn't true that "in spite of the hard treatment" the Union Pacific has paid dividends of 10 per cent yearly in recent years. He wasn't sure about that, and the question was changed to: "Hasn't the Union Pacific since 1899 increased its net earnings every year and its surplus every year?"

"Yes, I hope so," was the answer, which was followed by the question: "And haven't its dividends increased?" to which the answer was: "Yes, a little."

Kellogg wanted to know if the witness considered 10 per cent a small dividend, and Kruttschnitt replied that it seemed small when compared with the 20 per cent earned by some banking interests.

The witness explained that after the panic of 1907 all of the railroads had deferred making improvements.

The day's session closed with a tilt between Kellogg and Kruttschnitt over the former's attempt to show that, while the Union and Southern Pacifics had shortened their lines and eliminated many bad curves and grades, the running time of their principal passenger trains had been made longer rather than shorter. Kruttschnitt said he didn't know the figures, but that he was certain his lines served the public satisfactorily and that was good enough for him.

The hearing will be continued Monday.

SUPREME COURT HALTS RATE LAW

Illinois received a taste yesterday of federal injunction restraining the enforcement of state law. An order was issued restraining Attorney General Stead and state's attorneys along the line of the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis railroad from interfering with the company charging 3 cents a mile for passenger fares in violation of the 2 cent statute.

The injunction was secured by Receivers John P. Ramsey and Henry M. Merrian of the railroad. They alleged that the law was confiscatory. They filed a petition giving the value of the railroad's property in passenger service as $800,000, stating that a fair return upon this would be at least $48,000 a year. The passenger earnings for two years ended June 30, 1909, were given as $510,230 and the expenses of the service, not including fixed charges or taxes, were put at $520,121, leaving a deficit of nearly $9,900.

Alleged failure of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad to furnish cars to ship apples from Denver to Chicago last autumn resulted in a suit for $75,000 damages filed against the company in the Chicago Circuit court by N. G. Gibson, a Chicago commission dealer.

Will Use 100 Pound Rails.

The Rock Island railway has announced its intention of adopting the 100 pound steel rail as standard for its main line tracks. The division from Chicago to Rock Island has been selected as the first section for this improvement. Rails weighing eighty-five pounds a yard heretofore have been regarded as comparatively heavy, and there are few miles of track in the country which are laid with 100 pounds steel. The heavy locomotives and cars now in use have called for more substantial track. The new steel cars used on the Rock Island's passenger trains weigh in the neighborhood of seventy tons each.

A meeting of executive and traffic officials of the principal coal carrying roads entering Chicago was held for the purpose of considering an advance in the coal rates from Indiana and southern Illinois fields. In general the roads want an increase of 10 cents a ton. Rates vary from 65 cents to $1, with many differentials from the various coal fields, making a uniform increase difficult to agree on.

TO INVITE AERONAUTS HERE.

Aero Club of Illinois Plans to Have the Wright Brothers and Others at Big Meet.

The Wright brothers and other aviators will be invited to take part in an international aviation meet in Chicago, to be held some time this year. Officers of the Aero Club of Illinois are considering the question of raising a fund to be divided into prizes for the best flights.

"Our intention is to hold Saturday meets, when members of the club and others interested in aeronautics can take part and make trial flights," said Victor Lougheed, consulting engineer of the club, yesterday.

"At present we are considering the question of a suitable location for our grounds. The nature of the undertaking requires a considerable area and we are anxious to obtain a location suitable both to aeronautic purposes and to the public in the way of easy access."

ACTIVE STOCKS CLOSE HIGHER

Net Gains in Leading Issues Recorded in New York Market.

READING UP THREE POINTS.

Estimates of Currency Movements Show Gains in Cash by Banks.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Following an irregular and heavy opening, a recovery in prices on the exchange was carried forward with considerable vigor in some parts of the list, and, while the movement lacked uniformity, final prices disclosed substantial net gains in most of the active stocks, as well as many which figured less prominently in the day's trading.

An advance of over three points in Reading common, the trading in which approximated 250,000 shares, as well as some other of the day's operations, suggested active manipulation, but, as a whole, the market showed a disposition to respond readily to such efforts as were made by the trading element to carry forward the advance.

Favorable Forecasts Made.

The street had presented for its consideration a renewal of reports of favorable developments in the affairs of the Reading company, Consolidated Gas, and some others, similar in most particulars to previous reports along the same lines, but authoritative information in support of these rumors was lacking.

In actual news developments, barring factors bearing on the money market, there was nothing which specifically accounted for the course which prices followed today. A reaction toward the close of the market left most stocks below the best prices of the session, although in a few instances the final were also the highest prices of the day.

The extent of the further upward movement is indicated in such net gains as 3⅛ in Reading, 2⅛ in New York Central, 1⅞ in Union Pacific, 1¼ in St. Paul, and lesser advances in other stocks, but set against these were some net losses, including fractional net declines in Amalgamated Copper, Anaconda, Chesapeake and Ohio, in both the Interborough issues, and several of the less active stocks.

Banks Gain in Cash Holdings.

The usual weekly estimates of the currency movement suggested a net gain in cash holdings of the banks from $3,500,000 to $6,500,000, promising sufficient addition to the reserves of banks to offset the possible increase in reserve requirements. The engagement of an additional $250,000 gold for export to Argentina emphasized the fact that this market again is in position to be called upon to meet the South American demand.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Money was abundant and easy and discount rates were quiet today. Trading on the stock exchange was quiet, with irregular price changes. Rubber shares and Rhodesian mines were the most active sections on speculative support. Home rails and Kaffirs declined on profit taking, but Underground Road shares were supported in view of the coming amalgamation. The political uncertainly depressed gilt edged securities and consols. American securities hardened a fraction after an undecided opening, but when support was withdrawn prices declined. New York then offered Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel and the rest of the list sagged in sympathy. Only a small business was transacted during the day, and the market closed dull.

Jury Cuts Down Dentist's Bill.

A jury in Judge Mangan's court yesterday gave Dr. Robert Good a judgment for $50 against Mrs. Wilton Lackaye for dental services. The dentist sued for $350, and said he gave the actor's wife seven treatments for "alveolar pyorrhea." Mrs. Lackaye testified that the work he did consisted only in filling several teeth.

London Investors Eagerly Take Up Good Securities.

PARIS CAN FINANCE ITSELF.

Has Funds Enough to Repair Flood Waste, City Reports.

Evidently London investors have been taking the advice so freely given them within the last few weeks to buy good American securities. Always alert in seeking employment of British capital, observers in London have not shared the fright of Wall street over the effect of forthcoming Supreme court decisions. The foreigners have looked at the records of the earnings of railroads, considered the state of the money market, noted the dividend yield at current quotations, and bought the stocks.

Announcement is that all records for shipments of American securities to Europe are being broken. In the last sixty days one firm alone is said to have shipped $20,000,000 securities; another $10,000,000 and a third firm $8,000,000.

Bank Statement Forecast.

Known movements of money for the week indicate the New York banks have gained $6,699,000 cash. They gained from the interior $5,368,000 and from the subtreasury $1,331,000. This leaves out of consideration the $1,250,000 gold coin taken yesterday for shipment to the Argentine.

Milwaukee-St. Paul.

In explanation of the report that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul had laid off 1,000 of its employes on its northern lines it was announced in New York that the action of the company was made necessary by the extraordinary expenses during December and January. It is reported that the February earnings of the company have shown substantial increases in gross, although it is not improbable that the net will do no better than break even as compared with the corresponding month last year.

Paris Money Not Disturbed.

Paris financial institutions let it be understood they are able to take care of the money requirements involved in the recent floods. While they may be a little optimistic at this stage, still it is their belief that no special outside assistance will be required. The banks may not be buyers of foreign bills, but they will not be in the market for loans. According to an apparently authoritative cablegram:

"Paris financial institutions are large holders of English bills. Repayment instead of extension of these obligations is likely. This will furnish all the aid needed by our local money market in financing the repairs and reconstruction incidental to the flood damages and also financing measures to prevent future disaster. This work of prevention will be conducted on thorough and scientific lines and will be costly.

"Nevertheless, the French banks are amply equipped to handle the situation. It will mean nothing more than the employment of the balances at home, and meanwhile preclude shipments abroad.

"Our stock market, both official and unofficial, is the strongest all around market that has been experienced for months. This is a natural result of the money situation and also is reflecting the excellent trade returns that all countries whose securities are represented on the Paris bourse show.

"In newspapers that have arrived from America the extent of the flood damage was largely overdrawn and exaggerated. At no time did the disaster seriously affect business or large considerations in our important financial circles."

Pressed Steel Car.

F. N. Hoffstot, president of the Pressed Steel Car company, says in the annual report:

"The gross sales of the company for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1909, were $10,346,816, as compared with $8,580,422 for the previous year. About 75 per cent of this business was done during the first quarter after the depression of 1908. The works were not in full operation and the output of the third quarter was small. The company has at the present time a substantial amount of business booked on which we expect to make a reasonable profit. The buying of cars during 1909 was considerably below the average yearly requirements for the last ten years without taking into consideration either the increased mileage or population."

American Writing Paper.

The American Writing Paper company reports a surplus after charges for the year ended Dec. 31, 1909, of $460,841. The income account for the year follows:

General Financial News.

President C. A. Starbuck says in the annual report of the New York Air Brake company that nearly all the profits were made in the last four months of the fiscal year which ended Dec. 31, 1909. These profits were equal to $269,084, or 2.69 per cent on the $10,000,000 capital stock.

A membership on the New York Stock exchange sold yesterday for $85,000. On Tuesday a seat was transferred at $82,000.

Plans are afoot for the consolidation of the Nipissing, Larose, Crown, Reserve, and Kerr Lake mining companies.

Plympton, Gardiner & Co. are offering the unsold portion of $2,025,000 Northwestern Terminal railway company first mortgage guaranteed 5 per cent bonds, due 1926, at 92 and interest. At this price the interest yield will be approximately 5⅝ per cent.

IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Substantial gains in copper shares were few today, but losses also were with one exception fractional. Osceola declined 1⅛. Calumet and Arizona advanced 3, North Butte 1¼, and United States Smelting 1. Superior was active on late buying, but did not move far. North Butte was the feature of the list, touching 36¼ at noon. Lake Copper was quiet all day. On the industrial list Swift & Co. advanced 2 points on meager buying. Call money, 3¼@4 per cent; time money, short dates, 4@4¼ per cent; time loans, six months, 4¼@4⅝ per cent; time loans, year, 4¼@4¾ per cent.

TIME SAVES $173,000 THIEF

Statute of Limitation Now Applies in Subtreasury Case.

LIBEL SUIT STILL PENDING.

William Boldenweck Says Affair Is Closed Incident with Him.

The mystery of who stole $173,000 from the United States subtreasury in Chicago three years ago may be solved some day, but never in a criminal court. The statute of limitations has run against any sort of criminal action, and the much sought thief is now free to come out and tell all about it without fear of being sent to jail.

All that is now left of the famous case is a libel suit instituted by George W. Fitzgerald, former cashier in the subtreasury, after he had been arrested and dismissed without trial on the charge of having stolen the money. The defendants to this suit are William Boldenweck, subtreasurer; H. F. Young manager of a local detective agency, and a morning newspaper.

Seeks Damages of $50,000.

Fitzgerald, who is now in the insurance business, seeks to recover $50,000 damages from the defendants for causing his arrest and arraignment in the state courts.

"I am through with the case," Mr. Boldenweck said. "So far as I am concerned it is a dead issue. The federal government would not permit me to prosecute the case in the state courts, so I have kept my hands off since then."

Mr. Fitzgerald, who was dismissed from the government service some time after the theft of the money was discovered, [illegible] that he hoped the identity of the thief would be revealed.

Says System Is Loose.

"I do not know who the guilty man is," he said, "but I have told the government officials all I do know, and it is possible that the guilty person finally will be found. The loose system of accounts maintained by Mr. Boldenweck in the subtreasury made the theft of the money possible, and it was just as easy to steal a million dollars as the amount that was stolen."

Attorney John M. Duffy, who represents Mr. Young in the libel suit, said that he could not say whether or not the trial would involve the production of new evidence tending to show who stole the money.

NEW LEAGUE WILL PROVIDE "STRAIGHT BUSINESS" TALKS.

Judge Lindsey, Newell Dwight Hillis, Gov. Hadley, and Others to Make Addresses—Many Seats Free.

Five "straight talks about business" will be given in Orchestra hall in March and April under the direction of a new organization whose aim is to present secular discussions on the same plane as the religious lectures given before the Sunday Evening club. The new organization is known as the Business Service league.

Three lectures have been decided on. Tuesday evening, March 1, Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver will speak on "The Waste of Juvenile Life: A Business Problem." The Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis of Brooklyn on March 15 will discuss "Twenty Years' Development of the Business Conscience." Gov. Hadley of Missouri speaks March 29 on "Public Affairs as They Affect the Business Man."

In addition to reserved seats, for which a charge will be made, 1,000 free seats will be available. John E. Wilder is chairman of the league's advisory board.

NOTICE!

Have you $100 or more idle or earning less than 10%? Here is our situation: A number of leading Chicago business men have been for months at work investigating, verifying and preparing an immense industrial project to manufacture a staple whose consumption is doubling yearly. (1909 value, $50,000,000.)

We have a manufacturing monopoly in the richest territory in the country and have spent thousands of dollars of our own money in putting the project in business shape. We will make a Public Issue throughout the country in a few weeks on a basis which will be irresistible to investors and yield them generous profits.

Before this is done, however, and to continue preliminary expense, the Directors are willing to receive a few hundreds to a thousand dollars only from business men able to analyze the proposition intelligently and quickly and when satisfied, put their money up with ours.

To such as do, we offer the security of a 7% Bond, plus a share in the legitimate promotion profits which will be very interesting, indeed.

If you will write at once, stating what amount you can invest if satisfied, a reservation will be made pending your decision, but promptness in application is necessary. Address T W 282 Tribune.

REALTY MAN BUYS MARATHON FLATS

John F. Wallace Said to Have Paid $150,000 for the Apartments.

GETS A SITE FOR PLANT.

Continental Bolt Company Acquires Tract Bordering the Pennsylvania Tracks.

The Marathon apartment building, at the southwest corner of Cottage Grove avenue and Twenty-third street, one of the most conspicuous structures in that part of the city, has been sold by Arthur T. Lyman, Arthur Lyman, and Herbert Lyman, trustees, of Boston, to John F. Wallace, president of the Chicago real estate board.

The consideration is withheld, but the actual price is said to be around $150,000. Mr. Wallace gave back a part purchase money mortgage for $85,000.

The building, which is a four story and basement structure, has a frontage of 223 feet on Cottage Grove, 85 feet on Twenty-third street, a south line of 148 feet, and a west line of 200 feet. It contains thirteen stores on the ground floor and thirty-nine apartments on the upper floors, and its gross annual rental is said to approximate $15,000.

The building was erected in 1891, just prior to the world's fair, at a cost of about $150,000, by Charles T. Whitaker, who had leased the ground from the Lymans for a term of ninety-nine years at an annual rental of $8,700, which is 5 per cent on $175,000. In 1896 he conveyed the building and leasehold interest to the Lymans.

The latter were represented in the present transaction by Aldis & Co.

Edward F. Bagley and Henry C. French, as trustees under the will of John P. Taylor, have purchased from Justus Mortenson the apartment house property at 4937-4939 Calumet avenue for $27,000, subject to an incumbrance of $10,000. The lot is 50x128 feet and is improved with a three story and basement building containing six apartments.

Apartment House Sold.

William H. Totten of George G. Newbury & Co. has sold for Albert Atkinson to D. B. Hathaway the property at the southeast corner of West Lake and Lincoln streets, 75x116 feet, with three story brick building containing three stores and twelve flats, for $27,500.

Eugene C. Pomeroy of Mamaroneck, N. Y., has conveyed to John C. Pruyn of New York City the flat building at the southwest corner of Byron street and Southport avenue, 50x150 feet, north front, for $1, subject to an incumbrance of $28,000; also the flat property at the northwest corner of Byron and Perry streets for $1, subject to an incumbrance of $25,000. The transaction is said to be of a formal character, Mr. Pruyn taking title for convenience.

The Continental Bolt company has acquired a tract of ten acres at Forty-third and Leavitt streets and the Pennsylvania tracks, which comprises a part of the sixteen acres to which Samuel H. Hodge of McKinney & Hodge took title last week. The consideration is withheld, but it is announced that the purchasing company will at once proceed with the erection of a large plant, the initial buildings to cost not less than $100,000. Plans are being prepared, and as soon as they are completed and the contracts let, the work of construction will begin.

Benedictine Order Purchaser.

In a deed recorded during the day P. Neuzel conveys to the Bohemian Benedictine Order of Chicago an undivided half interest in the property at the southwest corner of Winchester avenue and Sixty-third street, 104x125 feet and 52x125 feet at the southeast corner of the streets named for $5,000. The organization is said to plan improvements costing about $25,000.

The period of redemption having expired Peter Engwick has acquired by master's deed from Marin M. Klein and others the property at the southwest corner of Washtenaw avenue and Crystal street, 61x115 feet, with improvements for $21,360.

The Sanitary Laundry company, by Fred N. Peet, president, has given a trust deed to Itha H. Bellows, trustee, to secure a loan of $60,000 three years at 6 per cent secured by the property in Madison avenue 236 feet south of Sixtieth street, 100x208 feet, and other property. This is subject to a trust deed and chattel mortgage executed Feb. 9 to the Chicago Title and Trust company for $75,000.

R. D. Hill & Co. have made an extension of a loan for $20,000 five years at 4½ per cent, secured by the property at 202 Lake street; also $20,000 for five years at 4½ per cent on the property at 35 Michigan avenue, and a loan of $17,500 five years at 4½ per cent to Ellie L. Hagenbuck, secured by the property at 408-410 Dearborn street.

Warehouse Is Loan Security.

The Chicago Title and Trust company is trustee in a loan of $50,000 one year at 5 per cent to Miss Sarah M. Horton, secured by the property at the northwest corner of Sangamon street and Grand avenue, 117x116 feet, with brick warehouse improvements.

Simon W. Straus has made a loan of $34,000 five years at 6 per cent to Samuel Polakow on the Spaulding apartments at the northeast corner of Spaulding avenue and Sixteenth street.

H. O. Stone & Co. have made a loan of $32,500 at 5 per cent to John W. Worthington on the apartment property at 814-820 East Forty-fifth street, just west of Drexel boulevard. This property is valued at $75,000. The buildings have just been completed and are all occupied.

They also have made a loan of $30,000 at 6½ per cent to George J. Williams on the apartments fronting 124 feet on Sheridan road at the southeast corner of Galt avenue. This property is valued at $100,000 and was built five years ago and mortgaged at that time for $65,000.

Paul C. Loeber & Co. have leased for Frank Cuneo to the Phillips-Getschow Co., dealers in steam heating apparatus, the four story and basement building at the northeast corner of Kinzie street and La Salle avenue at a term rental of $42,000. The building has been occupied for years by Halsey Bros.

SLIGHT DECREASE IN TRADE VOLUME

Higher Breadstuffs, Rising Securities, and Storms Given as Causes.

CONSIDERED TEMPORARY.

Country Buyers Still Attend General Merchandise Markets in Large Numbers.

In its weekly review of Chicago trade Dun's Review, published today by R. G. Dun & Co., will say:

"A slight comparative decrease in the volume of payments through the banks, additional storms interfering with freight movements, rising security markets and yet higher levels for breadstuffs and meats furnish the outstanding features of current developments.

"There also is a slower flow of new demands in prominent branches of manufactures, which is due to temporary causes and does not weaken confidence in the general business outlook. Commercial defaults in both number and liabilities make the best exhibit thus far this year and the position of credits is encouraging and favorable to larger use of capital.

Easier Tendency in Money.

"Other gratifying factors which impart strength are the easier tendencies in money and the steady progress which appears in production of the mills and factories. In most lines orders booked assure constant running throughout the year.

"Supplies of the principal raw materials in metal and wood working come forward in adequate quantities and the rapid absorption testifies to substantial improvement.

"While iron, steel, and equipment contracts show falling away, there is much work now being planned in heavy construction, track needs, factory additions and new enterprises, all involving large investment and assuring sustained employment of machinery and labor. Rail producers continue filled up with forward business and there is sustained activity in plates, merchant iron and structural shapes.

"Furnace outputs are not in excess of requirements, and other metal working branches gradually employ more hands, there being gains in shipments of foundry, forge work, implements, heavy hardware, and electrical supplies.

"Some accumulation appears in hides, with prices more favorable to tanners, and the buying is steady in leather, footwear and novelties.

"Building materials again are under widening request for the coming spring work. Lumber receipts barely equal expectation and buyers experience difficulty in securing desirable grades, especially for furniture making and interior finish.

Heavy Delivery in Some Lines.

"Movements of commodities reflect heavy deliveries of factory products, grain, general merchandise and dairy products. Weather conditions were mainly favorable for marketings of the cereals, but dealings in breadstuffs and provisions indicate moderate cash demand and increasing speculative operations.

"Country buyers attend the general merchandise markets in remarkable force and the buying is broad in dry goods, millinery, clothing, shoes, and house furnishings.

"The total movement of grain at this port, 8,414,773 bushels, compares with 9,973,824 bushels last week, and 6,066,594 bushels a year ago. Compared with 1909 increases appear in receipts 55.1 per cent and shipments 19.9 per cent. Flour receipts were 139,012 barrels, against 163,374 barrels last week and 157,970 barrels a year ago, but the shipments were only 122,501 barrels, against 168,449 barrels last week and 127,148 barrels in 1909.

"Receipts of live stock, 276,627 head, compare with 264,439 head last week and 247,166 head last year. Receipts of hides were 3,205,290 pounds, against 3,785,799 pounds last week and 2,268,177 pounds in 1909.

Falling Off in Wool.

"Receipts of wool fell to 19,510 pounds, against 30,100 pounds last week and 340,500 pounds last year.

"Lumber receipts, 38,102,000 feet, compare with 37,801,000 feet last week and 38,284,000 feet a year ago.

"Compared with the closings a week ago, cash prices are unchanged in choice cattle, but higher in oats, ⅛ cent a bushel; wheat, 1¼ cents; corn, 1½ cents; flour, 5 cents a barrel; sheep and ribs, each 50 cents a hundredweight; hogs, 55 cents; lard, 57½ cents a tierce; and pork, $1.12½ a barrel.

"Bank clearings, $263,551,680, are 2.8 per cent under those of the corresponding week in 1909 and compare with $204,509,990 in 1908.

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number 19, against 33 last week, 25 in 1909, and 41 in 1908. Those with liabilities over $5,000 number 5 against 7 last week, 6 in 1909, and 12 in 1908."

Confidence Is Strengthened.

New York, Feb. 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

"Improved financial conditions serve to strengthen business confidence. Sentiment in iron and steel is more cheerful now that the United States Steel corporation has entered the market as a buyer of pig iron, although the situation on the whole in this division remains disappointing.

"The dry goods jobbing trade was more active this week, and a large sale of dress goods in a leading New York house proved eminently successful. Many buyers have been operating in all departments of the market, but show no speculative spirit. Export cotton goods trade is lacking. The larger woolen and worsted corporations are securing business, but the smaller concerns are not making satisfactory headway. Yarns continue slow and generally weak.

"Improvement is noted in the shoe trade; buyers no longer hesitate; a good volume of orders are received and factories are well supplied. The leather market shows renewed activity, and some large sales of sole leather are reported at Boston at close to the recent quotations."

Expansion in Jobbing Business.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Trade reports are more cheerful. Visible evidence of expansion in jobbing trade, in consonance with the advance of the season, are found in the reports that the large numbers of buyers in leading markets have taken hold more freely. Jobbing trade at the east is slower to open up, but there is certainly more doing in jobbing at New York, while primary dealings are still classed as quiet. Inquiry at leading markets fails to substantiate the exaggerated reports of cancellations noted for some time past, and there are few signs of the widely heralded reaction in distributive trade.

"The least favorable feature in the country's trade at present is the continued sagging in export trade in farm products, an effect easily traceable to the high prices ruling for breadstuffs, meats, animals, and cotton. In connection with this it might be noted that all high price records in western markets since 1870 were broken by live hogs this week.

"Business failures in the United States for the week ending with Feb. 17 were 269, against 249 last week, 282 in the like week of 1909, 326 in 1908, 177 in 1907, and 186 in 1906."

Bank Clearings of the Week.

Bradstreet's bank clearings report for the week ending Feb. 17, shows an aggregate of $3,127,193,000, as against $3,517,918,000 last week, and $2,484,922,600 in the corresponding week last year. The following is a list of the cities:

MARQUETTE CEMENT MANUFACTURING CO.
MARQUETTE PORTLAND CEMENT
MILLS LASALLE ILL.
CHICAGO

Best, Not Largest, Exhibit at the Cement Show

We haven't made the biggest showing at the show because Marquette Cement isn't made for show but for eternity; the test of a cement isn't at an exhibition any more than the test of a soldier is dress parade, but in actual service in fighting-time and in fighting time, that's where the real soldier or the real cement stands out. Marquette stands every test, including Time's test.

Booths 64 and 65 at the Coliseum. If you can't come to the show, write Chicago office for booklet.

DEATHS.

IN MEMORIAM.

GILMORE—Matilda Gilmore.
Heaven now retains my pleasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps,
Where the sunbeams long to linger,
Where my lasting wife does sleep.
Yet again I hope to meet Matilda,
When days of life have fled,
In heaven with joy I'll greet her,
Where no farewell tears are shed.
By her husband and children, John, Ethel, and Evelyn Gilmore.

FREE LOTS
South Haven, Michigan.

To advertise our new subdivision at South Haven we are going to give the first 500 people who call at our Chicago office one lot each, absolutely free.

You know that it costs a great deal of money to advertise in the papers, and we have decided to take this means of advertising this beautiful subdivision, located on the banks of Lake Michigan and only a short distance from the town of South Haven.

Remember we will only give 500 of these lots away, and then we will place the balance on sale at from $50 to $200 each.

Every one knows what a popular place South Haven is and we are satisfied that the lots in our subdivision will double in value in the next six months, and if you are fortunate enough to secure one of the FREE lots you are sure of making money if you should decide to sell.

We will run an excursion to South Haven as soon as navigation opens up, and you will be able to take advantage of this trip and look our subdivision over.

Don't delay or you will lose an opportunity of a life time.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or incomes from other sources], who want large or small sums confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 min. from loop district], and my being the president of a large wholesale vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show my standing] and not a professional money lender, assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where money lenders congregate. My customer's names and address are known only to me; my employes know accounts only by serial number. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking so much that the average straightforward citizen realizes that exorbitant charges for any time are burdensome. My average price, all charges positively included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, often less, depending on risk and amount loaned. Individual waiting rooms. MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

BUYING A USED PIANO FROM LYON & HEALY is absolutely a safe transaction—Because: There isn't a used piano on our floors but that has had a thorough overhauling and is in first class playing condition. Worn parts have been replaced with new ones, actions have been perfected, and in many instances the cases have been refinished. Do not be readily misled by low prices quoted elsewhere on used pianos, but remember in many cases we have actually spent from $50 to $100 to put our used instruments in order.

BIDS PUBLIC COME TO PERKINS TRIAL

School Board President Says Hearing of Architect Will Be Open.

DELAYS FULL CHARGES.

President's Accusations Easily Answered, Asserts the Suspended Official.

The trial of School Architect Dwight H. Perkins, suspended from office under charges of incompetency, extravagance, and insubordination, will be open and public. At the regular meeting of the board of education next Wednesday a motion to suspend the rules, which provide that sessions of the trial committee shall be executive, will be offered. The motion will not be opposed by President Alfred R. Urion.

President Urion stated in a letter to the Municipal Art league of Chicago yesterday that a representative of that organization will be welcomed in attendance at the trial. The welcome also will apply to other civic organizations which have interested themselves in the controversy. The letter of President Urion, written in reply to a mild protest from President Ralph Clarkson and Secretary James W. Pattison the day before, contained the following:

"I assume, of course, that your league would not countenance nor recommend a sacrifice of seating space, thereby preventing our taking children from the streets and placing them in a position where they may receive proper training and education, for the furtherance of art, and for art's sake alone.

No Seats for 10,000 Children.

"There are today in the city of Chicago nearly 10,000 children who are without adequate seating facilities, due in a large measure, as will be developed, to a shifting population and extravagant expenditures in providing unnecessary and uncalled for outlays of from $20,000 to $40,000 a building, none of which add to educational requirements, but rather to lavish display in certain artistic directions. The board will be glad, indeed, to have a representative of your league, who is temperate and well balanced, present at the trial on the charges preferred against the architect touching extravagance and incompetency."

President Urion made no reply to the letter of Mr. Perkins asking that more specific charges be preferred against him.

"I have received Mr. Perkins' letter, but have not answered it and do not intend to," he said. "Specifications of the charges will be given Mr. Perkins by the trial committee when it meets and sets the date for his hearing. Mr. Perkins knows perfectly well that under the rules of the board the specification of the charges will accompany notice to him of the calling of his trial. But nothing will be done before the next meeting of the board."

Pleased to Get Open Trial.

Mr. Perkins expressed himself as highly pleased at the prospect of an open trial.

"That's all I ask—the opportunity to tell the public what I have done and to answer to them the charges that may be preferred against me. As for charges thus far made, I can answer them before the trial committee without taking up much time. But I am glad that they are to be made specific."

Mr. Perkins moved out of his office in the rooms of the board of education, taking a few personal effects to his office in the Hartford building. He will have free access to the architect's department in the board rooms, however, to prepare for his trial.

Dividend payers

Everybody is interested in how to make money, and one of the best ways yet discovered is to follow that good old maxim: "The way to make money is to save it." It's almost wickedly extravagant to go on using ruinous old-fashioned heating methods.

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

for Hot-Water and Low-Pressure Steam heating will quickly pay for themselves in their large fuel economies and absence of repair bills. They do not stop saving money for you at that stage, but continue as long as your house lasts. Your full 100% investment is returned, yet the savings-dividends keep right on. Can you ask for a better, safer, more sensible investment than that? Buildings so equipped bring 10 to 15% higher rentals—or when sold, command the full higher price. IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators also pay other good dividends—their soft, even warmth protects the family health, their cleanliness reduces one-half the drudgery of house-cleaning by banishing ash-dust and soot from the living-rooms, and save much wear on furnishings and decorations.

A No. 182 IDEAL Boiler and 265 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN RADIATORS, costing the owner $138, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage.

A No. 1-23-W IDEAL Boiler and 422 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $220, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage.

At these prices the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include cost of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which installation is extra and varies according to climatic and other conditions.

Tell us of building you wish to heat. Our information and catalog (free) put you under no obligations to buy. Write to-day. Prices are now most favorable.

ADVANTAGE 17: The joints of an IDEAL Boiler do not come in contact with the fire—nor will they rust. Hence, an IDEAL Boiler outlasts the building—yet because built in sections it is easily increased or decreased in size if building is later altered.

In All the World

No more attractive trips can possibly be found than those to

AGWI

The American Mediterranean

MORE beautiful and more interesting than France, Spain, Italy, Egypt, or the Orient; nearer home and less expensive to the pleasure-seeker, more resultful to the explorer, and furnishing new material for historic research; a region where rigorous northern winters are exchanged for perpetual summer, sunshine and flowers.

BEST COMBINATION TOUR OF THE SEASON

Cuba: 4 days from New York, one week at Havana, the American Paris, continuing thence to

Yucatan: 2 days from Havana, one week at Progreso, Merida, and the celebrated Mayan Ruins—older than those of Egypt. Continuing to

Mexico: Vera Cruz, 1 day from Progreso, thence overland through a delightfully picturesque mountainous country to Mexico City—with all the attractions of Spain—and continuing northward with liberal stopovers at points of interest in the Mexican Republic; thence to Texas: including stop-over at San Antonio, one of America's most beautiful resorts, with the historic Alamo and the ancient Spanish Missions; returning from Galveston by steamship direct to New York.
